Pork President Urges Producers To Attend Keystone Congress

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff
MECHANICSBURG (Cumberland Co.) — If you're a hog farmer, take time to attend the Keystone Pork Auction's first benefit auction to help the industry and your business.

The auction will take place on Wednesday night at 6 p.m. at the Penn Harris Inn at Camp Hill.

By bidding on several pork-related items donated by the industry, your money will contribute to the Keystone Pork Congress fund to defray costs of the Congress and to help the pork industry.

Kent L. Strock, president of the Pennsylvania Pork Producers Council (PPPC), urges farmers to attend the Congress. The council reports to the National Pork Producers Council, which administers the pork checkoff program.

Active Pork PACs

The PPPC is working to establish a special pork PAC, or political action committee, according to Strock. "Several other states have pretty active pork PACs," he said. Farm organizations such as the Pennsylvania Farmers Association have ag-related PACs, and it was time for the state pork industry to be represented, according to Strock.

At a recent interview at his farm,

Strock spoke about the ongoing activities of the PPPC and the upcoming Keystone Pork Congress.

Strock said the Council coordinates all functions of the Congress, including registration, boot rentals, youth activities, the banquet, and the awards program. At this year's Pork Congress, the focus will be on hog profitability and the market outlook.

Speakers will include John Gadd, a specialist and pig consultant from Dorset, England, who "will be speaking from the European angle to the group this year, as part of our educational program," said Strock. Other speakers include H. Louis Moore, agricultural economist, on the outlook for

Attend Sale Before Banquet

To benefit the Keystone Pork Congress fund, pork producers are urged to come early to the banquet Wednesday evening and participate in an auction of items donated by agribusinesses associated with the pork industry. Hog equipment, breeding stock credits, feed, and other items will be for sale.

Proceeds are used for promotion of the industry in areas not covered by the checkoff funds. The auction starts at 6 p.m. at the Penn Harris Inn at Camp Hill.

Kent L. Strock, president of the Pennsylvania Pork Producers Council (PPPC), urges farmers to attend a special auction to benefit the industry on Wednesday night at the Keystone Pork Congress at the Penn Harris Inn at Camp Hill. Strock manages Scent-National Pignic, which specializes in roasting hogs for special occasions.

Foreign Dairy Producers Not A Threat Now, But They Could Be

KARL BERGER

Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Do foreign dairy interests take advantage of trade rules to undercut American producers?

Is this a valid concern or paranoid xenophobia?

Those questions became, somewhat unexpectedly, the focus of the recent Dairying Today meeting in Walkersville, Md., an educational session sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service.

Typically the kind of affair at which farmers nod off after lunch, the meeting this year featured a crew from a Baltimore television station and several local dairymen upset about topics ranging from the effectiveness of the National Dairy Board to the rules governing the importation of foreign dairy products.

The answers, not surprisingly, seem mixed. According to the experts who spoke at the meeting and several interviewed later, foreign farmers may get some breaks, but the end result matters little to U.S. dairymen. On the other hand, their impact could increase dramatically if new arrangements are agreed to under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT).

WARRENDALE (Allegheny Co.) — The Pennsylvania Junior Holstein Dairy Bowl contest was held here during the Junior Holstein Convention. There were 29 teams competing in two age divisions: 17 junior teams and 12 senior teams.

In the junior division, a team from Cumberland County completed a perfect day by going undefeated to win the title. Team members are: Matthew Day, David Day, Heath Ocker, and John Leib, Jr. Their coach is Ann Day.

The runner-up team from Clarion/Venango included Matthew Neeley, Sami Willyoung, Franny Adams, and Chad Smith. Their coach is Doug Neely.

In the senior division, the team

Mennonite High Joins FFA

Lancaster Mennonite High School became a charter member of the Pennsylvania Future Farmers of America, Inc. (FFA) at the annual state convention in Harrisburg in conjunction with the Farm Show. Ag teacher Lehman Metzler, Principal Richard Thomas, and several students accepted the charter. The private school has 48 students enrolled in FFA.

In the photo with the school's new FFA charter is Jason Charles, president and Angela Baker, secretary.

National Egg Market

Wednesday, February 12, 1992

NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE: Prices were unchanged to lower in the Midwest and the North Atlantic areas, and unchanged elsewhere. The market tone continued barely steady to weak. Demand in all channels remained poor to moderate, occasionally better where featured. Supplies were adequate to ample, and surplus eggs traded at discounts. Breakers were unaggressive buyers of extra shell eggs, and prices continued to drop. Finished product sales were light, and for immediate needs only. Live hen markets were at least steady, and offerings were light to adequate for the moderate to good demand.

New York Egg Market

Wednesday, February 12, 1992

Prices were lower. Trade sentiment remained weak. Demand was poor to moderate. Floor stocks were at least adequate with most distributors intentionally holding inventories at light levels. Surplus eggs were readily available.

Delmarva Broiler-Fryer Market

Wednesday, February 12, 1992

Movement of ready-to-cook broiler fryers ranged light to fair, and about as expected for mid-week trading. Supplies were barely adequate on lighter sizes, adequate to fully adequate on heavier sizes. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 47 - 58 cents. Live supplies were adequate, with average live weights ranging desirable to heavy. Processing schedules were heavy. Trade sentiment was steady. In the parts complex, all items were adequate for immediate needs.

National Grain Market

St. Joseph, Mo.

Wednesday, February 12, 1992

USDA DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN MARKET SUMMARY FUND LIQUIDATIONS CONTINUED TO DRIVE WHEAT PRICES LOWER WEDNESDAY; CORN AND BEAN PRICES REGAINED PART OF YESTERDAY'S SHARP LOSSES ON CIS ANNOUNCEMENT AND COMMERCIAL BUYING ON THE BOARD. WHEAT 3 TO 13 CENTS LOWER. CORN 2 TO 3 CENTS HIGHER. SOYBEANS 1 TO 5 CENTS HIGHER. WHEAT PRICES CONTINUED DOWNWARD FROM ACTIVE FUND SELLING ON THE BOARD, DESPITE USDA'S ANNOUNCEMENT YESTERDAY OF CIS COMMODITY MIX FOR FEBRUARY REQUIREMENTS. HOWEVER, REPORTS CIS BID FOR 700,000 TONNES U.S. HARD RED WINTER WHEAT AND OVERNIGHT SALES TO JAPAN AND SOUTH KOREA, LIMITED LOSSES IN WHEAT PRICES. CORN AND BEAN PRICES RECOVERED SOME OF YESTERDAY'S SHARP DECLINES AS INCREASED EXPORT ACTIVITY SPARKED HIGHER TRADING. CIS IS EXPECTED TO BID FOR 450,000 TO 470,000 TONNES U.S. CORN FOR FEBRUARY AND WAS ALLOTTED 10.5 MILLION DOLLARS IN U.S. SOYBEANS. BEAN PRICES ALSO RECEIVED SUPPORT FROM IDEAS CURRENT LOW PRICES MAY ENCOURAGE FURTHER EXPORT BUYING FROM OTHER IMPORTING NATIONS.

EXPORT NEWS: 325,000 METRIC TONS U.S. CORN DELIVERED TO CIS FOR 91/92 MARKETING YEAR.

105,000 METRIC TONS U.S. CORN TO UNKNOWN DESTINATION. MEXICO BOUGHT 20,000 TONNES U.S. SOYBEANS FOR MARCH SHIPMENT.

New Funk's G brand hybrids deliver consistent performance even under the stress of heat, drought, marginal soils or disease pressures. So you'll get virtually risk-free performance in good years — and in bad years.

Backed by CIBA-GEIGY research

You see, these hybrids are backed by nine years of CIBA-GEIGY Seed Division research. With local testing in growing conditions just like yours. That kind of research produces hybrids capable of standing up to anything mother nature has to offer. Hybrids that maximize your profit potential, while minimizing your risks.

Get complete performance

Plus, you get performance across the board. With big yields. But with 95% or better standability... 25% or less moisture... and intactness ratings under four. And you get all that in the maturity groups you need to spread your risks even more.

Limit your risks

Get risk-free performance on your farm today by calling Hoffman Seeds, Inc. You'll enjoy the peace of mind that comes from planting these new Funk's G brand hybrids.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

FEB. 17-23, 1992

Full Snow Moon, Feb. 18.

Feb. 18, 1678, Pilgrim's Progress, by John Bunyan, is published. Feb. 19, 1878, Thomas Alva Edison receives a patent for the gramophone. Feb. 21, 1866, Lucy B. Hobbs graduates from the Ohio College of Dental Surgery, becoming the first woman to receive a D.D.S. degree. Feb. 22, 1630, at the first Thanksgiving dinner, Quadequina, brother of chief Massasoit, introduces popcorn to the colonists. What is now proved was once only imagined — William Blake

Ask the Old Farmer: I am refinishing an old marble tabletop which is rough and dull. How can I smooth it and bring a shine to it? B. A. Conn Get some putty powder (zirconium oxide) from a monument works. Sprinkle the powder on a piece of damp felt and rub until you get the shine you want.

Home Hints: Line cedar chests with acid-free paper to protect clothes from possible resins.

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

New England: A cold snap with flurries to start the week. Midweek brings a change to milder weather, with rain, snow in the mountains. Cold on the weekend.
Greater New York-New Jersey: Clear and very warm for the first half of the week, then more cold and snow. This month's average is 35° F, 4° above normal.
Middle Atlantic Coastal: Cold and snowy to start the week, then turning clear and warm. The end of the week has intermittent rain and mild to seasonable temperatures.
Piedmont & Southeast Coastal: Sunny and cold as the week begins, then clearing and warming. The week ends with rain followed by more clear skies.

OPINION

Just As Important As Electing A President

Lots of discussion has gone into the proposed state nutrient management law — specifically House Bill 496, which passed the Democratic-majority House on June 10, 1991, and has since been under consideration by the Republican-ruled state Senate Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee.

Since no action has been taken by the Senate ag committee on the proposal, some have accused the committee of stalling on the legislation for political posturing.

On first glance, it would seem that holding the bill in committee since June would be prima facie evidence of political posturing. But there is no real motive to do so. Gov. Casey has nothing to gain or lose with nutrient management. The House Democrats are not at odds with House Republicans (except one) over the issue.

All farm organizations and environmental groups have had their representatives testify before either the governor's select committee on nutrient management and/or the House Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee that they support the intent of the legislation.

The reason those on the Senate committee have not brought the House proposal forward for work is because they want to hear more about the issue before they sign off on it and make recommendations to other senators.

Those representatives can hardly be blamed for wanting to know more about what they sign their name to and eventually promote.

Also, thanks to the economy, the presidential election year, the political redistricting, Gov. Casey's give-then-take budgeting, and a slew of other considerations before the state's legislative bodies, as a whole, the Senate's priority for considering nutrient management legislation has slipped.

It's understandable. But not acceptable. Since almost everyone agrees this is something we need, let's get the work done to make it happen.

We also support the intent behind the proposal, but as it stands, wording of the bill needs some revision to fully support the intent of those who drafted it. The agricultural community must ensure that any proposal coming out committee is well crafted and intelligently considered.

But given the broad support of this legislation, we believe it is important to get to work on it now. Just as important as electing a president.

To Test

Home Water Supplies

If your home water supply is from a well or spring, you should test your water annually for coliform bacterial contamination.

Although most coliform bacteria do not cause illness, they are easy to test for and are used to indicate the possibility of disease causing microorganisms being present in the water supply, such as salmonella and hepatitis.

If your water test reveals contamination, there are three treatment methods available to you. These are chlorination, ultraviolet disinfection, and iodine disinfection.

Shock chlorination of the well may be sufficient to solve the problem. Also, continuous chlorination could be installed. Ultraviolet disinfection kills the organisms by exposing them to ultraviolet light. Iodine disinfection is an effective method of disinfecting water supplies but there is concern about the health effect of drinking iodized water for long periods of time. Therefore this method is not recommended for home use.

To Practice Safe Sliding

When snow falls, both children and adults look forward to many hours of sledding and tobogganing. But winter fun may be dangerous.

According to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, more than 50,000 people receive emergency room treatment annually for injuries related to sleds, snow discs, and toboggans.

There are a number of causes for these accidents. Old sleds with mechanical or structural problems may be at fault. These old sleds may splinter, break, or the steering mechanism may fail.

ABC District 16 meeting, Centerville U.M. Church, 7:30 p.m. Master Food Handler Workshop, Penn State University, thru Feb. 21.

Bradford Co. DAIRY Day, Troy Middle School, Troy, 9:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m.

Agricultural Business Management Series, Corry Higher Edu-

(Turn to Page A31)

Injuries often occur when sleds collide with other sleds, stationary objects or moving cars. Parents and children should keep safety in mind when heading to the snowy hillsides.

Children should learn how to roll off their sleds to avoid collisions. Also, children should stay out of streets and traffic intersections when playing in the snow.

When purchasing a sled look for sturdy construction, easy steering mechanism, secure handholds, and avoid sleds with sharp jagged edges or protruding rivets.

To Rotate Alfalfa

Alfalfa growers have known that seeding alfalfa in old alfalfa sod and grass sod is often very unsuccessful. A field experiment conducted in Illinois looked at the negative affects the previous crop had on alfalfa seeding.

Autotoxicity (the effect alfalfa has on alfalfa) and allelopathy (the effect grasses or other plants have on alfalfa) effects on new seeding of alfalfa were evaluated.

Thirty days after planting, the alfalfa seeding populations in plots seeded back to alfalfa had only 1/3 the number of plants as the control area. Seedling height in those plots was 48 per cent of the control height.

The only grass sod that affected alfalfa seeding numbers was Kentucky Bluegrass. The only grass which affected seedling height was orchardgrass. Reed canarygrass, tall fescue, timothy and smooth brome grass had no effect on alfalfa plant populations or height.

Feather Prof's Footnote: "If you see people without a smile — give them one of yours."

ON HAVING IT ALL

Background Scripture: Philippians 2:1-11.

Devotional Reading: John 13:1-17.

There are certain passages in the Bible, any one of which if taken seriously, I believe, could save the world. One of these is the ancient Christian hymn contained in Philippians 2:1-11. The fractious state of affairs in our communities, institutions (including the church), nations and world could be healed if we could get people everywhere to heed and live by these words: "Do nothing from selfishness or conceit, but in humility count others better than yourselves. Let each of you look not only to his own interests, but also to the interests of others." In other words, my diagnosis of the world's ills is galloping self-interest. It is the key to public corruption, community decay, and international strife. Without it, there could be no drug problem, Aids epidemic, mushrooming crime, or ecological disasters. In short, there is nothing wrong in our world today that the universal adoption of the "mind of Christ" could not solve and heal.

GIVING VS. GETTING

Great! So why don't we get cracking on this? The reason people are not lining up in droves to attain "the mind of Christ" is that, from the world's point of view at least, it is not very appealing to us. To be sure, we'd love and adore the results, but the way of getting them explicit in these words is a turn-off for great majorities both outside and inside the churches. This is the age of "Me First." The operative adverbs today are "my" and "mine." So the implications of self-sacrifice are something that most of us don't want to even consider. We want to "have it all" today and self-denial is not the way to get it.

If you doubt that, just look at what Paul characterizes as "the mind of Christ": ... who... did not count equality with God a thing to be grasped, but emptied himself, taking the form of a servant... and humbled himself and became obedient unto death, even death on a cross" (6-8). Don't let that out — it would play havoc with our church membership efforts. People join churches because of what they can get, not what they can give. Let's not scare them away with all this self-denial stuff!

Self-denial has a pretty bad image in our society. The mercantile message is just the opposite: Don't deny yourself something you really want! You owe it to yourself! Don't wait; get it today!

WINNING VS. LOSING

When we look more closely at Paul's letter in the church at Philippi, however, we realize that society has this idea of self-denial all wrong. Nowhere is this more evident than in the example of Christ: "... he humbled himself and became obedient unto death, even death on a cross" — that's the part that seems so unattractive to us, but there's more: "Therefore God has highly exalted him and bestowed on him the name which is above every name, that at the name of Jesus every knee should bow..." (2:9,10)!

So, by being obedient, by humbling himself, by taking the form of a servant, and submitting to the cross Jesus did not lose anything; he gained. The glory that God has bestowed upon him could never have been his had he not been willing to be "obedient unto death." And what was true for Jesus Christ is true for us as well; ultimately self-denial is not a way of losing, but of winning. Taking the form of a servant is not self-denial so much as it is self-affirmation — the self we save here being the true self — the mind of Christ — not the false self, the ego.

The only way we can really have it all is to be willing to give it all away. Try it!

PUMP OUT PIT FAN

Many manure storage pits have been constructed without providing for ventilation of the pit, particularly in buildings constructed several years ago when pit storage was first popular.

A non-ventilated pit results in a build-up of harmful, caustic gases, such as carbon dioxide, hydrogen sulfide, methane, ammonia and mercaptans. Hydrogen sulfide and carbon dioxide are heavier than air and, as the level of pit waste rises closer to the slats, the gases are forced closer to the animals. Results of inhaling these gases may be deep, fast breathing from CO₂. Hydrogen sulfide is one of the most toxic gases to animals and humans associated with liquid manure storage. This gas can cause severe irritation to the eyes and respiratory system and sometimes can result in death.

The right hybrids are still the best way to lower your cost of production.

Some of us were talking at coffee the other day about ways to cut our input costs for corn. One thing some of us are doing is to band our herbicide over the row instead of broadcasting it. We figure that probably saves us $10 per acre.

Then I was looking at my own costs later and saw that Jacques 7820 was my biggest yielder last year by about six bushels over my next best hybrid. Even with corn at around $2.25, that's over $13 more per acre. And nobody at coffee thought about cutting costs by spreading them over more bushels!

Don't get me wrong. I'm still going to look for all the ways I can to cut production expenses. But the other side of that equation is bigger yields; and that's where my Jacques 7820 comes in.

Doebler's 1992 silo fillers

HERE'S WHAT OUR SILAGE TRIALS TELL US.

by Bill Camerer

There's no guessing about our silage hybrids. I pull forage wagons up on four digital platform scales to get harvest weights, photo right, then take random samples of silage for lab tests, above.

This is our fourth year testing corn silage hybrids, and it's lonely out there. To the best of our knowledge, Doebler's is the only Eastern seed company testing and evaluating silage hybrids.

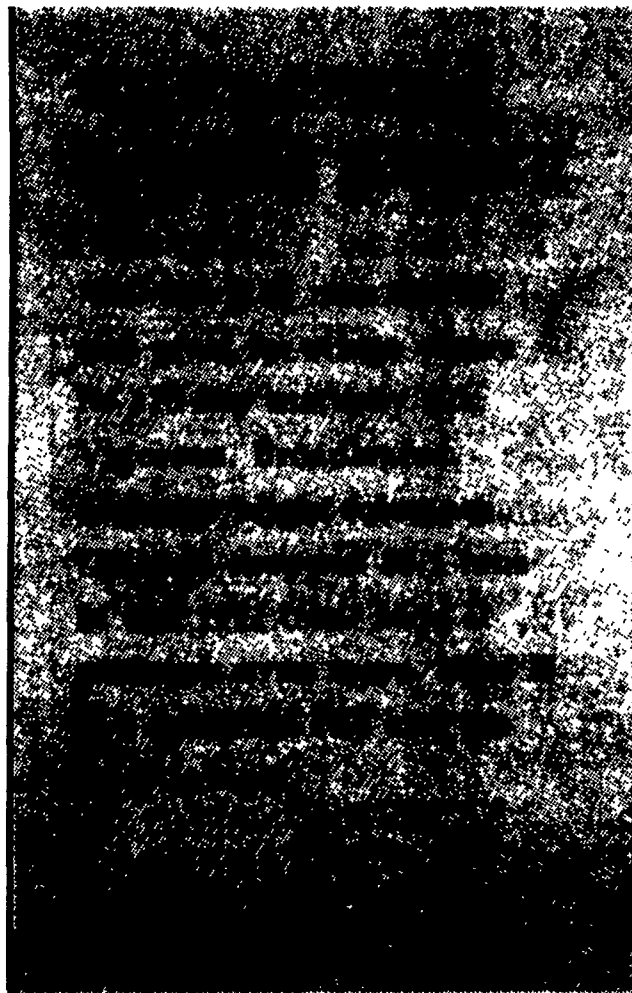

Our farm trials in 1991 were scattered from Lewis County, New York to Highland County, Virginia. Each silage hybrid was weighed immediately at harvest, and the silage tested by an independent lab.

After four years a pattern is developing.

1. The same hybrids are consistently near the top.

2. Tonnage leaders are also protein and TDN leaders.

3. Silage quality varies dramatically from year to year and field to field.

How we rank 'em for 1992

These silage hybrids headed our farm trials year after year. Research indicates they'll do it for you in '92.

Late maturity

Doebler's 944-3 way, 125 days. Huge ears, rank growth. 1991 silage best: 24.97 tons....84XP, big tons, big protein yields.

Medium late

Doebler 75XMOD, 113 days. Led pack 1988, 89, 90....But 75X was tops in 1991 for tons, protein and TDN.

Medium maturity

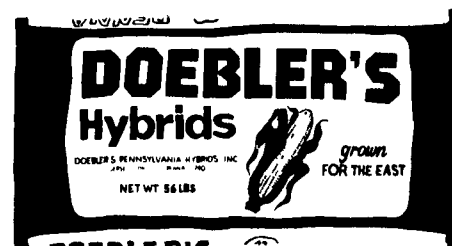

Doebler 66XP, 103 days, 1990 best for tonnage, protein, TDN. But give 650A-3 way four stars. 73XP and 64XP close.

Medium early

Take your pick. New 61X, 101 days or dependable 59X, 98 days. 61X gives you more TDN, less broken stalks than 65X.

Early maturity

Super single 45XP, 92 days. It heads our list but not by much. Also leaders 370A-3 way, 35XP and 29XA.

How To Manage Farm And Family Finances

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

BEDFORD (Bedford Co.)—David Kohl, professor of agricultural economics at Virginia Tech University, brought an enthusiastic and optimistic message to the farmers of Bedford County at Dairy Day held at the Arena Restaurant.

"Farmers should be pulling out of the recession they began feeling ten years ago," Kohl said. "The recession has now shifted to the rest of the economy."

Kohl predicted that with the "chip taken off of the baby boomers' shoulders," the economy would see a shift.

"Future Americans may learn to live with one car and a lot less than their parents had," Kohl said. His statistics included the fact that 48 percent of the American farms are debt-free.

"The average American farm has $2.66 of debt for every dollar of income generated compared to $13 of debt for every dollar of income during the farm crisis."

"This figure, unfortunately, has now shifted to the general economy," Kohl advised.

He noted that while the Japanese can compete with America in building cars, cameras, or computers, they cannot begin to compete in the world of agriculture.

"Get the government out of farming and keep it out," Kohl warned. "Farm programs direct payments have been cut in half since 1986 and most likely will be cut by 50 percent by 1995. "The government does nothing but create false booms," he said.

While 65 percent of American farms report use of non-farm earnings, Kohl did not feel this was bad. "One of every two businesses use outside income for support," he said.

The average family living and income taxes for a family of four on the farm is $26,000 to $30,000 annually. "This is where you must watch," advised Kohl.

Dave Gordon, Regional Water Quality Specialist, at Penn State University, called water quality a "science," at the annual Bedford County Dairy Day sponsored by the Bedford Extension. "The earth has 326 million cubic miles of water," he said. "Of this, 94% is salt water, two percent is ice and three percent is ground water which is not usable. That leaves 1/2 of 1 percent of usable water."

Gordon stated that, despite adverse media reports, farmers are, in general doing a good job at managing their water systems.

He said, sink holes are a prime source of contamination and advised farmers not to put anything in the ground they wouldn't want to drink.

Along this same line, he told farm wives that "household chemicals are a major source of contamination. "Don't throw them away outside," he said.

Gordon also advised farmers not to drain antifreeze in the driveway or to dump oil from the tractors or cars into the ground. "Sooner or later, it will get into the water."

Melissa McDonald and Dan Machael, chat with Jerry Parry at the Bedford Dairy Day.

"It's easy for that figure to climb. You buy Pepsi and Little Debbie cakes and don't realize where the money is going."

Like the rest of the nation, farmers are finding that medical costs will be the biggest expense threat on the cash flow statement. "It's important to have adequate medical coverage," the advice continued. "At least 60% of all medical costs are occurred in the last six months of life. And this can amount to thousands and thousands of dollars."

"Today," continued the professor, "there are twenty farmers over 55 for every one under 35. This is encouraging to the younger generation. Last year, 2/3 of all ag graduates found jobs."

"Prime agricultural areas, like Bedford County, are experiencing steady increases in land values," Kohl said. "Meanwhile, other areas are experiencing a steady decline."

Kohl advised all farmers to keep some cash on hand. "Don't invest your excess money in another farm. Keep some cash around to pay for emergencies." His formula was three to six months in family living expenses. "Then, if the truck breaks down or the furnace blows up, you can pay cash."

He also advised those with loans to get a fixed interest rate. "Interest may go down, but there is a lot bigger chance it will go up."

"Any successful farmer must be able to cope with a five percent drop in farm revenue, a five percent rise in farm expenses, and a three percent rise in variable interest."

To determine solvency, Kohl used this formula: Take your total debt and divide by total assets. Then, divide owner equity by total assets. Finally, divide total farm liabilities by total farm equity. "If equity drops below 40%, you are vulnerable," he said.

Cattlemen Hear Expert

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent
CHESTNUT RIDGE (Bedford Co.)—Dr. Mary Beth Bennett, Animal Welfare Project Associate of the Department of Dairy and Animal Science at Pennsylvania State University, was the guest speaker for the annual Bedford Cattlemen's Association dinner.

Held at Amick's Family Restaurant, Dr. Bennett told those in attendance of ways they might deal with the animal rights situation farmers are now facing.

She cited two separate groups. "PETA (People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals)," said Dr. Bennett, is, "uncompromising, educated, well funded, vocal, and has limited public support."

"It is useless to talk to this group," Dr. Bennett stated. "They will not listen to reason and will not be logical. If they should attend any of your cattle shows, ignore them." She said that their regulations are so strict, they don't even believe in keeping animals as pets.

"Although," she added, "I know many of them who have pets."

The Animal Welfare group, according to Dr. Bennett, is not as well funded. They are vocal, but will compromise. "And," she added. "You can talk to them. They are reasonable."

To overcome all of the objections raised by animal rights activists, Dr. Bennett recommended the following: Research, identifying and correcting inadequacies, better guidelines, public education, and communicate with who you can.

She cited one of the best arguments against those would say, "There is too much grain being grown for animals. The same grain could feed millions of people."

"People do not eat corn stalks," Dr. Bennett said. "They don't eat alfalfa and they don't eat the stalks of wheat."

Two awards were awarded by club treasurer, Jim Fisher to outstanding club youth. They were

Dairymen Receive Management Tips At Farmer Day

INTERCOURSE (Lancaster Co.)—Management tips and the prevention of disease highlighted the presentations by Dr. Don Jaquette, Master Mix dairy nutritionist, from Decatur Ind. The nutritionists spoke here at Sensenig's Feed Mill Farmer Day held last Friday.

Jaquette said forage quality was very important. "We can't emphasize forage quality enough," he said. "There is no way as a feed company we can make up totally for poor quality forage."

When purchasing forage, Jaquette said you need to know more than the crude protein level of the alfalfa. Many factors, such as maturity, temperature and light affect forage quality. In addition to protein, hay should be considered as an energy source. Forage analysis should be done on each load of hay to see what is needed to balance the ration and also to determine the quality of the purchased hay.

"Sometimes dairymen get lax in their management practices when production reaches high levels," Jaquette said. "But when production is good, that is when you cannot forget preventive things like mastitis control, hoof trimming, vaccinations and parasite control."

Since the milk pricing structure is headed toward solids and protein, farmers need to be more aware of milk components. Jaquette said breeding and feeding affect milk components. But genetics affects protein more than feeding. While feeding can increase fat from 3.2% to 4.0%, protein will vary only several tenths.

"Farmers need to start to look at both fat and protein in their breeding programs," Jaquette said.

The program, that included lunch, was attended by more than 100 farmers.

Will Discuss Techniques

PORT CLINTON (Schuylkill Co.)—Members of the Pennsylvania chapter of the Organic Crop Improvement Association (OCIA) will hear a discussion of improved vegetable production and marketing techniques at their February meeting, chapter president Jodi Snyder announced.

The meeting, open to all farmers and the general public, will be held at 7 p.m. on Feb. 26 in Room A-1 of the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

Snyder said the meeting will feature presentations by Drew Norman and Cass Peterson, both operators of OCIA-certified vegetable farms, as well as a general membership discussion of approaches to organic growing.

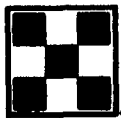

Norman, owner of the One Straw Farm at Baldwin, Md., will discuss steps for improving soil fertility. Peterson, co-owner of Flickerville Mt. Farm & Groundhog Ranch in Fulton County, will talk about innovative marketing procedures and the production of high-value specialty crops.

Inquiries about membership in the Pennsylvania chapter of OCIA may be directed to chapter president Snyder at Great Bend Organic Farm, Box 158, Port Clinton, PA 19549, (215) 562-5502.

Farmers Must Reconsider Application, Use Of Pesticides

ANDY ANDREWS

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.)

— Traditions often die hard, but some traditions are worth changing because of the long-range environmental impact they may have on us all.

In the past, when applying pesticides to their field, many farmers sometimes passed over a sinkhole and thought little of it. The boom sprayer stayed on, or the manure applicator kept rotating. But now, geologists know that sinkholes are a direct source to groundwater — and that water could be you or your neighbor's homestead well water.

That's the message delivered on Tuesday to those attending the 31st annual Lancaster County Crops and Soils Day. John Yocum, head of the Landisville Southeastern Agronomy Research Laboratory, spoke on the topic, "Limiting the Environmental Impact of Pesticides."

"If we didn't have a problem, we wouldn't have to limit the impact," said Yocum. Yocum spoke about recent studies undertaken by various agencies that discovered that, indeed, some herbicides were turning up in wells.

Perception of problem

"Although we have not found very many wells that are above the advisory levels . . . there is a perception of a problem here," he said.

While the evidence of pesticides showing up in wells is extremely low, the public perceives it as a problem that agriculture must address.

He spoke about a Midwest study of pesticide contamination of wells that examined about 430 wells and found that only 13 percent had evidence of pesticide contamination. In the Mississippi River area, samples were taken at various areas and researchers determined that atrazine was detected year-round in most of the sample locations.

"They calculated that 1 percent of the applied atrazine out there in the Midwest on those farms would up at the mouth of the Mississippi," said Yocum. "That's not good, no matter how you look at it."

Watching application site

In this area, according to Yocum, farmers must concentrate on watching the application site and being especially careful about surface water pollution. Nitrates from manure are also of top concern, a problem that farmers must learn to manage.

Also, the methods in which farmers apply pesticides have to be carefully considered. Yocum stressed the importance of safety when applying pesticides.

In some cases, farmers carelessly fill their sprayers with a garden hose and don't use some type of flow restrictor.

"And some of that happened in Lancaster County this past year," he said, "where people were filling sprayers with garden hoses and it backsiphoned and they wound up with spray materials in their wells."

Prevent backsiphoning

A restrictor or some type of flow

check valve is critical to prevent backsiphoning into the well.

It could happen that, in certain instances, a hose used to fill the pesticide tank could be lying there, and "somebody comes into the farm during the summer when it's hot and dry, they pick up that hose and try to take a drink of water, don't they?"

Certain wells that are hand-dug rather than concrete-cased can fall victim to pesticide or nitrate pollution. Yocum said farmers should make sure the pesticide mixing and storage sites are at least 50 feet away from the well head and the well be protected with casing. Also, containers should be disposed of properly, away from ponds and other sources of groundwater infiltration.

Also, following good conservation practices is the key — by keeping soil erosion from carrying the herbicides and nitrates to a water source. "Maybe we need to do less moldboard plowing, more chisel plowing, or more no-tilling so that we have more residue on the surface."

Be more conscientious

Yocum advised the farmers to be more conscientious in managing the soil. "Don't plow right out against the road," he said, because rain drainage can easily carry the soil and any pesticides or nitrates applied to groundwater sources. Grass buffer zones should be used near roadways, ponds, and creeks.

"I think we need to do some of these things on our own before they're dictated to us," he said.

Yocum discussed several studies that indicated that pre-emergent pesticides are more likely to leach to groundwater than those applied post-emergence to a plant that is growing. Also, several new technological developments are paving the way to more safety both for farmers and the environment, including:

- New 2½-gallon no-glug pesticide containers that contain air sections to prevent glugging, which may be safer to use and less likely to cause a spill.

- Laminated pesticide bags which are easier to use, won't wet the pesticide, and can be incinerated.

- "Lock and load" systems which are made to easily attach to mixing tank or drop tank to drop pesticide directly to applicator hopper (a totally closed system).

- Soluable packs, which contain the exact amounts of needed pesticide which, when dropped into the tank, readily dissolve. There's no container to dispose of and no contact to the farmer.

- Returnable containers, which some companies are working on to reuse. The farmer would simply return the containers for a refund.

"The nice thing about these is that you don't have to handle the pesticide," said Yocum.

Plants stressed

"Very seldom a year goes by where the plants aren't stressed — they're either too wet, too dry, too cold . . ." said O. Elwood Hatley, Penn State agronomist, who spoke about "Cropping Strategies for Environmental Stress."

To combat what may turn out to be another dry year much like 1991, for 1992 the best defense is a good set of records and knowing what types of crop to plant under certain soil conditions, according to Hatley.

"1991 was a stressful year on plants," he said. "Even though we don't know what the summer holds out there, I can tell you right now, the time when we'll have the hottest and driest period of the year . . . if we're going on probabilities, that's probably July and August."

Corn and any other plants are most sensitive to drought and heat stress during their early reproductive phases. For corn, that comes about 60 days after emergence, at silking and pollination. During that time, a window of 10 days opens when the plant can recover if enough rainfall occurs.

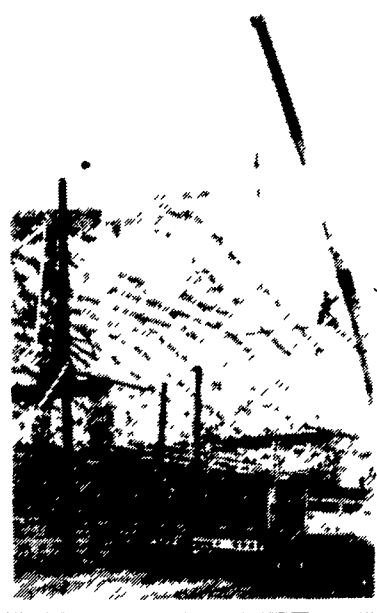

Soybeans sensitive

Soybeans are most sensitive to early pod set. In 1991, many of the flowers fell off because of a lack of moisture. At planting, where the seeds require substantial moisture, is another critical time.

Farmers must keep careful records of their soil types and records on a yearly basis on how crops were affected by rainfall in order to more adequately prepare for a possible dry and stress-filled growing season.

Also, the weather patterns we are in now, with the El Nino effect and the cycling nature of Pennsylvania patterns, dictate that farmers more carefully consider soil types, planting conditions, and selecting appropriate hybrids to deal with times of possible plant stress.

from Perry County came back from an earlier defeat to win the double-elimination contest over the team from Somerset County. The Perry team included Marel Raub, Lisa Hass, Colleen Kretzing, and Jenny Hummel. Their coaches are Logan Bower and Peggy Raub.

Somerset team members are Thaddeus Will, Matthew Weloch, Jenny Welch, and Heather Welch. Their coaches are David and Connie Welch.

The winning Cumberland and Perry County teams will represent Pennsylvania in the National Holstein Dairy Bowl contest to be held June 28 to July 1, 1992 during the National Holstein Convention in Salt Lake City, Utah.

The Holstein Dairy Bowl junior division winners are, front, Matthew Day, and David Day. Back, John Leib, Jr., and Heath Ocker, with Coach Ann Day.

Distinguished Junior Members

WARRENDALE (Allegheny Co.)—Six finalists and the winners were recognized at the Junior Holstein Convention, last week. The finalists were chosen from a field of 14 contestants. Each was selected based on a scrapbook listing activities and leadership involvement in Holstein work, school and community activities.

The winners are Matthew Lawrence, son of Paul and Penny Lawrence; and Suzy Stutzman, daughter of Mike and Barbara Stutzman.

Other finalists were: Erica Davis, Kutztown; Dianne Glock, Mifflin; Craig Walton, Carlisle; and Wade Sturgeon, Fombell.

In the senior division, David Lentz, son of Robert and Sandy Lentz and Matthew Wanner, son of Alfred and Carolynne Wanner were the winners. These two young people will represent Pennsylvania in the National Distinguished Junior Member contest at the National Holstein Convention in June.

Other finalists in the senior division were: Brian Chapman, Waterford; Dirk Sattazahn, Womelsdorf; Eric Stine, PA Furnace; and Scott Youse, Oley.

All-Pennsylvania Winners

WARRENDALE (Allegheny Co.)—The 1991 Junior All-Pennsylvania show awards were presented to the winning junior members at the Pennsylvania Junior Holstein Convention. There are fourteen classes recognized in the Junior All-Pennsylvania contest.

John Foster III, received one Junior All-Pennsylvania award and two reserve awards. Justin Burdette, had an All Pennsylvania and a Reserve All-Pennsylvania winner. Thirty-five other juniors received recognition the the contest. There were 71 entries.

Boyer Recognized

WARRENDALE, (Allegheny Co.)—The Pennsylvania Junior Holstein Association recognized Bridgette Boyer, York, for developing a herd of Registered Holstein cattle that enabled her to receive the Junior Progressive Breeder award. Bridgette bred and developed at least three cows that met the criteria set forth to earn the award. Her cows are: Sunnabend Sexy Icicle-B Star Ex-90, 5-10y

Scholarship Awards

Warrendale (Allegheny Co.)—The Pennsylvania Holstein Association recognized four individuals for their work with Holsteins, community involvement, school activities and leadership abilities. Each of these young men was a recipient of the Pennsylvania Junior Holstein Achievement Scholarship. The scholarship is a $500 award to be used for education.

305d 25,767m 1028f; Sunny Bend Kitten Bootmaker VG-87, 5-04d 305d 23,339m 885f; and Sunnabend Nicole Russ Sexation GP-81, 2-04y 305d 18,279m 733f.

Boyer was recognized for her achievements at the Junior Holstein Convention last week.

The scholarship winners this year are: Brian Chapman, Waterford, Erie County, who will attend, Penn State, Delaware Valley or Virginia Tech.

Michael Hensel, Newburg, Cumberland County, will attend Penn State, Delaware Valley, or Pittsburgh.

Eric Stine, PA Furnace, Centre County, will attend Sire Power Breeding School.

Matthew Wanner, Narvon, Lancaster County, attends Penn State.

Each winner has demonstrated outstanding accomplishments in their chosen fields of study and work. The scholarship funds come from monies donated to the fund set up by the Pennsylvania Holstein Association.

Foreign Dairy Producers

pay into the promotion fund accumulated from the mandatory 15-cent assessment on U.S. dairymen.

Charles Riemenschneider, chief staffer for Senate Agricultural Committee Chairman Patrick Leahy (D-Vt.), said there is congressional support for including importers in the promotion check-off, as is now done for several other commodities. However, he said, "the (Bush) administration opposes this because they say it's a trade barrier and we can't do that."

On the other hand, Ed Coughlin, an analyst with the National Milk Producers Federation, the main lobby for the nation's dairy cooperatives, said there is a valid reason for not assessing importers.

"How can you rationalize assessing a promotion assessment on something at the same time you place a limit on how much can come in?" he asked.

Imports of most of the common dairy products, including cheddar and mozzarella cheeses, butter and butter oil, ice cream and even evaporated milk are limited under Section 22 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1933. The U.S.

government sets annual quotas on the amounts of these products that can be brought into this country. Although several exceptions have occurred over the years, these quotas generally have limited imports to a tiny fraction of the U.S. marketplace.

Total imports of all dairy products, both those under quota and those for which no limitations exist, totalled 2.7 billion pounds on a milkfat basis in 1990, according to U.S. Department of Agriculture figures. During the same year, total domestic production was 150 billion pounds. Moreover, exports of U.S. dairy products exceeded imports by roughly 50 percent.

Another gray area is the extent of the health and safety regulations faced by foreign producers and whether their standards are comparable to those met by U.S. dairymen.

The safety of the domestic milk supply is overseen by the federal Food and Drug Administration, working in conjunction with state regulatory agencies. However, FDA has no foreign jurisdiction and standards are equalized, if at all, only through agreements with other governments, Coughlin said.

Critics of the current system claim that a high rate of violations reported by FDA personnel who check foreign products when they enter this country is evidence that standards are lower elsewhere.

However, the rate may be misleading for several reasons, according to an FDA official who declined to be quoted. Most of the violations involve improper paperwork, not actual product defects, he said. Also, FDA personnel tend to concentrate their spot checks on shipments that have a history of problems, thereby also raising the violation level.

Although the equal standards issue may be of little significance now, given the tiny market share of imports in the domestic market, it may become vastly more important if some of the GATT proposals under discussion are realized.

Dr. Larry Hamm, an agricultural economist at Michigan State University, said a relaxation of current quality standards would be likely if the United States begins to import more dairy products, given the difficulty of enforcing such regulations across international boundaries.

More importantly, he said, widespread importing of foreign dairy products would disrupt the complicated pricing system that has evolved in this country.

"The price support (program) cannot work if Section 22 goes," Hamm said.

The ongoing GATT negotiations, which continue to deadlock over the issue of agricultural trade, embody a major threat to U.S. dairymen, according to Hamm and others.

Under a proposal now on the table (the so-called Dunkel draft), the United States would convert its Section 22 quotas to tariffs — direct fees that are levied on foreign products. The proposal would also reduce, but not eliminate, the use of subsidies — or government payments to make exports cheaper than the domestic cost of a product.

"Right now, as I see it, the dairy industry is a net loser," Riemenschneider said.

National Milk officials say that acceptance of the Dunkel proposal would shortchange U.S. dairymen by removing quotas without simultaneously ending subsidies. This would lead to the dumping of other countries' surpluses in the U.S. market, they claim.

However, the prospect of any kind of GATT agreement is very unlikely in this election year, observers say.

Accurate and precise in worked fields, too.

White 6100 planters have gained a well deserved reputation for planting with incredibly accurate spacing at precisely the right depth.

Our short 18" aerodynamically designed seed drop and independently acting walking beam gauge wheels see to it. And our low-pressure, air metering system and edge drop seed disc singulates seeds to avoid doubles or skips.

Best of all, the row splitter and wide array of attachments allow you to plant in nearly any field condition--no-till, min-till or finely-worked--with row widths ranging from 15" to 40".

Martin Recognized As Stockmans Club Benefactor

CHRIS McCAHREN
Juniata County Correspondent
STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.)— At the winter meeting of the Penn State Stockmans Club, the late Eugene M. Martin was the name most recently added to the growing list of benefactors for the Penn State Stockmans Club. A benefactor can be any person who donates $500 or more towards the Penn State Judging Team fund to help pay the expenses of the livestock, horse, and meats judging teams. The benefactor program has only been in effect for about one year. It was established when members of the Penn State Stockmans Club saw the need to ensure the continuation and importance of the judging teams. Many colleges have had to eliminate or restrict their judging teams due to limited budgets and increasing expenses associated with traveling to judging contests. With the continued support of the benefactor program, Penn State's judging teams will have the moral and financial support that many other colleges do not.

Eugene M. Martin was born and raised on his family's farm around the Chambersburg area. Upon graduation in 1961 from Penn State with a B.S. degree in Animal Science, Martin began his career with the U.S.D.A. as a federal meat grader. From there he was promoted to more progressively responsible positions within the Meat grading and Certification Branch in Los Angeles, California, Omaha, Nebraska and eventually Washington, D.C. There from 1985 till his death from cancer in 1990, he served as Chief of the Meat Grading and Certification Branch.

In his memory and honor, his co-workers collected the funds posthumously which were contributed to make Eugene a benefactor. At the Stockmans Club meeting, a U.S.D.A. co-worker from Washington, D.C., Barry Carpenter and his wife Janet, came to tell of their fortune to have known and worked with a person such as Eugene Martin who was very dedicated to agriculture and the livestock industry. His name is added to the list of other benefactors which includes Henry Gruber, Robert Houston, Peter Krall, James Wert, Dean Snyder, Hatfield Quality Meats, and Ned Kocher. These names are on a plaque displayed in the Tradition Room in 311 Henning Building at Penn State's Main Campus.

Also at the meeting, the new directors for the Stockmans Club were introduced who included Mary Shick, Keith Bryan, and Terry Musser. Block and Bridle Club Advisor, Dr. Harold Harpster discussed plans for the upcoming 75th Little International Livestock Show to be held April 11 at the Ag Arena. The special celebration will begin on Friday, April 10 with a "Welcome Back Alumni" luncheon from 11 a.m. - 2 p.m. at the Ag Arena followed by the Annual Stockmans Club Banquet that evening. The Block and Bridle and Stockmans Clubs are looking forward to recognizing one of the longest-running livestock shows of any college in the country. It will be a "homecoming" well worth attending.

S600 BALE PROCESSOR

Engineered & Designed By Van Dale...

ONLY ONE OF ITS KIND ON THE MARKET TODAY!

BALED HAY CAN NOW BE MIXED

Baled hay can now be processed into a condition suitable for mixing with other TMR materials in all types of mixers: auger, tumble or reel type. With the Van Dale Bale Processor, you can incorporate baled hay into your ration with less stress on your mixer and be assured of getting the maximum benefit from both your hay and your mixer.

ELIMINATES THE DUST AND MESS

The Van Dale Bale Processor uses a hydraulic ram to push the hay bale through a set of hardened steel knives slicing it into a more mixable 4" to 6" average length material without pulverizing the fragile materials in the bale.

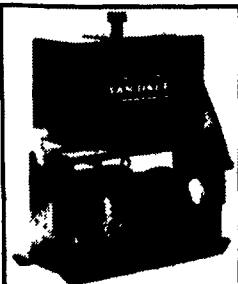

FEED THE LEAVES-NOT JUST STEMS

Don't let your valuable feed nutrients disappear in a cloud of dust. Unlike a conventional bale chopper or tub grinder with high speed cutting knives which turn leaves into powder, the Van Dale Bale Processor retains up to 97% of the valuable leaf portion of your hay to be incorporated into the TMR ration.

OPTIONAL ACCESSORIES • 3 point hitch attachment • Four knife cutting • 5' discharge chute

Power Pack
Hydraulic pump driven by a 5 HP electric motor provides a consistent power source. Power pack generates 9 GPM at pressures up to 2000 PSI.

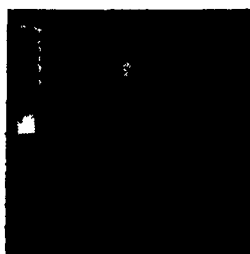

3 Point Hitch

Transport the processor to the bales by utilizing a tractor for both mobility and as an alternative hydraulic power source

4 Knives

Quick simple conversion from the standard 3 knife, 6" spacing, to an optional 4 knife, 5" spacing, for a shorter, finished cut length and easier mixing.

Chute

5' discharge chute extension adds up to an additional 2 1/2' to the discharge height for stacking or redirecting processed material.

- 5 HP hydraulic power pack
- Adaptor kits for use with Van Dale Orbit II Mixer

The the exhibit building on the Lebanon Fair grounds was filled with special farm equipment displays for two days this week. Sponsored by Cedar Crest Equipment and Automated Farm Systems, area farmers had a chance to meet with sales representatives. Dyna-Tech and Ag-Tronis Systems were also present. About 500 farmers visited the exhibits and attended the auction that was held on Wednesday afternoon. Lunch was served each day. Above: part of the crowd that visited the farm equipment displays sponsored by Cedar Crest Equipment and Automatic Farm Systems. Action Results From DHIA District Meetings

A recent series of District meetings of Pennsylvania Dairy Herd Improvement Association resulted in the following actions. The Southeast District meeting was held on Tuesday, February 11, 1992, at the Berks County Agriculture Center. On February 12, 1992, the Southwest District met at Somerset's Ramada Inn. The Venango County 4-H Extension Office hosted the Northwest District meeting on Thursday, February 13, 1992. Some of the topics covered at the meetings included: Changes to the Herd Management Awards, the value of records, communication with members, an update on reorganization, the status of member enrollment, an update of new member invoices, an overview of the new PA DHIA computer system, followed by the 1992 elections. Results from the District Elections are as follows:

Southeast District: State Director - Joe Graybill, Lancaster County; District President - Robert Wenger, Lancaster County; District Vice President - Robert Yanos, Berks County; District Secretary - Larry Aaron, Lancaster County.

Southwest District: State Director - David Meier, Somerset County; District President - William Jackson, Fayette County; District Vice President - John Grice, Washington County; District Secretary - Diane Lydic, Indiana County.

Northwest District: State Director - Ralph Gilkenon, Erie County; State President - Buzz Reidel, Warren County; State Vice President - Ken Hyde, Crawford County; State Secretary - Pete Leise, Mercer County.

Statement with Regard to the Joint Meeting of Representatives of Pennsylvania and Lancaster

County DHIA's on February 7, 1992

Members of the Red Rose Lancaster DHIA reorganization committee and a special committee appointed by the Pennsylvania DHIA held a very cordial and productive meeting in State College, PA on February 7, 1992 regarding a new working relationship between the two associations.

The Lancaster County association, represented by John Howard, Clifford Blank and Jay Mylin, and Pennsylvania DHIA, represented by Frank Orner (Clearfield Co.), William K. Jackson (Fayette Co.), Dr. Lawrence Spencht (Penn State Extension) and James Garrity (PA DHIA Staff) agreed to the following points:

1. In accordance with a resolution adopted by PA DHIA on January 8, 1992, local associations, including Lancaster County DHIA, that wish to remain independent will be able to do so. Additionally, those associations will be responsible for managing their own field services.

2. A draft proposal regarding Quality Certification and Minimum Operating Standards for the Lancaster County DHIA was reviewed and found suitable to use as a basis for a refined version. In addition, a list of operating and membership governance issues were reviewed and discussed.

3. Another meeting of the committees was set for March 6, 1992 in Hewshey, PA. The committees will meet then and will continue to meet with a final resolution on the question of processing records pending the outcome of a report by the newly organized Pennsylvania DRPC Advisory Committee.

Mid-Atlantic Brown Swiss Calf Sale Set

FREDERICK, Md. — This year's Mid-Atlantic Brown Swiss Calf Sale is to be held on Saturday, April 25, at the Frederick Fairgrounds, in Frederick, Md., starting at 11 a.m.

This annual sale has gained quite a track record for calves sold. Many have developed into national show quality animals, state and national bell ringers, all-Americans, and profitable additions to many herds.

Now is the chance to consign a heifer to this sale — check those calf pens and pedigrees and see what can be offered.

This sale has been a great place to buy a 4-H project and has also provided some top-pedigreed calves for the merchandising and investment buyer.

We are looking for a strong group of calves that combine a unique blend of production and sound type. Don't miss this opportunity to get a consignment in this sale.

There were three heifers just named as Maryland Junior Bell Ringers which were consignments from the 1990 and 1991 calf sales.

They were: Senior heifer calf owned by Robert Sigler, Oxford, PA., Spring yearling heifer owned by Adriane Eader, Frederick, MD.,

and Winter yearling heifer owned Chris Birch, White Hall, MD.

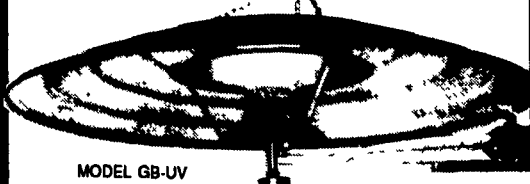

If you are interested in consigning a heifer, or wish additional information about the sale, please contact: Howard Fleming (301) 475-3440, Harold Long (301) 271-7577, or Cindy Warner (301) 371-5206.

Please don't delay—the sale committee would like to have the pedigrees by Friday, March 27, 1992 to get the catalog completed in plenty of time for interested buyers to review.

"I saw the difference right away!"

Max Reapsome, Loysville, PA

That's how Max Reapsome recalls his beginnings with Fertrell fertilizer — over 12 years ago! Starting with top dressing alfalfa, Max soon began using Fertrell fertilizers more widely. Here's why: "With Fertrell the quality of my feed is better. It allows my cows to get more nutrition out of the same amount of feed or less. Plus, my herbicide use has been reduced 30 to 40 percent and I haven't needed pesticides for over 8 years! And that saves me money."

Just ask for Fertrell representative to develop a personalized fertilizer plan for you. He'll analyze your soil's elements, your crops and growing conditions, and show you how to balance all three so you can "see the difference right away!"

BARN PAINTING SPRAY & BRUSHING

To farm building owners — Under today's farm economy it is time to reduce maintenance frustrations.

Do you remember of hearing of barn painting of approximately 75 years ago that it stayed nice longer? lasted 25 years?

Observation #1 In recent years many of these good old barn surfaces have been ruined by overcoating, poor preparation and application, lack of controlled paint placement and film thickness. The time is coming to salvage our buildings (a) Start over (b) Water blast (c) RESURFACE (d) Use solid stain to penetrate on bare spots! (e) Second coat with a breathing film thickness (f) Brush out in all directions with finest of bristles.

Really it is not as complicated as the recent changing regulations on clean milk production, or wet soils, or zoning. It is also less expensive than other barn painting experiences!

Observation #2 Colored water (latex) is less desirable for farm buildings. There is a long list of reasons for this.

Observation #3 Todays painted metal siding and roofing has a remarkably short life. Bad alloy or metal. There might be another list of reasons for this. To save it at reasonable coating cost - timing is important.

Observation #4 Today's wood selection for siding etc. is also poor. How about recycling building material?

Dairylea Sponsors Young Farmer Seminar

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Recognizing that young farmers are those who will give the dairy industry direction and leadership, Dairylea Cooperative is sponsoring an informational seminar for members ages 20-40.

On Feb. 21-22, Dairylea's Young Farmers will hold their annual seminar at the Holiday Inn in Syracuse, N.Y.

During the seminar, Young Farmers will have the opportunity to hear about several issues pertinent to their industry. These include: new environmental regulations, milk quality, farm safety and cash-flow planning.

A presentation on the national dairy outlook will be given by Dairylea President Clyde Rutherford. Chief Executive Officer Rick Smith will address the cooperative's progress during the past year.

In addition, the Young Farmers will attend a banquet where they will hear Paul Sears address "Cooperative Thinking." Sears is former chairman of the National Milk Producers Federation Young Cooperators Advisory Council.

Dairylea, a Syracuse-based dairy cooperative with 2,400 farmer members throughout the Northeast, participates in a milk marketing network stretching from Maine to Maryland to Ohio.

(For more program location and times, consult the schedule included with this article.)

Keystone Pork Bowl contest and the Junior Public Speaking Contest. In addition, the event features the Pork Council Women's business meeting and the Congress banquet and awards presentation.

This year, about 54 commercial booths will be set up at the concurrent trade show.

Strock said hog producers can learn many new ideas at the Congress. "You hope when you go to a function like that you pick up a few ideas that maybe you can take back home to work with," he said. "Of course, the people in the booths hope that they'll get leads for products they can sell.

"But from our Pork Council standpoint," said Strock, "we would hope that people come away with some good ideas, not only from vendors but from our educational meetings."

Chance to showcase

The Congress gives the PPPC a chance to showcase what they have done as a Council for the year, according to Strock. Strock said the banquet gives people a chance to understand the promotional program and what the PPPC has done during the year for the industry.

"Most people have been pretty favorable to the format of the Congress," he said. Strock said that the Pennsylvania Performance-Tested Boar Sale, held on Wednesday at State College, may someday be combined with the Congress, which the state organization helps sponsor. "We're going to look pretty hard at that," he said.

The PPPC is "a grassroots organization," he said. "In a lot of ways, it is like the Pennsylvania Farmers Association. It's much smaller because it's a commodity organization, and our funding is through the checkoff program for the most part, but we have a couple of other sources of revenue, too."

The PPPC is the decision-making body that handles the funds of the checkoff program. The annual budget of the state Council is $160,000. The funds are allocated for promotion, advertising, youth programs, and research that the organization supports.

Checkoff money

The checkoff money, which is paid at .35 of 1 percent, can be spent in only one of four areas: consumer education, promotion, research, and producer education. To calculate approximately how off program failed.

Strock has been president of the state Pork Producers Council for two years. Right now, the local group to which he belongs is the South Central Pork Producers Association. Other groups include Lancaster (Lancaster and Chester counties), Eastern Pork Producers (Berks and Lehigh counties), and other groups.

"One of the biggest problems is that we need a few more people from the western part of the state to come to the meetings," said Strock. "We don't have much representation from the western pork producers. I suppose it's a long way for them to travel to the meetings."

Membership fees

Some of the local groups charge membership (the Cumberland group charges $5 per year), but membership fees can be determined by the locals. "They run their own show," said Strock. "We don't tell them what to do, and I don't think we should."

The group now is concentrating specially on the pseudorabies program, "a topic that we've had to deal with several years now," he said. "And that's been a problem we've spent a lot of time thrashing around."

Strock raises about 2,600 hogs a year, many of which he sells to Groff Meats in Elizabethtown. He farms about 87 acres with about 140 sows, and the balance of inventory is about 1,400 total head of hogs.

Together with wife, Raelene, Strock also operates a hog and poultry product stand at the Broad Street Market in Harrisburg. He also manages Scent-Sational Pignic, which specializes in roasting hogs for special occasions.

Lot of work

Scent-Sational Pignic takes a "lot of work and a lot of time," he said. "The work's not hard, but it's very time-consuming, because it takes a minimum of six hours to cook a small pig, and if you cook a

Sheep Association Sets Meeting

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The Lancaster County Sheep and Wool Grower's Association will hold their sixth annual meeting on Monday, February 17, at 7 p.m. at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center.

Highlighting the evening will be a presentation on "Creative Skills to Market Easter Lambs" by Perry County sheep producer Eric Conrad, who along with his wife Mary operate Windy Hill Corriedale Farm in Millerstown. Eric will share his secrets to successful direct marketing for profitability.

Those attending the meeting are invited to bring along their favorite sheep books to display and share with others. A brief business meeting will be conducted by President Ed Donough, followed by election of delegates to the board of directors.

Anyone interested in sheep, curious about direct marketing, or yearning to become involved with the association should attend. For more information, contact Chester D. Hughes at the Lancaster County Cooperative Extension Office, (717) 394-6851.

large one, you get tied up for about 12 hours."

Strock grew up on the family homestead next to the farm. His father, Clyde, managed beef cattle, hogs, and turkeys for many years, and rents about 400 additional acres. Kent Strock and family have been farming at the location since 1985, but have been farming "off and on" since about 1977, after Strock taught at a junior college in southern Minnesota for a few years. He moved back to the Mechanicsburg area in 1981.

The Strock children — Kyle, 14; Rebecca, 10; and Kurtis, 8 — help on the farm. "I had them castrating pigs a few weeks ago," said Strock. "But I'm set up here so things are pretty much a one-man operation — moving sows, moving pigs."

"But whenever we scan pigs, then I get all three of them out there. They really like that."

"Awesome," a 4-1/2 year old Yorkshire boar, has sired many litters at the Strock farm.

NCGA CHAMPIONS

HYTEST SEEDS has announced its 1990 winners in the National Corn Growers Association Yield Contest.

James C. Justice, Beckley, WV was named National Champion, Class A, non-irrigated div. with a yield of 228.6753 bushels per acre using HYTEST HT686.

Joe Hasbrouck Jr., Kingston, NY was named New York State Champion, Class A, non-irrigated div. with a yield of 202.7297 bushels per acre using HYTEST HT650A.

PROVEN PERFORMANCE

HYTEST with 9 state winners in 1990, has placed in the top four nationally for 4 years. It's a record of performance that many large seed companies envy.

RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT

A regional farm seed company, established in 1912, HYTEST employs the same careful breeding, testing and selection process that went into producing these champion hybrids, into all of its varieties. And they're all potential champions!

Young Farmers Hold Convention In Philadelphia, Visit Lancaster

PHILADELPHIA—The Pennsylvania Farmers' Association (PFA) hosted the American Farm Bureau's annual young farmer and rancher leadership conference at the Hilton and Towers.

After a two-day program over last weekend, the 425 young farmers and ranchers, aged 30 and under, from 22 states and as far away as Germany, toured Lancaster County farms on Monday.

Boyd Wolff, Pennsylvania's ag secretary, and Edith Eckel, president of PFA, welcomed the group to Pennsylvania. Also greeting the group was Beth Laughlin of Lewistown, Mifflin County, chairperson of PFA's Young Farmer and Rancher Committee.

Laughlin, who has attended two previous conferences, said the event gave many opportunities for interaction with young farmers from across the country. "You learn as much from meeting other people at the conference as you do from the formal sessions," she said. "It's also a great opportunity to improve your confidence in dealing with a group of this size."

U.S. Congressman Fred Grandy (R-Iowa) addressed the group's opening banquet Saturday. Dean Klechner, American Farm Bureau, addressed the conference Monday morning.

The tour of Lancaster included three Amish farms; the Paul Zimmerman family farm at Ephrata and the Lapp Valley Farm at Kinzers.

Glenn Shirk, Lancaster County dairy agent, left, talks farming with visitors to the Paul Zimmerman farm at Ephrata. These young farmers and ranchers came from 22 states and as far away as Germany as part of the American Farm Bureau conference held in Philadelphia over last weekend.

COMMERCIAL STAKED TOMATO PRODUCTION IN NEW JERSEY (The Short-Stake System)

By Philip E. Neary, Gloucester Co. Agricultural Agent

Staking tomatoes can substantially improve fruit quality and yield. It is a highly specialized production system with many advantages and some disadvantages. The most important advantage is the improved fruit quality and yield, but other advantages include: ease of harvest, improved spray coverage, larger fruit, and fewer culls. Disadvantages include: higher levels of management labor required, a high initial investment, and higher production costs per acre. The advantages will outweigh the disadvantages when all production inputs are optimized. Growers must utilize proper cultural practices to optimize production.

There are various techniques that can be used to stake (trellis) tomatoes. The short-stake system is presently the most appropriate for staking tomatoes on a commercial scale. The components of the short-stake system include: a determinate variety that terminates its growth at about 3 to 4 feet above the ground, wooden stakes 4 to 4 1/2 feet long by approximately 1-inch square, and twine woven around the stakes to train plants off of the ground. Raised beds with plastic mulch and drip irrigation are also common in this system and are highly recommended. The most important cultural practices for stake tomato production include: variety selection, plant spacing, pruning and staking. See Table 1 below for recommended tomato varieties and suggested pruning practices for these varieties. Refer to the 1992 Commercial Vegetable Production Recommendations for additional details on plant spacing, pruning, staking, and tying.

Table 1. Recommended Tomato Varieties for the Short-Stake System*

Variety	Season	Suggested Pruning
Celebrity	Main	Heavy
Empire	Main	Heavy
Mountain Delight	Main, Late	Light to Heavy
Mountain Pride	Main, Late	Light to Heavy
Mountain Spring (trial)	Main	Light to Heavy
Solar Set (trial)	Main	Light to Heavy
Sunbeam	Early, Main	Light to Heavy
Sunrise	Early	Light to Heavy

* Based on field trials and observations in Gloucester county and Southern New Jersey.

* Varieties listed in alphabetical order.

* Early = late April to early May transplanting; Main = early May to early June transplanting; Late = early June to early July transplanting.

* Heavy = to fork (all suckers removed from ground up to sucker immediately below the first flower cluster on the main stem); Light = approximately 50% of suckers to fork.

* Light if: no experience with variety, later plantings, light ground; Heavy if: experience with variety, earlier plantings, heavy ground.

Proper Animal Care

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Farmers and livestock handlers are urged to attend a conference on the responsible treatment of animals in the agricultural, health care, and wildlife management industries.

Entitled "A Conference on the ABCs of Responsible Animal Use," the symposium will be held on Friday, February 21 from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. in the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture Building, 2301 North Cameron Street, Harrisburg.

The conference is sponsored by Pennsylvanians for the Responsible Use of Animals (PRMA), a coalition of individuals and organizations interested in the responsible and enhanced use of animals.

"Members of the group encourage the humane treatment of animals used for food, clothing, biomedicine and in wildlife management," according to Ken Brandt, conference coordinator. "The goal of this conference is to bring together the 'hands on' individuals who work with animals every day to broaden understanding of responsible animal use, evaluate current animal care standards, and identify areas where changes are necessary."

The morning will consist of panelists exchanging views on how they handle animals in agriculture, biomedicine, and conservation. In afternoon workshops, conference participants will be able to express their views as the group addresses concerns facing all animal users in Pennsylvania.

A distinguished group of presenters from education, business, and animal welfare organizations has been assembled for the conference.

The cost of the conference is $25, which includes lunch. For more information, contact Ken Brandt at (717) 367-5223.

Franklin Dairy Tour

CHAMBERSBURG (Franklin Co.) — Franklin County Cooperative Extension is sponsoring a dairy farm management tour to Wyoming County, N.Y. on March 10 and 11, 1992.

This western N.Y. county is one of the fastest growing dairy areas in New York.

Tour stops will be Southview Farms II, Emerlig Farms, Duppengeisser Farm, True Farms, Ray Chamberlain & Sons (Jerseys) and Van Slyke Dairy Farm.

Cost of the tour will be $90 per person, which will cover the cost of coach bus service, lodging at the Days Inn in Geneseo, a buffet dinner the first day and lunch the second day.

If you are interested in learning more about how large herd owners operate plus viewing unique facilities, this tour is for you.

A 47-passenger bus has been reserved and reservations will be taken on a first-come, first-served basis. Registration deadline is Feb. 25. Call the Franklin County Cooperative Extension Office (717-263-9226) to get the brochure with itinerary, farm descriptions, and reservation form.

From Hedge Row To Living Room

Twig Furniture Takes A Seat

Sharon Schuster

Maryland Correspondent

MARSTON, Md. — Most farmers consider the tangle of weeds, trees, and vines commonly found in hedgerows to be a nuisance, or maybe a wildlife habitat at best.

Mark Cherry views the hedgerow from a different perspective. He looks at a tanglewood and seeds perspective forces for his twig furniture that he creates in his Marston, Maryland shop.

"Wherever there is a lot of honeysuckle growing," that's one of Mark's clues to slow down and take a closer look. He is always on the lookout for unique pieces of wood that appear to be twisted or bent in an interesting shape.

The one-of-a-kind chairs, tables, and other items are made from "primarily dogwood, maple, oak and hickory." He described the style of his furniture as modified Adirondack. I've taken the twisted wood and added it to the Adirondack style. I've exploited disfigurements in the wood, which gives it my personal signature," he said. Mark explained that the twisted wood isn't actually twisted. "The twisted portion happens when honeysuckle or whatever wraps up around it and the tree grows around it, giving the appearance of twisting."

Mark finds the shapely pieces of wood simply by "going around looking." When he finds a piece that he thinks he may be able to use in his creations, Mark asks the farmer or landowner "if they mind, and nine times out of ten they say go ahead."

The stockpile of sticks leaning up against the springhouse of the Cherry family's home grows and dwindles as a piece is added or selected to be fashioned into a work of art.

"I start by looking at the woodpile and find a piece that suggests a design or shape and work from there." There are no drawings or blueprints for Mark Cherry's pieces of furniture. "All I use is a pen and paper to write down measurements. Some designs start out one way and end completely different," he said.

Mark uses no power tools for the construction of his furniture. He uses only a bow saw, a brace and bit, a 3 lb. maul, two sizes of tenon chisels, pruning shears, loppers, a railroad tie anvil and a specially made 'nubbin' knife that he uses to smoothe the nubs on the wood. Mark is particularly proud of the nubbin knife that fits so well in his hand. From his own design, Mark had the knife made with a damascus steel blade and a polished dogwood handle by his friend, master bladesmith, Gary Anderson.

Mark spent several years constructing shaker and traditional style furniture. "I kept having industrial accidents. Three years in a row I injured my hand." Mark's wife, Carolyn, said she couldn't bear to see her husband injured another time, so she persuaded him to pursue a less hazardous way of building.

"I bought a twig rocking chair in 1984 and fell in love with twig furniture," recalled Mark. "Since I couldn't do the other work, I decided to concentrate my efforts in doing what I enjoy — making twig furniture. There are no power tools in this shop," he pointed out.

In the backyard shop that he

To fashion his twig furniture, Mark uses only a few hand tools, some of which he designed himself — like the "nubbin" knife he is using here — to smoothe off the rough nubs on the wood.

equipped by "scrounging" for windows and doors, a small supply of various styles of chairs are warehoused at one end. The back of the fan chair spirals upward, the symmetrically matched pair of side chairs show off forked twigs in their designs, the children's chairs are a miniature version of their larger counterparts, and the "big chair will swallow you up," said Mark.

To begin a new chair, after he has selected the pieces he will incorporate, Mark first cuts the front legs and back legs to size and "rounds off the nubs." Mark uses standard chairwright construction in his pieces with mortise and tenon joints. "I don't bend or coax the wood," he explained. "I work around the wood as it is." Each chair is designed to be comfortable. "A lot of thought goes into making it comfortable," he said.

Mark said he doesn't have preference for working with one type of wood over another. "I know what I don't like. Sassafras isn't very good. It gets nice twists but has no structural strength at all." Mark may use the less desirable woods for accent pieces where structural integrity is not an issue. He has a reverence for dogwood but said that it is "hard to work." The chairwright sometimes weaves grapevine into his works such as the flower trellises that he designed lately. Each trellis bears two large heart-shaped grapevine motifs as part of the design.

The design of the seats of the chairs varies from multiple and single diamond weaves to herringbone. The seats of his chairs made from drift wood resemble a fishnet. And the backs of the chairs are set at a comfortable slant.

Mark's rustic furniture has quickly become popular and sought after by homeowners in search of functional furniture, as well as art collectors with a keen eye for the design and form of Mark Cherry's natural pieces. "I'm surprised at the acceptance in the art world," Mark said of his rustic twig furniture. "I would prefer that it be sold as art even though it is functional furniture."

Mark's creations have appeared in craft shows and museums in the area. "I've been invited to a few good shows," he said. His chairs have been featured at the Carroll County Arts Council Art in Nature Show, the Baltimore Museum of Art, and The New Traditionalists Show at the Sheraton in Washington, D.C.

Most of his furniture has been bought by individual buyers at shows or "off the floor." Mark will also fill custom orders. "I can make it to your specifications - whatever you like, but the wood dictates the design," he explained.

Prices vary from $180 for a side chair to $400 for a fancy chair and $35 for a child's chair. As Mark pointed out, the child's chair is "a good bargain. It takes just as much work to make, only it's smaller."

Mark hasn't calculated exactly how long it takes to make a chair from start to finish. "I'm a house-husband," he mused, "It's a start to finish process with two little children and a house in between. I've never had the opportunity to make a piece from start to finish without considerable interruption."

The Cherrys' children, Nelson 3½, and Claire, 2 years old, seem happy to have dad at home. "Nelson is so proud of his daddy's work," said Carolyn Cherry, who also runs a home-based business called Custom's Last Stand.

Carolyn's shop features apparel and jewelry from Latin American countries. Some of the garments are displayed on Mark's first chair. "I keep the first one of everything he makes," she said proudly.

Spring Dairy Promotion Scheduled

CLARION, (Clarion Co.)—Janet Harding, program director for Pennsylvania Dairy Princess and Promotion Services has confirmed the dates for their annual Spring District Meetings for dairy promotion committee members.

As in past years, these meetings are planned to give county promoters information, ideas, and guidelines as they plan their upcoming dairy promotion activities and dairy princess pageants.

This year's program will be conducted by representatives of the sponsoring agencies of the Pennsylvania Dairy Princess program — American Dairy Association and Dairy Council;

Mark Cherry's rustic furniture can be seen at the couple's home-based shops at 2424 Marston Road, New Windsor, Maryland 21776. For more information about the Cherrys' shops, call (410) 875-2309.

Mid-Atlantic Milk Marketing Association; Federal Order #36-Mid-east UDIA, and the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program. It will concentrate on how local promoters and our dairy "Royalty" can best tie in with national and area dairy advertising programs to receive the best return for our promotion dollars.

Updates will be presented on available promotional materials as well as guidelines for 1992 County and State Dairy Princess contests. The Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program will offer a session on funding guidelines for local promotion groups.

All meetings will commence at 9:30 a.m. and conclude at 3:30 p.m. and will include lunch.

Reservations may be made by calling the Pennsylvania Dairy Princess office at (814) 226-7470. Area meetings will be held as follows:

Southwest District- Thursday, March 19, Days Inn, New Stanton. Central District- Friday, March 20, Zimm's Restaurant, State College.

Northeast District- Tuesday, March 24, Williamston Inn, Towanda.

Southeast District- Wednesday, March 25, Holiday Inn, Denver.

Southcentral District- Thursday, March 26, Best West Inn, Carlisle.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

"It's always different. But it's never disappointing."

That's the evaluation I overheard The Farmer relating recently about one of our family's favorite "escape hatches."

Everyone needs an escape hatch. A place to get away from the phone and the daily routine. A place to read, to think, to meditate. A place to get in touch with your own inner self. A place to share with those loved ones whose lives are so intertwined with your own that it's easy to take one another for granted.

It might be a quiet corner of a park or a busy ski slope. A grassy meadow or a movie theatre. A sandy beach with the rhythmic break of foam-topped waves or simply a sun-splashed corner of your own back yard.

One of our favorite escapes for running away to is "the mountains." A vague-sounding description, but every member of our family instantly knows what it means.

"The mountains" is the center-state site of a rustic, utilitarian cabin communally maintained by a group of family and local friends. With no central heat and no indoor plumbing, its magnetic draw lies not in cushy, comfortable amenities, but in the peaceful, lovely setting.

Tall, whispering hemlocks that tower over the little cabin. The mountain stream running just steps behind - clear, icy water chattering as it tumbles over mossy rocks. White tails of deer glimpsed as they bound into the laurel. Squirrels chasing each other up and down the thick trunks of old oaks.

And birds. Chattering chickadees and perky titmice. The bright blue flash and scolding scream of the bluejays squabbling over corn under the deer feeder. A pair of cardinals, the more shy, pale-feathered female hanging back while her brilliant red mate scouts the territory.

In fact, it was while gazing out the back window of the cabin on a weekend several years ago that my interest in birds took root. A bluish-gray, black and white little feathered fellow came walking down the tree trunk, headfirst, just beyond the window. Headfirst. That was fascinating.

A subsequent search of the bird book of course identified the headfirst trunk stroller as a nuthatch, still a favorite to watch because its tree-travel method is so amusing and gravity-defying.

The farming valley that leads to "the mountains" adds a further draw with a variety of hawks. We've watched harriers gliding low over the rolling fields and seen numerous red-tails, including a pair engaged in a minor confrontation, probably over territory. A more recent spotting was of a broad-winged hawk, which conveniently flew right toward the car from a fencerow tree perch, then soared in ascending circles until we lost sight.

Most winters bring snow cover to the mountain valley, but this year's dryness has left the forest floor mostly bare. Sleds and cross-country skis are often put to use on the nearby mountain roads and trails, but barely enough white stuff could be found on a recent visit to roll a decent snowball.

So, instead we hike, scouting for signs of deer and turkey, debating if a shredded dead tree stump was worked over by a bear or a porcupine. Our son and I explore a section of mountain new to me, searching for swampy-area ponds he and The Farmer have both stumbled onto while skiing and cycling. Climbing a logging trail uphill behind a son less than half your age and with legs twice as long is a breathless sort of adventure. But worth the effort.

We find ice-encrusted ponds - five of em' - scare out a deer, and crawl through the debris of newly-logged hemlocks and hardwoods. Light is fading on our return, weary-legged but with new terrain etched in our memory maps. A 15-degree temperature derails the plan to retrace the steps next morning with The Farmer.

Next time. On another escape. Just as soon as possible.

Teens Don't Know Beans About Food

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.)—Teenagers may love to eat, but a recent Penn State survey reveals they have limited knowledge about smart food shopping and basic food safety.

The survey polled 64 teenagers at Pennsylvania 4H Achievement Days. "Although these young people are knowledgeable about nutrition, most have surprisingly little awareness of how to shop for and prepare food wisely," says Dr. Jan F. Scholl, assistant professor of agricultural and extension education at Penn State.

"Similar studies conducted at other universities confirm that young people have trouble identifying which products are the best buys. Many young people aren't aware of some of the simplest measures to avoid contaminating food, such as washing your hands before preparing meals.

"It's especially important to teach teenagers good sanitation practices because so many of them prepare foods at home and work in food-related businesses."

The survey revealed that teens know little about the risks and benefits of certain food handling practices. "For example, more than 50 percent felt that eating rhubarb leaves — which are poisonous — was a health benefit," says Scholl. "Seventeen percent felt that using soapy water to wash fruits and vegetables was a good idea."

Common sense food safety practices, such as avoiding raw eggs to reduce the risk of Salmonella poisoning, also were not widely known. Twenty-one percent of the teens indicated that drinking homemade eggnog made from raw eggs was not a health risk. More than 10 percent didn't know you shouldn't buy dented canned goods.

Teens were slightly more savvy about food shopping than about food safety. Yet more than one-third could not calculate the cost per ounce of cheese, and close to half couldn't calculate the cost per ounce of cereal. They simply selected the biggest box as the best buy.

Despite much coverage in the media about the need to reduce fat in the diet, 25 percent of the teens couldn't determine the fat content of a labeled package of ground beef. Fourteen percent believed lard was low in saturated fat.

"It's clearly not enough just to teach young people nutrition and food preparation," says Scholl. "We also must teach them about shopping and food safety."

Scholl and food science faculty at Penn State recently received a U.S. Department of Agriculture grant to help young people and their families make better decisions about food handling practices. She is preparing educational materials for 4H groups and will work with the Pennsylvania Department of Education to disseminate materials through PENN-LINK, a computer network that connects teachers across the state.

"More and more people — both young and old — are interested in managing their diets and leading healthier lives," she says. "By reaching them at an early age, we can help them develop good habits for a lifetime."

Cherry Surprises To Brighten Winter Tables

Cherries are often served on George Washington's birthday in remembrance of Washington's childhood prank of chopping down his mother's cherry tree. In celebration of his upcoming birthday, try one of these recipes. If you did not can or freeze cherries during the summer months, you can easily find them at your favorite supermarket.

Remember, fruit in some form is a good addition to any meal. Thanks to canning and freezing methods, plump red cherries can be served year around.

CHERRY ICE CREAM

2 cups sugar
4 pasteurized processed eggs
1 tablespoon vanilla
Pinch salt
2 cans sweetened condensed milk

2 quarts milk
1 tablespoon flour
16-ounce container maraschino cherries

Mix together sugar, eggs, salt, and flour. Add milk. Stir in cherries. Pour into electric freezer and freeze according to directions. Makes 8 quarts.

Benjamin Schriver
Jonestown

NO-BAKE FRUIT CAKE

1 cup margarine
2 10-ounce bags marshmallows
1 pound graham crackers, rolled fine

4 cups pecans, broken
1 pound dates, chopped
2 small jars maraschino cherries
Melt margarine and marshmallows together. Add remaining ingredients. Mix well. Press into two 8x12-inch pans. Cover. Store at least two days in refrigerator. Cake will keep two weeks.

Marian Showalter
Dayton, Va.

TASTY TINY CHEESE CAKES

Place a vanilla wafer in bottom of each paper baking cup. Mix together:

2 8-ounce packages cream cheese

2 eggs

1 tablespoon vanilla

Fill cups ¾ full. Bake 15 minutes at 350 degrees. Cool and place spoonful of cherry pie filling on top and serve.

Angie Hoover

FROZEN CHERRY SNOWBALLS

1 quart cherry ice cream or frozen yogurt

1 cup coconut, finely flaked

8 maraschino cherries, drained

Whipped cream

Place coconut in shallow dish. Take ½ cup ice cream or yogurt, shape into balls. Work quickly. Roll the ball into coconut and place on tray.

Cover tray, return to freezer for 1 hour. To serve, place on dessert plate, top with whipped cream with a cherry in the middle. Makes 8 servings.

B. Light

EASY CHERRY COBBLER

1 tablespoon shortening

½ cup sugar

1 cup flour

1 teaspoon baking powder

½ cup milk

1-quart red sour cherries, pitted

Cream shortening and sugar. Add flour and baking powder, gradually add milk. Mix cherries into batter. Pour into greased 8-inch layer pan. Bake at 350 degrees until well-browned. Serve warm or cold with milk.

Mrs. Martin
New Holland

CHERRY PECAN BREAD DESSERT

¾ cup sugar

½ cup butter

2 eggs

2 cups sifted flour

1 teaspoon baking soda

½ teaspoon salt

1 cup buttermilk

1 cup chopped pecans

1 cup maraschino cherries, drained and chopped

1 teaspoon vanilla

In a large mixer bowl, cream together sugar, butter, and eggs until light and fluffy. Sift together flour, baking soda, and salt; add to creamed mixture with the buttermilk. Beat until blended. Stir in nuts, cherries, and vanilla. Pour batter into greased 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. Bake in 350 degree oven for 55 to 60 minutes. Remove from pan; cool. Glaze with confectioners sugar icing, if desired. Serve with ice cream.

Veal Cutlets with Garlic Prawns is winning recipe in the Veally Profitable Recipe Contest held last year to encourage chefs to feature veal.

The recipe is distributed to restaurant promotion and food service distributors throughout the state to encourage chefs to feature veal on their menus.

Here is the recipe developed by Stephen Sauro of Sauro's Restaurant in Syracuse, N.Y.

VEAL CUTLETS WITH GARLIC PRAWNS

1 pound veal cutlets

2 ounces prosciutto slices

1 pound shrimp, uncooked, shelled, and deveined

2 tablespoons butter

2 cloves garlic

2 cups heavy cream

Mushroom, sliced

1 tablespoon basil leaves, fresh, chopped

1 pound spinach leaves, fresh, sauteed

Pound 1 prosciutto slice into each veal cutlet with meat mallet. In saute pan, saute shrimp in butter and garlic. Place 2 shrimp in center of each cutlet, with tails toward outside edges. Roll up cutlet enclosing shrimp; secure with wooden picks.

Dredge cutlets in flour. In saute pan, cook cutlets in butter and garlic 1 to 2 minutes each side until done. Remove cutlets; keep warm. Add cream, mushrooms, and basil to pan. Cook until reduced by half.

Remove picks from cutlets. For each serving: Arrange 2 cutlets on top of ¼ spinach. Top with ¼ mushroom sauce.

"Microwave Magic"

By:
Carol Stark

The best candy that I have ever eaten has been made in the microwave. Furthermore, the procedure for preparing it provides good instruction for children in the use of the microwave because the candy never reaches the burning point as it can on the stove. Since the candy does reach a high temperature, however, be sure to select a dish that can withstand the heat and have potholders handy because the dish will also be hot.

Peanut Clusters

1 (6 oz.) package chocolate morsels
1 (12 oz.) package butterscotch morsels
1 (12 oz.) package salted peanuts
Combine chocolate and butterscotch morsels in a 2 quart casserole. Heat in microwave at level 6-5 to 6 minutes, or until melted. Stir once during melting. Stir in peanuts. Drop by teaspoons onto waxed paper. Let set until firm. Store in an airtight container.

Chinese Clusters

1 (6 oz.) package chocolate morsels
1 (6 oz.) package butterscotch morsels
1 (3 oz.) can chow mein noodles
1 (6 1/2 oz.) can cocktail peanuts
Place chocolate and butterscotch morsels in a 2 quart casserole. Cook in microwave oven on level 6 for 3 to 3 1/2 minutes or until melted. Stir until smooth. Stir in chow mein noodles and peanuts. Drop by teaspoons onto waxed paper. Let set until firm.

Peanut Brittle

2 cups sugar
1 cup light corn syrup
1/2 cup water
1 (16 oz.) package salted peanuts
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 tablespoon baking soda

Grease 2, 15 1/2 x 12 inch baking sheets. Keep warm. Place sugar, corn syrup and water in 3 quart casserole. Cook in microwave on HIGH power for 8 to 10 minutes or until soft ball stage is reached. (Soft ball means when the candy syrup is dropped into very cold water it will form a soft ball which flattens on removal from water.) Stir occasionally during cooking time. Stir in peanuts. Cook in microwave on level 8 or 10 for 12 minutes or until a hard crack stage is reached. (Hard crack means when the candy syrup is dropped into very cold water separates into threads which are hard and brittle.) Stir in butter and baking soda. Pour half of candy onto each sheet, spreading to 1/4 inch thickness. Cool and break into pieces.

Turtles

1 (14 oz.) package caramels
2 tablespoons evaporated milk
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 (5 oz.) package pecan halves
1 (6 oz.) package semi sweet chocolate morsels

1, 1 inch square paraffin grated
Place caramels, milk and butter in 1 quart glass measure or casserole. Heat in microwave oven on HIGH power for 2 to 3 minutes or until caramels are melted. Arrange pecan halves in groups of 3 on buttered baking sheet. Spoon about 1 tablespoon warm caramel mixture over each group of pecans. Refrigerate, uncovered for 30 minutes.

Place chocolate morsels and paraffin in 2 cup glass measure. Heat in microwave oven on HIGH power for 2 to 4 minutes or until chocolate morsels and paraffin are melted. Stir halfway through cooking time. Spoon enough chocolate mixture over each caramel to cover. Allow to cool and remove from baking sheet.

Marshmallow Creme Fudge

1/2 cup butter or margarine
2 cups sugar
1 (5.3 oz.) can evaporated milk 3/4 cup
1 (12 oz.) package semi sweet chocolate morsels

1 (7 oz.) jar marshmallow creme
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup chopped nuts (optional)

Place butter in 9x9x2 inch dish. Heat in microwave on HIGH power for 1 minute or until melted. Blend in sugar and evaporated milk. Mix well. Cook in microwave for 8 to 10 minutes on level 8 or until soft ball stage is reached. Stir mixture frequently during cooking. Blend in chocolate morsel, marshmallow creme, vanilla and nuts. Stir until smooth. Chill until firm. Cut into 1 inch squares. Store in an airtight container.

Pa. Apple, Peach Production Increases

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Pennsylvania's 1991 commercial apple production is estimated at 530 million pounds, an increase of 18 percent from the 1990 crop of 450 million pounds, the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service (PASS) reported today. The value of the apple production (based on first utilization) was set at $56.7 million.

Last year's peach crop totaled 100 million pounds, up 32 percent from the 1990 peach crop. PASS placed the value of utilized peach production at $18.1 million. Pear production in the state totaled 5,500 tons for the year, 67 percent above the previous year. Utilized production of 5,350 tons was valued at $2.2 million. Sweet cherry production in 1991 was 1,100 tons, compared with 50 tons in 1990.

Utilized production of 1000 tons was valued at $1.5 million. The State's tart cherry crop more than tripled in 1991, from 3.5 to 11.5 million pounds. The 1991 price and value will be published by PASS on July 7, 1992. Last year's grape production of 78,000 tons was 47 percent more than the 1990 production. Utilized production was valued at $17.9 million.

percent from 1990. Washington State — the leading producer — reported 4.3 billion pounds, 10 percent below the previous year.

U.S. production of other fruit crops and the percentage change from 1990 were: peaches, 2.7 billion pounds, up 20 percent; pears, 908,500 tons, down 6 percent; sweet cherries, 151,550 tons, down 3 percent; tart cherries, 189.9 million pounds, down 9 percent; and grapes, 5.5 million tons, down 4 percent.

Chili Con Queso

2 pounds Velveeta cheese
1 can green chilies
1 pint chopped tomatoes
1 medium-sized jar picante sauce
Cut up cheese and mix all ingredients together. Melt in pot on low. Serve with tortilla chips or vegetable dippers.

Cheddar Cheese Fondue

1/2 cup flour
2 teaspoons dry mustard
2 cups half and half
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 cups sharp cheese, shredded
2 or more drops tabasco sauce
Combine flour and mustard. Gradually add half and half; stir until thickened. Gradually add cheese and stir until melted. Add Worcestershire and tabasco sauce. Stir and heat at least 5 minutes to develop flavor. Serve with toasted Italian bread or bread sticks.

Party Meatballs

1 pound ground beef
1/4 cup milk
1/2 cup bread crumbs
1 tablespoon chopped onion
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup sherry
1/2 cup catsup
Combine ground beef, bread crumbs, milk, onion, and 1 teaspoon salt. Shape into small balls. Melt butter in large fry pan and brown balls on all sides. Pour off fat. Mix sherry and catsup; pour over balls. Put in fondue pot and cover. Simmer about 20 minutes. Guests serve themselves by removing meatballs with toothpicks.

Fondue Ideas

Fry in peanut oil: Cubes of beef tenderloin, cubes of cheese wrapped in slices of ham and salami. Serve fritter batter to dip raw cubes of chicken breast and fresh mushroom caps into before frying.

Dip meat in the following sauces: cocktail sauce, honey, mustard, creamy salad dressings.

Dessert: Dip the following into melted chocolate and light cream - Angel food cubes, pretzels, banana slices, mandarin orange pieces, and maraschino cherries.

ANSWER — Grace Ikeler, Bloomsburg, requested a recipe for pepper pot soup. Thanks to Martin Roy of Warrenton, Va., for sending a recipe.

Pepper Pot

4 slices bacon
1/2 cup minced onion
2 minced green peppers, seeds removed
1 teaspoon marjoram or summer savory, optional
3/4 pound cooked honeycomb tripe or diced cooked beef, pork, chicken, rabbit or lamb
8 cups brown stock
1 bay leaf
1/2 teaspoon ground pepper
1 cup pared and diced raw potatoes
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1/2 cup warm cream
Cut bacon into small pieces and saute in a heavy saucepan until translucent. Add onion, celery, and peppers; simmer about 5 minutes. Wash, cut into fine shreds and add tripe. Add stock, bay leaf and ground pepper. Bring these ingredients to the boiling point. Add potatoes. Gently simmer the soup, uncovered, until the potatoes are tender. Melt butter and stir in flour until blended. Add a little of the soup. Bring these ingredients to the boiling point, then pour them into the remaining soup. Season to taste. Shortly before serving, reheat and add cream. Makes about 10 cups.

SOUR CHERRY CRUMB PIE

1-quart frozen red sour cherries, thawed
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 cup cornstarch
Salt
1 1/2 cups water
1/4 cup water
1/4 teaspoon red food coloring, if desired

Drain juice from cherries, put aside. Add sugar, salt, food coloring, and water to cherry juice to make 1 1/2 cups liquid. Bring to boiling point, reduce heat. Mix cornstarch with 1/4 cup water, add slowly to cherry juice and stir consistently until smooth. Simmer a few minutes. Add the drained cherries. Pour into a 9-inch unbaked pie shell. Put crumbs on top and bake at 400 degrees for 20 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake 30 minutes longer.

Crumbs:

1/4 cup flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons sugar

Mix together flour, salt, and sugar until crumbly. Sprinkle on top of pie before baking.

Cook's Question

ANSWER — Meg Smith, Frenchtown, NJ, wanted to know how to make good old-fashioned corn fritters. Thanks to Mrs. Martin, New Holland, Tammie Godfrey, Felton, Eva Southard, Glen Rock, Dottie Yautz, Easton; Marian Reitnauer, Parkerford; Louise Rapp, Easton; and Doris Horton, Randolph, N.Y., for sending recipes.

Corn Fritters

- 2 cups fresh corn, grated
- 2 eggs
- ¼ cup flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 2 tablespoons cream
- 4 tablespoons shortening

Add beaten eggs, flour, baking powder, salt, and pepper to the grated corn. Mix thoroughly. Add cream. Melt shortening in a skillet and drop corn mixture by spoonfuls into the hot shortening. Brown on both sides. Makes 16 to 18 fritters.

Corn Fritters

- 1 cup flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 eggs
- ½ cup milk
- 1 teaspoon oil
- 1 cup corn, canned or frozen

Mix together flour, baking powder, salt, eggs, milk and oil; add corn. Drop batter by tablespoonful into hot oil (375 degrees) and fry about 5 minutes until thoroughly cooked. Drain oil from fritters.

Fritter Batter

- 2 cups sifted flour
- 1 tablespoon baking powder
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 4 egg yolks
- ¾ cup milk
- 2 tablespoons butter, melted
- 4 egg whites, stiffly beaten
- 1 to 2 cups chopped meat, fruit, or vegetable

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt, and sugar. Beat egg yolks well, add milk. Stir into dry ingredients. Blend in butter. Carefully fold into egg whites, meat, fruit or vegetable.

Drop from tablespoon into deep hot fat (365 to 375 degrees). Fry 4 to 5 minutes or until crisp and brown.

Makes 18 medium-sized fritters. (For a sweeter dessert fritter, increase sugar in basic recipe from 1 to 3 tablespoons).

FRITTER VARIATIONS

Vegetable: Use 1 to 2 cups cooked or canned vegetables, drained. Corn, green beans, baby lima beans, diced carrots or peas. Fold vegetable and beaten egg whites in at the same time; season with ¼ teaspoon paprika and 2 tablespoons chopped parsley.

Meat: Use 1 to 2 cups chopped or canned shrimp, frankfurters, sausage or ham.

Vegetable - meat combinations: Use 1 to 2 cups chopped or canned corn and ham; peas and chopped shrimp; minced celery leaves and crumbled sausage; chopped asparagus and ham; or lima beans and diced frankfurters.

ONION SAUCE

Serve with meat and vegetable fritters

- 3 onions, sliced
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 2 cups meat or vegetable broth

Lightly brown onions in butter; cover tightly and simmer 5 minutes. Stir in flour. Slowly add meat broth. If you have no broth on hand, dissolve 2 bouillon cubes in 2 cups boiling water.

Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. If deeper brown is desired, add 1 teaspoon bottled gravy flavor and color. Serve warm over hot fritters. Makes 2 cups.

ANSWER — Thanks to Marian Leid, Fleetwood, who sent one of her favorite casserole dishes for Andrea Martin of Hagerstown, Md.

Zippy Beef Casserole

- 1 pound ground beef
 - 1½ cups macaroni
 - 1 can cream of mushroom soup
 - ¾ cup milk
 - ¾ cup catsup
 - ¾ cup grated cheese
 - ¼ cup peppers, chopped
 - 1 onion, chopped
 - Salt and pepper to taste
- Brown ground beef. Cook macaroni according to package directions. Mix together all ingredients. Pour into casserole. Cover; bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes.

National Watermelon Promotion Board Holds Nominations

ORLANDO, FL — The National Watermelon Promotion Board (NWPB) will hold a meeting of watermelon producers and handlers of Districts IV and V, to nominate two producer and two handler positions for each district for the next term to the NWPB.

The meeting for District IV which includes central eastern states, will be held Saturday, March 7, at 10:00 a.m. at the Holiday Inn, North in Raleigh, NC. Phone - (919) 872- 7666. The meeting is being held in conjunction with the North Carolina Watermelon Association Convention.

The NWPB is an industry funded and administered national check-off program, designed to increase consumers' awareness of watermelon, through an organized marketing program. Funds for the NWPB program are generated through a mandatory assessment approved by the industry at a 1989 referendum.

All producers growing five or more acres of watermelon and all handlers within Districts IV and V are eligible to vote and run for nomination, provided they have complied with the NWPB national check-off program. There will be two people nominated for each position in each district. These names will be submitted to the Secretary of Agriculture for his appointment to the NWPB.

The position holds a three year term and will begin January 1, 1993.

Additional information of the elections and nomination procedures may be obtained by contacting Tammy Felshaw, of NWPB, P.O. Box 140065, Orlando, FL 32814-0065, (407) 895-5100 or District IV executive committee representative, Gerald Funderburk (803) 658- 3405 or District V executive committee representative, Anita Field (812) 882-9320.

Pat Leimbach Called 'Erma Bombeck Of The Farmbelt'

LOU ANN GOOD

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) —

"Honey, are you busy?" is a question that farm wives such as Pat Leimbach answer warily.

Nicknamed the "Erma Bombeck of the Farm Belt," Leimbach cautions farm wives, "When you hear that leading question, you can bet your sweet life it's going to lead you a long way from the morning's agenda. Make no mistake about it, there is nothing a farm wife does that's more important than what her husband does."

Whether it's going to town for parts, sorting hogs, towing the truck or driving the tractor, Leimbach has a repertoire of stories that will make you laugh and groan.

As an active partner with her husband and son on a fifth generation vegetable and grain farm in Ohio, Leimbach has plenty of advice that she dispenses to frazzled farmers and harried farm wives.

Leimbach warns rose-lipped maidens who allow brawny, suntanned farm lads to lead them to the marriage altar like lambs to a sacrifice that wife means cosigner, bookkeeper, truck driver, go-fer, herdsman, labor boss, and general farmhand.

She tells them that a farmer's words, "I bought a real jewel at J.B.'s sale warns you well in advance that he's planning to spend the winter restoring an old Farmall M."

"I notice Bev Schmalz is out disking" means "What are you doing around the house here that's so all-fired important?"

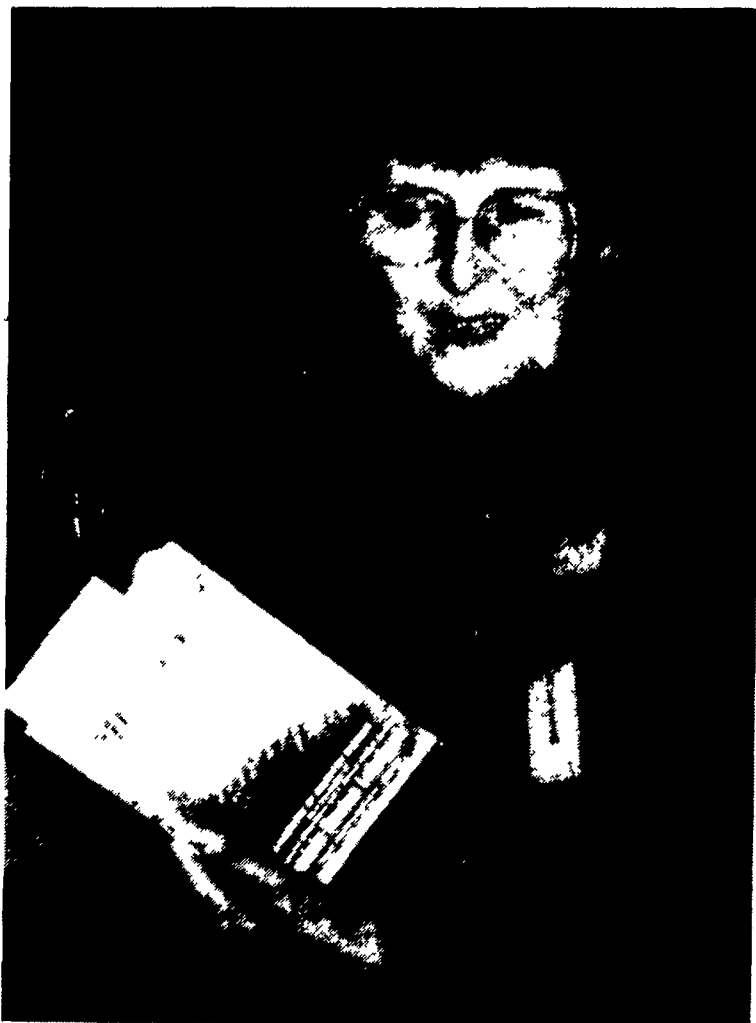

"I'd rather have you handling the machinery than anybody I could hire" translates as, "I can't afford to hire anybody to operate the machinery."

"If that sow farrows, I'll be going to the banquet late" should say to you, "Take the kids and go alone."

"I think the car will make it another year or two" is his subtle way of saying, "I just ordered a pickup truck."

"Have you got a minute you can spare?" warns you to pack a lunch, put on your old clothes, and wear your boots and work gloves."

Pat has spoken in 45 states and three Canadian provinces. She has appeared as a guest on the Today Show, Good Morning America, Pat Leimbach dispenses hilarious advice to frazzled farmers and harried farm wives.

Larry King Live, and PBS's Market to Market. Recently she spoke at the Pennsylvania Vegetable Conference and Trade Show where men and women alike chuckled at Leimbach's tales of coping with combine breakdowns, roadside marketing, and operating a pick-your-own business.

She told them, "Being married 40 years doesn't mean you can drive in tandem with your spouse all day without a few skirmishes — mostly verbal."

According to Leimbach, the farm wife's biggest problem is that she doesn't have a manual of procedures. A farmer waving wildly from his tractor in the field to his wife may be signalling an international call of distress that may mean drop the wagon at the other end of the field, or the hogs are loose, or the banker is coming up the road.

Because Leimbach has a good deal of time to think while riding the tractor, she has compiled a lot of humorous insights that she writes about in a weekly newspaper column.

It is Leimbach's wit and honesty that enable both rural and urban audiences to recognize that in spite of difficulties, one should always look for a miracle. She dreams fondly of going for parts and sometimes coming home with the right one. She longs for the day when her husband will say those precious words beyond all other words in a farmer's language: "The weather is great. The crops are terrific. The prices are out of sight!"

From Leimbach's weekly newspaper columns, she has compiled three books: "A Thread Of Blue Denim," "All My Meadows," and "Harvest Of Bittersweet."

These books may be ordered through Leimbach for $8 each, which includes postage and handling. Send your order with your name, address, and check to Pat Leimbach, 8877 Bank Road, Vermilion, Ohio 44089. Make sure you specify which book you want to order.

Stroke Stoppers

SOUTHAMPTON (Bucks Co.)— Just in case you need another reason to drink milk, Dairy Council's nutrition media specialist, Althea Zanecosky, R.D., reports on three recent studies relating the benefits of dairy products in reducing high blood pressure.

Research in Italy has shown that consuming foods high in potassium can decrease the need for high blood pressure medication. Adults with high blood pressure who increased their intake of foods high in potassium needed less medication to control their blood pressure. Zanecosky states that skim milk contains 406 mg of potassium per cup, a banana has 450 mg, or 470 mg in 1 cup of orange juice. The researchers concluded that increasing dietary potassium from foods is an effective way to reduce antihypertensive drug treatment.

Another study at University of Iowa has found that women who consumed large amounts of calcium and Vitamin D were more than four times less likely to suffer a stroke as women who consumed smaller amounts of these two nutrients. This study hypothesizes that calcium may deter high blood pressure and that vitamin D maintains the body's calcium balance and may prevent cardiovascular disease. Zanecosky reminds us that one cup of milk provides 30% of the Recommended Dietary Allowance (RDA) for calcium and 25% of the RDA for Vitamin D. Nearly 42,000 women were surveyed and tracked to obtain these results.

A recently completed four-year study of 58,000 women also strengthens the link between calcium, magnesium, and healthy blood pressure. Harvard Medical school researchers found that women who consumed less than half of the RDA for calcium had a 20% increase in the risk of developing high blood pressure than women consuming at least the RDA (800 mg). Women who daily consumed the RDA for magnesium (300 mg) reduced their chances of developing high blood pressure by one-third. In addition to monitoring blood pressure levels through a physician, Zanecosky encourages women to consume a diet rich in dairy products, fruits and vegetables, and grains as protection from high blood pressure.

Dairy Council, Inc. is a non-profit nutrition education organization whose services extend to tri-state area of southeastern and south central Pennsylvania, southern New Jersey and Delaware.

MICROWAVE YOUR FAVORITE SOUP

If you are a weekend cook, and prepare meals in advance, you should think about making and freezing a nutritional soup of stew for later microwaving a quick, delicious one-dish meal. If your preparation time is at a minimum, use frozen ingredients to save time.

Soups have become very popular in the last several years, and microwave ovens make reheating your favorite soups easy and fast. A big bowl of hearty soup filled with vegetables and meat can take just 10 minutes from freezer to table.

To prepare soup in your microwave, precook vegetables and meat before they are put together in the soup. This assures an even doneness of all ingredients in the finished product. While precooking meat and vegetables in the microwave, you might want to heat your broth or water on your surface burners to reduce preparation time even more.

Many cooks think that microwave ovens are not as efficient as surface burners for preparing soups. While the time to heat water is about the same, microwaving has its own advantages.

Stovetop soups are simmered to tenderize the raw meats and vegetables. This increases the cooking time. Frozen meats and vegetables can be quickly thawed and cooked separately in the microwave much faster than on your surface burners. Then, ingredients can be microwaved together in soup without fat for fewer calories. Ingredients also will not stick in the microwave as it can when cooked on the rangetop.

In cooking soups, remember that microwave cooking times vary with different watt ovens. So start with a time you think is about right, then subtract five minutes. At the end of the cooking period, check ingredients, and add additional time in increments of two or three minutes until the meat and vegetables reach the degree of doneness you desire.

Cover the soup with a tight-fitting lid for faster cooking. The container should have ample room at the top to prevent bubbling over and allow space for stirring.

Soup made ahead can be frozen in individual bowls or in serving-size containers. This allows you to select just the amount you want to use without defrosting all the soup you have prepared.

Soup can be frozen, thawed, and served in the same bowl. Place the soup in a covered casserole, for example, and microwave on HIGH. Use a fork to separate partially thawed areas for faster defrosting. Individual servings in their own dishes save even more time. To avoid tying up containers, you can freeze small amounts of soup in ice cube trays or other small containers, then transfer them to a freezer bag.

If your microwave oven has a temperature probe, use it to bring your ingredients to the proper temperature. Soup broth should be heated to 160 degrees F. Milk-based soups should be served at 150 degrees

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Society 20

Lancaster Farm Women #20 met on Thursday, February 6, at the home of Valaria Ferguson in Unionville, with Jane Ferguson as co-hostess. Following the refreshments the devotions were given by Valaria. After the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag the president, Vera Herr, conducted the business meeting. The answer to the roll call was "How we met our husbands." A few suggestions were given for making money for the organization and they are being checked out. Pauline Reinhart reported three cards had been sent since the last meeting.

Heather Swan, a student at the University of Pennsylvania studying to be a veterinarian, who is spending a couple months with Rev. and Mrs. Ferguson, gave a very interesting talk on her work. She said there are 26 schools in the United States for this study. It is a 4-year course and they must study many things the same as the doctors for humans. There is the study for large animals and one for small animals and her plans are to work with the small ones after her graduation next year.

After singing "Brighten the Corner" the meeting was adjourned to meet in March with Vivian Hess and Emily Gallimore as co-hostess. It will be a covered dish dinner and members will be sewing bed pads.

Berks Society 3

Group 3 of the Berks County Society of Farm Women held its January meeting at the home of Mary Hill, Boyertown. President Sonya Moyer conducted the meeting. Ten members were present.

A donation was made to the American Heart Association. A trip to the Dutch Apple Dinner Theater to see "Nunsense" is

Lebanon Executive Board

The Executive Board of the Lebanon County Society of Farm Women met Wednesday evening, February 5, at the Farm and Home Center. Pearl Moyer, a member of Group 4, was in charge of devotions and Crystal Moyer, second vice president, led the pledge to the flag.

During the business meeting, president Fern Hitz stated that she still has county and state Farm Women cookbooks for sale. The group will again be donating funds to provide entertainment for Cedar Haven residents; and there was a brief discussion about the state project which includes raising funds for the Heifer Project International.

It was also announced that Lancaster County will host the Spring Rally at the Host Resort and Conference Center on May 27. Entertainment will consist of a fashion show and a musical comedy team.

ADC Meets Farmers' Needs

More Than $110 Million in Extra Payments

"At Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, our mission is to maximize returns to members. In the past four years, we returned more than $110 million to members in equity payments, over-order premiums and quality bonuses. That's an average of $31,500 per member. And these extra dollars are continuing at the rate of $1.5 million a month.

"When non-members ask me why they should belong to Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, I am happy to report that we are financially healthy, strong in membership and growing in sales. ADC is the region's largest and most fiscally-sound cooperative, with a guaranteed market and outstanding benefits.

"More dairy farmers joined us last year than at any time in the past decade. If you are not an ADC shipper and are worried about your own milk market, then you should talk to the cooperative that is facing the future with confidence."

Retail Partnership Aims At Beef Sales

CHICAGO, Ill. — Teaming up for a common goal, the beef industry and A.I. Steak Sauce are working on a special $6.5 million retail promotion to increase beef and A.I. sales. The promotion, which has already been initiated with pre-event advertising, runs through Feb. 29.

"The partnership between the beef industry and A.I. is a natural one since A.I. sales are influenced a great deal by our sales," said Jane Frost, a New Mexico beef producer and chairman of the Beef Industry Council (BIC) retail subcommittee.

The promotion, "Beef and A.I. Meal Makers," includes point-of-purchase materials, recipe cards, a free-standing newspaper insert, and entry forms for the National Beef Cook-Off®. Additionally, A.I. is running a $44,000 sweepstakes that will increase awareness of beef at the meat counter. Grand prize for the sweepstakes is $5,000 in cash and free beef for one year. "The promotion will focus on the new, easy-to-fix beef recipes that are featured on the in-store recipe cards," Frost said. More than 21,000 grocery stores nationwide are participating in the promotion, which is designed to help generate greater consumer awareness of beef.

"A.I. is putting more than $5.5 million worth of advertising into the marketplace, that began running Jan. 11 and will continue through February," said Matt Wineinger, BIC director of beef retail programs. "The timing is perfect for the industry because we are in the developmental stages of our new beef consumer advertising campaign, which will premier this summer. So even though we're off television with our consumer advertising program, you're going to see an awful lot of A.I. steak sauce advertising that actually will help sell more beef."

Lebanon Society 1

The Lebanon Society of Farm Women No. 1 held their monthly meeting in the home of Mrs. Lloyd Shaeffer with Mrs. Theodore Huber as co-hostess. Mrs. George Zahn, president, presided and welcomed members. Mrs. Roy Brubaker led members in singing "Safely Thru Another Week."

Mollie Emenheiser led devotions and read the 150th Psalm. She offered prayer and read several Valentine poems. The Lord's Prayer and salute to the flag concluded devotions.

Roll call was answered by members completing this phrase: "My mother always said _____." There were many familiar and humorous responses. Seventeen members and two guests were present.

Mr. David Felpel was the guest speaker. Felpel is a self-employed investment and financial advisor to small businesses and a member of the Lancaster Toastmaster's Speakers Bureau. His topic was entitled, "Parents Say The Darndest Things." He obtained much of his material by going to shopping malls, grocery stores, playgrounds, etc., and observing and listening to what parents are saying to their children. He categorized these comments as Classic, Dumb, Guilty, and Sad. He also gave statistics on the learning patterns of children and emphasized how important the early learning years are.

This year Society of Farm Women No. 1 is celebrating their 75th anniversary. In recognition of this event, Society No. 1 is observing a moment of celebration at their monthly meetings. At the February meeting Pres. Julia Zahn reviewed some events that occurred at that first meeting on Jan. 26, 1917.

The next meeting of Society No. 1 will be held at the home of Hazel Tomb on March 7, at 1:30 p.m. Rachel Bollinger will serve as co-hostess.

Berks Society 1

Berks Society of Farm Women Group 1 recently held an afternoon meeting at Ellen Snyder. Ten members answered to roll call.

Twenty-five Christmas dinners were served at Washington Inn for the Christmas Party.

Poinsettia's and fruit baskets were delivered to shut-ins for Christmas.

Willmar Air Ride

Application Versatility

The AIR RIDE is a versatile applicator which can make accurate applications across rough fields before planting and through finished fields after the crop is up. A rugged four-wheel independent suspension supports the vehicle frame and allows the applicator to make precise custom application.

Adjustable Axles

The front and rear axles can be hydraulically adjusted from inside the cab, to any width between 72 and 96 inches to adjust for any row width.

Reduced Compaction

60 Foot Boom

AIR RIDE's 60-foot self-leveling boom and 500-gallon spray tank translates into more acres per day.

Nellie Crawford: Asset To Juniata County Agriculture

CHRIS McCAHREN
Juniata Co. Correspondent

Every organization needs a few dedicated individuals to keep it running smoothly. In the Juniata County Farmers Association Nellie Crawford is one of those dedicated people. As a long-time member of the organization, she takes the responsibility to see that the newsletters get out to the members. She started the first newsletter for the Juniata County Farmers Association in 1968 and has been doing them ever since. She took on the responsibility for the newsletter because she knew how to type, not because she was a writer. Her philosophy is that if she has a skill that may be of some use, she will jump in and do what needs done.

When asked permission for an interview, Nellie truthfully admitted that she was not the type of person who can easily talk about herself and her accomplishments. To Nellie there isn't any need to exploit her achievements because she is a team player working toward bettering the group and supporting their cause. Traveling alone or going someplace new never deterred Nellie from taking advantage of the many opportunities to grow as a person and expand her knowledge.

Nellie described herself as a very backwards child and teenager, but as a determined young adult, she decided to further explore what the world had to offer. The PA Farmers Association and the Cooperative Extension Service have been the main vehicles which have taken Nellie many places. In return, Nellie feels she has given these organizations some of the best years of her life. The people she has met and the friendships she has gained have made all the time she has donated toward numerous meetings, committees, and other responsibilities seem very rewarding and worthwhile.

It doesn't take long to realize how Nellie seems to first perceive the good qualities in people and her surroundings. Family is important which is evident from the admiration in her voice when speaking about her family. Nellie and her husband, Richard, live on a family-run dairy farm south of Port Royal in Juniata County. They have three grown children. Frank works on the farm full-time, Kathy and her family live nearby, and Tim and his family live in Texas.

The family farm does not use any outside labor. Although Nellie no longer helps do the milking, she still helps tend the calves and serves as the bookkeeper which keeps her up-to-date with the farm's daily activities. Her grandchildren also occupy her time, and they also seem to have taken an interest in farming.

Without boasting, in her soft-spoken way, Nellie proudly mentioned that she was the first and so far the only woman ever named to the Juniata County PFA Board of Directors. From 1978 to 1982, she served as the PFA State Women's Committee chairperson. Being chairperson involved countless meetings to plan women's programs for the whole state as well as her local district. One of her greatest achievements as the chairperson was to start a state-wide youth conference which exposed youth to co-ops, leadership, marketing, and government. Since then, she has seen youth from the conference move on to serve in leadership roles which has been very rewarding personally.

Nellie has also been involved with the Cooperative Extension Service. Her main interests have been with the home economic activities. One might think that after all the time Nellie has spent at meetings and other activities that she would eventually be bored, but this doesn't happen. The reason being that Nellie goes into every meeting with the attitude that there is something to be learned or gained, and a bad attitude about meetings comes from a person who has shut themselves off from learning.

Richard has also attended his share of meetings while being active in various organizations. He too served on the state PFA Board of Directors and was the first secretary of the Juniata County DHIA and was the first chairman for the county conservation district board. Currently, Richard serves as a director for the Northeastern Farm Credit and is still active with PFA and DHIA.

These days, after the years of various meetings and travels, Nellie says she rarely goes anywhere without seeing someone whom she had met through PFA or Extension. Through the years, the Crawfords have seen many changes in farming, but they are optimistic about the future of agriculture and its organizations because of the enthusiasm of younger people, especially in Juniata County, when youth step forward as leaders with fresh ideas.

The Crawfords' dedication to farming organizations in Juniata County and throughout the state has been very evident and appreciated. Therefore, it is very appropriate to recognize these individuals who have given so much of themselves for the benefit of many others.

Richard and Nellie Crawford have been an active couple in various organizations both locally and state-wide.

Program Builds Volunteer Leaders

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — When people get involved with community issues, they can influence decisions affecting government, education, public safety and other matters that directly impact their lives. But how do you take that first step toward getting involved?

The Family Community Leadership (FCL) program, sponsored by Penn State Cooperative Extension and the Pennsylvania Council of Cooperative Extension Associations, teaches leadership skills to help people deal effectively with community issues.

"Program participants learn how to make their voices heard in local decision making," said Debra Gregory, state FCL coordinator. "They discover that they can have a lot of influence."

The leadership program is recruiting teams to participate in the 1992 State FCL Training Institute to be held two weekends in March and April in Lamar.

Ten county teams are to be selected to participate in the 1992 State FCL Training Institute to be held during two weekend sessions March 6-7 and April 3-4, in Lamar, Centre County. For information about becoming a volunteer on a Family Community Leadership training team, contact your local Penn State Cooperative Extension office.

"We organize teams composed of one county extension agent and up to three volunteers," said Gregory. "These teams receive 30 hours of instruction in leadership and communication, group processes, issue analysis, teaching methods, volunteerism and public policy."

Training teams then spend up to 96 hours during the year educating citizens according to local needs. They reach out to single parents, homemakers, youths and organizations such as church groups and

Red Cross chapters.

"The teams teach citizens how to organize and work in groups, manage meetings, delegate responsibility, handle conflicts, take leadership roles and speak in public," said Gregory. "These skills can be used in many community situations."

FCL originated as a cooperative effort between extension and volunteer organizations. Pennsylvania's program began in March 1990 with a W.K. Kellogg Foundation grant.

In 1990, teams worked in Adams, Allegheny, Bedford, Clarion, Crawford, Dauphin, Indiana, Warren and Westmoreland counties. In 1991, the program expanded to Clearfield, Columbia, Delaware, Forest, Jefferson, Greene, Lebanon and Tioga counties.

Sauder's Eggs Dominate Farm Show Competition

LITITZ (Lancaster Co.) — Again in 1992, Sauder's Eggs of Lititz, Lancaster County, dominated the egg competition at the Pennsylvania Farm Show in Harrisburg.

Sauder's was eligible to enter 14 of the 20 contest categories. Of the 14 entries, 13 captured first place awards. The exception placed second.

Perhaps the most difficult test of egg quality comes in the broken-out class, where judges actually break open two dozen eggs and carefully scrutinize their interior quality.

Sauder's entries were judged tops in both white and brown categories.

In addition to the two top awards in the broken out class, Sauder's captured all four top awards (one dozen white, one dozen brown, five dozen white, five dozen brown) in the producer carton and pack class. They also swept the four top awards in the packers carton and pack class.

In the commercial class, Sauder's entries captured three of the four top awards, finishing second in the one dozen white egg competition.

John Deere... A Way of Life

Somerset Teen Prepares For Special Olympics

GAY N. BROWNLEE

Somerset Co. Correspondent
SOMERSET (Somerset Co.) —

For 19-year-old Brian Miller, having special educational needs doesn't mean he can't do what everybody else does in work and play. Maybe there are more restrictions, but he can enjoy life to his fullest extent.

With his parents, Glenn and Carol; and sisters, Anita and Joyce; Brian lives on an RD 6 farm and attends school in the Somerset Area District where he studies reading, writing and mathematics.

He is preparing for his second successive year of participating in the Pennsylvania State Special Olympic event, set for February 25 through the 28th, at Hidden Valley Resort, a popular Somerset County tourist attraction. Brian will participate in cross-country skiing.

This event is sponsored solely by private contributions, according to official sources, and receives no funding from the government of any agency.

One is immediately impressed with Brian's courtesy. He responds to an introduction with a firm handshake, a sincere smile, and the use of your formal name. His clear, brown eyes possess a definite sparkle; as if eagerness and energy are emanating from their twinkling depths.

Without hesitating he promptly finds two metal coat hangers that are waiting in readiness for the moment. He holds them up— one in each hand. They are heavy with the weight of Olympic medals suspended from wide ribbons— more of them than a big hand could hold. These he has received from participating in local and state Olympic events.

"I can't wear all (of them)," he says. "They are too heavy."

His mother, standing nearby confirms the suspicion that Brian has plenty of energy. "He never gets tired," she says. "He can't sit still."

"In the summer I make hay," chats Brian. "I stack it on the wagon."

Although the need no longer exists, Brian used to rise at 4:30 a.m. to help his dad do the milking. He still works in the barn at milking time, helping Glenn by dipping the cows, attaching the milker to the cow's teats, feeding and so forth. He's also quick to explain the pipes of the pipeline milking system on their way to the bulk milk tank, where the smooth white liquid chills until it is later hauled to the Schneider's Dairy in Pittsburgh.

Deterioration of Glenn's knees has necessitated a reduction of the Holstein dairy herd to some 38 head. Carol says they see a need to get out of milking because of the physical stress it presents to Glenn.

"We have a whole bunch of cats in the barn," informs Brian, finishing bluntly, "They go after rats!" He grins at the grimace on the face of his interviewer.

"One black heifer likes me," he says.

"How do you know?" he was asked.

"She licks my coat. One cow pulled my thumb back," he added.

Family friends, Linda Younkin and her son, Aaron, aged 16, arrive. Like Brian, Aaron is a Special Olympian and very polite.

The fellows launch an animated conversation about sports, listing all the ones they have learned to do: cross-country skiing, roller skating, track and field, soccer, bowling, swimming, basketball; and a great favorite... wrestling, which led to a big discussion about their weight-lifting exercises.

Rolling up their shirt sleeves in exhibition, they compared muscles in a great spirit of friendship. They decided that Brian had the bigger biceps.

Wrestling each other is also a good challenge and Aaron admits easily and without resentment, "I try to get him (Brian) back, but he's pretty strong."

Brian lifts about 90 pounds and Aaron says he usually lifts 40 pounds. They don't bother to count lifts, Aaron says. They just work out until they are tired. Then they stop.

When the two participated in

the Pennsylvania Special Olympics last year, they traveled to Villanova, near Philadelphia.

"We were excited," recalls Aaron. "You are going there to have fun."

And fun they had! They were entertained during the evenings by a dance, a carnival and other activities.

Linda is a state committee person this year, charged with the responsibility of coordinating reduced lodging costs for family members with local motels, so relatives of the Special Olympians can attend the event in their support.

Meanwhile Carol brings out a photo album to show a yellowing photograph of the barn. The photo shows a unique event. It is of the big barn, which is still standing, when it was separated long ago in order to build a center addition. The structure was pulled apart some 20 or so feet, straight down from the roof apex. Persons clad in earlier garb are standing on the ground, staring up at the opening. Carol says the feat was accomplished without the aid of modern equipment.

Glenn's ancestors purchased the farm in 1847 and it has stayed in the family. Carol says she and Glenn have talked about having it registered as a Century Farm.

The house, which is older than the barn, is separated from the barns by a very busy Route 31. It slices by the house mere feet from the front porch steps. Carol says the hair-raising situation presented her with plenty of heart-stopping moments when the children were young. She says the backyard was big, however, and they were able to fence in the swing sets and so forth. Watchful eyes of considerate neighbors over her children was a plus, she says, when they traveled the road.

Brian and Aaron write their names beautifully in cursive form. They talk about music and television telling what their favorites are. Brian boasts about having had four wisdom teeth pulled and chats about all the animals on the farm, which include a black poodle house dog and a German Shepherd Collie barn dog.

Carol works as a nurse's aide at Siemon's Nursing Home near Somerset. Anita is a junior at the high school senior preparing for college next fall and says she wants to study criminology.

Tips For Surviving Sandwich Generation

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The squeeze is on for many Americans age 45 to 60. Sandwiched between two generations and increasingly coping with the competing demands of aging parents, children, and booming careers, Americans in this age group may have little time for their own wellness.

The number of people in the sandwich generation is growing as Americans live longer. The over-50 group currently makes up 23 percent of the U.S. population and is expected to continue to expand. During the next 30 years, it is projected that the under-50 population will grow by only 1 percent, while the over-50 population will increase by 74 percent. This dramatic shift will focus attention on the growing health concerns of this age group.

According to the National Center for Health Statistics, heart disease begins to take its toll after age 45. Older adults also are more likely to face problems with hypertension, diabetes, obesity, and osteoporosis.

What specific steps can 45- to 60-year-olds take to prolong wellness by caring for their own health needs? Here are some tips developed by an expert nutrition and medical panel that was recently convened by the National Dairy Council.

Be more selective about the foods you eat. Although nutritional requirements change very little as we age, our ability to burn calories slows. Therefore, we need to take greater care to consume foods that provide needed nutrients without extra calories.

Recognize there are no "good" or "bad" foods. With careful planning, all foods can fit into the context of a low fat diet. To slow bone loss, improve your calcium consumption. Studies show that post-menopausal women who typically consume fewer than 400 mg of calcium per day could significantly reduce bone loss by increasing their calcium intake to 800 mg per day — the current recommended dietary allowance. And osteoporosis does not only affect women. In fact, 20 percent of Americans with osteoporosis are men.

Indulge in a physical activity you enjoy every day. Physical activity can help you achieve and maintain healthy weight and expand the amount and variety of foods you can enjoy.

Ida Risser

What woman doesn't have recipes stuck away somewhere that she hopes to try when she has the time? It is so much easier to make the same familiar things year after year.

Long ago my sister gave me a 1946 edition of "The Lily Wallace New American Cook Book." Now this cook book covers everything. It has practically fallen apart from years of use. You want to know how to skin a rabbit or clean an opossum, just turn to the section on game. Or if you wish to set a table for a special occasion, you can find that also in the 931-page book.

Foreign dishes such as German hassenpfeffer, Mexican chilaquiles, Chinese foo chow or French gauffres can be found in abundance. I use a baked corn recipe from the book and I've always used the Bread and Butter Pickles recipe. My grandchildren always expect me to share jars of sweet spiced pickles with them when they visit. My cookie recipes are in a loose-leaf notebook and are used mostly at Christmas time.

Recently I made some shoofly pies and they were delicious, but as I improvise I might never be able to exactly duplicate them. I have my grandmother Landis' handwritten recipe but sometimes I add light syrup or honey to the black molasses. My recipe for cherry pie is on the side of a very old empty tapioca box that I won't throw away.

When I find time to try a new dish, I'll wait until my husband has eaten a few bites and then I'll ask him what he thinks of it. If he says, "It's nothing to write home about," then I simply throw the recipe away. I only save those that use ingredients that I always keep on hand.

Sometimes I try to duplicate dishes that we've been served in restaurants. They don't always turn out the same but I'd say that they are edible.

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.)— The high cost of home heating has boosted the popularity of portable kerosene heaters. But these heaters can cause problems if not treated with caution, says a safety expert in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"Improved design has increased the safety of most portable kerosene heaters," says Sam Steel, project assistant in agricultural and biological engineering and director of the Pennsylvania Agricultural Safety Council.

"Most new kerosene heaters include several safety features, such as a lower center of gravity to prevent tipping and automatic snuffing devices to extinguish the flame if the heater is knocked over. Fuel is now wick-fed rather than gravity- or pressure-fed, permitting the fuel tank to be located farther from the flame.

"But despite improvements, kerosene heaters still can be serious fire and safety hazards," Steel says. "Kerosene heaters should be used only in safe, ventilated areas. They should never be used in tightly closed rooms, garages or workshops where there might be flammable liquids or combustible dust."

If you are considering purchasing a kerosene heater, keep safety in mind. "First, make sure that state and local laws permit the use of unvented portable heaters," Steel says. "Then look for safety features on any heater you buy." These features can include an Underwriters Laboratory (UL) or another recognized testing laboratory's label or listing; an automatic flame extinguisher in case the heater tips over, an oxygen depletion sensor, a removable fuel tank; and an accurate, easy-to-read fuel gauge.

Modern heaters are designed to burn more efficiently, reducing carbon monoxide emission from incomplete combustion. "However, ventilation still is essential when using these heaters," Steel warns. "A minimum of one square-inch opening of a window or door for every 1,000 BTU heat rating on the heater is recommended."

With surface temperatures sometimes exceeding 500 degrees

Fahrenheit, kerosene heaters also can cause burns and fires if used carelessly. Steel offers some tips to stay both safe and warm when using these devices.

"Place your heater on level ground and keep it away from combustible walls, curtains, carpets and furniture," he says. "Also keep the heater away from high-traffic areas of a room to avoid tripping, contact burns and ignition of clothing. Children and pets should be taught to stay away from the heater.

"When using a kerosene heater, install a reliable automatic smoke/fire alarm detector in the vicinity," Steel says. "It's also a wise precaution to keep a Class B or C fire extinguisher nearby."

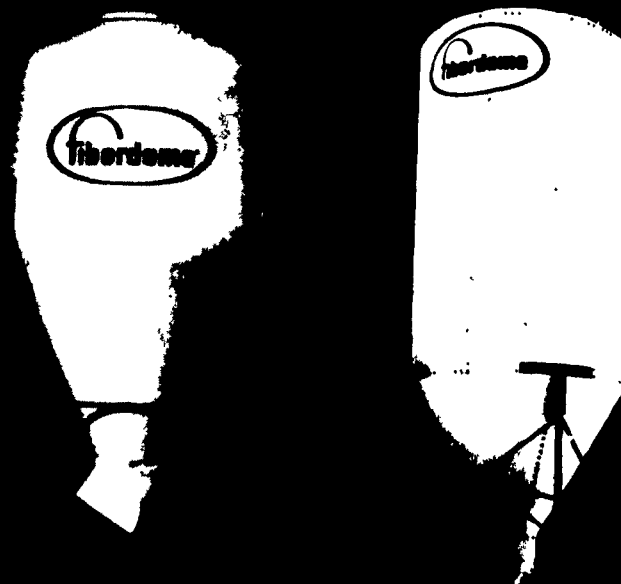

Using inappropriate fuel can produce excessive amounts of toxic gases, smoke or flare-ups. "Use only high-grade kerosene," Steel says. "Never refuel the heater while it is still hot, and never fuel the heater inside. The fuel tank should be removed and filled outside." Fuel should be stored in a tightly closed safety container and kept in a safe, cool and dry place.

Prune To Help Prevent, Not Cure, Plant Problems

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff
LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.)

— Few things in life are permanent, and that includes the shape of a pruned plant.

Knowing how to prune and when, and the importance of early pruning, were emphasized by Dr. J. Robert Nuss, professor of ornamental horticulture, Penn State, at the ongoing professional landscape management program in Lancaster. Nuss said that pruning should be considered a concept, not an activity.

And even though April 1 is just around the corner, we shouldn't start sharpening our pruning blades without at least taking a careful look into exactly when and why we should prune.

Those are some of the messages that about 100 professional landscape workers took home recently on the first day of a six-week seminar at the Farm and Home Center. The program, "Focus on Pruning," is part of a series of professional landscape management seminars hosted by the extension office.

Knowing how to prune and when, and the importance of early pruning, were emphasized by Dr. J. Robert Nuss, professor of ornamental horticulture, Penn State. Nuss said that pruning should be considered a concept, not an activity.

Have to prune

"You shouldn't believe that if it's April 1, we have to prune," he said. "I don't always buy that."

Nuss said there must be valid reasons to prune. "Think about why you're doing it," he said. The reasons for pruning include to control size, shape, and form of the plant, to benefit the plant by controlling plant materials, and to direct and control growth.

When pruning the plant, the buds are the key. The regrowth potential of the plant is based on where the cut is.

Pruning is an evolving art, and owes itself to several "quantum leaps" in its history, said Robert R. Gutowski, curator for interpretation and consulting horticulturist at the University of Delaware.

"Pruning is not permanent," said Nuss. "It is temporary. Once pruned, the plant will have to be pruned again to retain shape, form, or density."

WORKIN' HARD FROM SUN UP TO SUN DOWN

Kubota's mid-size tractors are designed to handle a wide range of farm and utility jobs and built to work hard from sun up to sun down.

These versatile L-Series tractors range from 20 to 49 PTO HP and are available with a variety of options. Take your choice of several transmissions. The innovative Glide Shift Transmission (GST) requires no clutching through its 8 forward and 8 reverse gears, and some models have mechanical or hydraulic shuttle transmissions.

Extremely fuel efficient with superb handling, Kubota offers the new "Ever Clutch." This wet-type clutch is designed to work long and hard, and is even backed by a 3 year/1500 hour limited warranty.

And, we have the right Kubota performance matched implements for your needs including quick attach loaders, boxscrapers, rotary tillers, backhoes, mowers, post hole diggers, snowblowers and blades.

When you need a tractor that works as hard as you do, visit your local Kubota dealer and ask to see Kubota L-Series tractors.

Kubota Tractor Corporation markets a full line of tractors through a nationwide network of over 1,000 dealers.

consider the actual shape of the plant and what the plant is supposed to look like, said Nuss. Those who prune should consider the plant in the overall landscape design — and sometimes it's easier to simply remove the plant than attempt to fix the problems by pruning.

The important thing is to prune by hand — because hedge shears or electric powered clippers do more harm to the plant than good.

When pruning, don't just cut right off the top, because the lateral branches will grow right back, and the problem will not be stopped. It is better to loosen the top by hand, using smaller shears such as hand shears, and to keep the plant material open.

For pruning, keep in mind "how the plant is supposed to look," said Nuss. "Cut below where you want it so the plant can grow back to where you want it." If the cuts are made too much at the surface, it's possible that regrowth may be hindered in the future.

Alleviate early

For flowering type plants, "a lot of pruning problems can be alleviated quite early in the stage," said Nuss. "Don't let plant materials get out of hand."

For trees, it is important to cut them in the early stages, when they are about six to seven feet tall. It is important to remember, he said, that trees grow from the top, and to get the trees cleared up as early as possible. Too many people are afraid of killing the tree, said Nuss, so they are reluctant to prune the trees at all. It is easier to prune the tree in the early stages when the branches are smaller and regrowth has more potential.

Early spring pruning will work for most plants, although some trees can be pruned in mid-summer. Consult references available from the extension office on pruning to determine when trees should be pruned.

"Pruning is not a panacea," said Nuss. If heavy pruning occurs too late in the plant's life, as long as enough live wood still exists, the plant has the potential to recover.

Pruning is an evolving art, and owes itself to several "quantum leaps" in its history, said Robert R. Gutowski, curator for interpretation and consulting horticulturist at the University of Delaware.

Gutowski spoke about the history of pruning, and the quantum leaps in landscaping and pruning included the development of the lawn mower in 1684 (fashioned from the rotary blades used to cut carpet) and the chain saw in 1945.

From the invention of the pruning hook in the Middle Ages to the development of the chain saw, there has been a steady development of knowledge and inquiry into pruning methods and practices that have been passed down through the ages.

HAPPENINGS

Kiddn' Around Goat Club
The December meeting of the York Co. Kiddn' Around Goat Club was held at the 4-H Center at Bair Station.

The meeting was called to order by Kimberly Sheldon, club secretary. Attendance was taken and awards were handed out to the ones that finished their project books.

Leader Rose Sprengle gave the children gifts for doing such a good job the first year of our newly formed club. A drawing for the club's handmade quilt was raffled off, and the winner was Liz Springer of Seven Valleys.

The first meeting of the year was held January 3 at Kimberly Barnhart's in Red Lion. The meeting was called to order by Kimberly Sheldon, club secretary.

Attendance was taken and the new officers were sworn in for the new year with a candlelight ceremony. President is Kimberly Sheldon, vice president is Melissa Benner, treasurer is John Sheldon, and secretaries are Robert Will-wert, Allison Maynes, and Teresa Brecht. News reporter is Jennifer Blower. Historian is Anthony Martin.

The club sold ham and cheese sandwiches to raise money for William McKinsey, seriously injured in a truck accident last December.

The next meeting was held February 7 at the 4-H Center in Bair Station.

The club is open to new members. Contact the extension office at (717) 757-9657 and ask for Jennie Hess, club leader Rose Sprengle at (717) 225-5179, or Mary Blower at (717) 246-3275. Children ages 7 to 18 can join.

Northampton County 4-H Dairy Club

The Northampton County 4-H Dairy Club had a meeting on Monday, January 20, 1992 at 7:30 p.m. at the Farm Credit Building in Tatamy.

The club elected the following officers: President Jill Sanders, Vice President Scott Longenbach, Secretary Sara Hlavaty, Treasurer Jason Kochler, News Reporter Dawn Ackerman (4-H Newsletter), News Reporter Jennifer Kochler (Farmsine) and "Lancaster Farming" and game leaders Lisa Pysher, Bryant Hlavaty, and Michael Ford.

The February 17 meeting will cover project reports, games, and project books.

Berks Co. 4-H

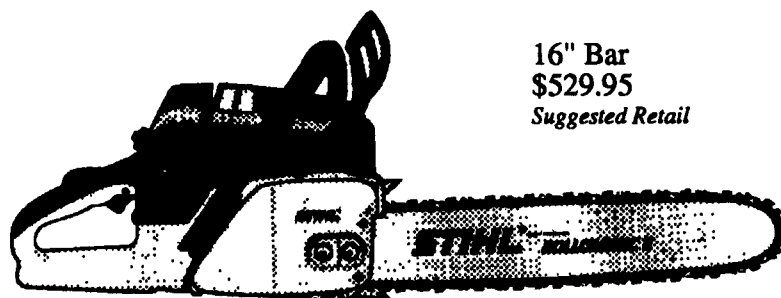

On Saturday, February 22, the Berks County 4-H Dairy Council will sponsor a foot-stompin'-hand-clappin' Hoedown at the Berks County 4-H Center in Leesport.

The evening begins at 7 p.m. with a delicious cold buffet/beef barbecue lunch. For musical enjoyment, Ken Saul & The Blue Marsh Ramblers will be featured from 8 p.m. - 11 p.m.

Adult tickets are $8 - children 6-12 are $3, and children under 5 are free.

For more ticket information visit The Leesport Farmers Market and Auction, contact The Berks County Ag Center (215) 378-1327, or call Martha (215) 683-5459 or Donna (215) 562-2070. Ticket deadline is Feb. 12.

Meet Indiana County Farm Women President

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff
CYMER (Indiana Co.) — Fifteen years ago, a neighbor invited Donna Good to an Indiana County Farm Women meeting.

"I thought it was such a nice group of ladies. They seemed to have fun and they had charities. I thought I'd like to join something like that," Donna said recently.

She did. And today Donna is president of the Indiana County Farm Women Society that has one society with 20 members.

Donna grew up on a farm in Indiana County that is called the Christmas tree capitol of the world. She married at 18 years of age, and is now married 27 years.

Donna and her husband, Leroy, who works in mining, live on a home with three- acres. The Goods have three children, 22, 19, 14. Their oldest son is in Navy.

According to Donna, Indiana County farms are mostly hilly and wooded. Most members of her society do not live on the farm.

This year the Indiana County Farm Women's goal is to help financially with the expenses incurred by the sister of a member who has leukemia. "When people are tested for bone marrow transplants, the one diagnosed with leukemia is responsible for costs," Donna said. "Our goal is to have a silent auction to help pay for those expenses."

Donna said, "Of course, we always have a goal to add a new member. If you are interested in knowing more about becoming a Farm Women member, call Donna at (412) 254-4637.

The Farm Women attend a musical once a year at the Jennerstown Playhouse. They hold a annual family picnic. Instead of exchanging Christmas gifts among members, they donate money to charitable organization. This past year, the society donated money to the children's hospital in Pittsburg and to the local pediatrics hospital in Indiana.

In March, the society sells daffodils for the Cancer Society, and they give the flowers to shutins. There are local church ladies who do volunteer work in the area. The society raises money for these ladies to continue to assist them in helping the needy.

Donna is a full-time homemaker

Indiana County Farm Women
President

The Society of Farm Women of Pennsylvania was founded October 14, 1914. Its purpose is to contribute to the power and influence of the farm home; to contribute to the community activity of farm women; to develop leadership and to promote better living and working conditions in the farm homes of Pennsylvania. The 16 county societies have a state membership of 3,371. Check this section weekly for a feature story on individual Farm Women presidents from Pennsylvania.

The workshop will be offered at two locations. On Tuesday, March 10, it will be held at the Bradford County Library on Route 6 in Burlington. On Wednesday, March 11, the workshop will be offered at the Tom Thumb I Day Care Center, 369 Pennsylvania Avenue in South Waverly. Both workshops will be held from 7:30 to 9:00 p.m.

There is no fee to attend the income tax workshop. Persons planning to attend are asked to register with the Penn State

Don't Leave Pets In The Cold

NEWARK, DE — People wrap up in warm clothes to go outside this time of year, and nothing is more welcoming than a hot cup of cocoa or tea. Although pets don't wear wraps or drink hot beverages, they do deserve similar consideration, says Maggie Moor, Delaware State College Cooperative Extension agricultural agent. The right diet and protection from harsh winds, snow and freezing temperatures are important elements in winter pet care.

"Do not leave dogs and cats outside when the temperature drops," Moor advises. "Wind chill is even more harmful to your pet than the low temperature. Never keep old or very young pets outside during these cold months. And short-haired pets are better off inside no matter what their age."

Make sure an outdoor dog's house is dry, draft-free and big enough for the animal to lie down. A floor that is raised a few inches off the frozen ground will stay warmer. Cover the floor with straw or wood shavings to provide extra comfort. Also, position the entrance to the house away from the wind and cover the entry with burlap or an old rug to close out the chill air.

"Because they need a lot of energy to keep warm, outdoor pets should be fed more in winter. Usually a third more food will help generate the warmth they need," Moor says. "And check the water bowl frequently to make sure the water isn't frozen."

Warm engines in parked cars and trucks often entice cats seeking warmth. To avoid injuring the animal, bang on the vehicle's hood before starting the engine.

Pets that walk on sidewalks which have been treated with salt or chemicals to melt the snow can suffer burns on the pads of their feet. When they lick their feet, the residue burns their mouths. To prevent this from happening, wipe the dog's or cat's feet with a damp paper towel or cloth before it enters the house.

CHEESE CAKE

Make a graham crust by following directions on the graham cracker box. Press into a springform pan. Mix together

5 8-ounce packages cream cheese

1½ cup sugar

1 teaspoon vanilla

5 whole eggs plus 1 egg yolk

¼ cup heavy cream

In a large bowl, beat cheese, vanilla, and sugar. Add eggs, one at a time, beating after each addition. Add egg yolk and beat again. Pour in heavy cream, mix well. Pour into crust. Bake in preheated 455-degree oven for 12 minutes. Turn oven to 250 degrees for 1½ hours. Turn off oven, let cake set in oven for 1 hour. Cool completely. Let stand in refrigerator one whole day before serving. Top with favorite topping. Donna prefers blueberry or strawberry topping.

Beef Producers Face Tough Times

VERNON ACHENBACH, JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff
LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The profit prognosis for 1992 beef producers, especially small operators, is not all that good, according to economic experts.

But the situation most likely won't get much worse, they said, because it can't.

Worse would mean producers dropping out of the business, which would raise prices.

During a Lancaster County Cattle Feeder's Day program held Tuesday at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center, H. Louis Moore, Penn State extension economist, said that a number of economic indicators seem to point toward continued poor beef prices.

Interlocking into that theme, Martin Jorgenson, a South Dakota cattle rancher, said Pennsylvania small-operation beef producers are not only in trouble, but face a dead-end future unless they start cooperating and support-industry specialists begin cooperating also.

Moore, a well-known agricultural economics professor with Penn State University, told the group of about 100 local beef producers that weather, economy, international trade, and oversupply has set the stage for the drop in beef prices and for continued drops in prices.

Overall, according to projections for production in the coming year, Moore said the outlook is for prices to get better, but not much better.

He said that with the axiom that everything predicted by Wall Street is six months early, the U.S. can probably expect some small economic growth by mid-year and an incremental increase overall for the year.

However, Moore said there are some good things to be looking at.

He said that short term interest rates are at a 28 year low, and inflation is single digit, whereas 10 years ago it was double digit.

For 1991, the U.S. ranked fifth among industrial nations for keeping inflation under control at 3.1 percent, and that the expectation for 1992 is no more than a 3 percent inflation rate.

Food prices are expected to increase from 2 percent to 4 percent and most likely closer to 2 percent.

Unemployment, while at 7.1 percent the day of the seminar, is not anywhere near as bad as during the early 1980s, Moore said. However, the difference is that those people laid off in the 1980s expected to return to work, whereas today's unemployed do not expect to return to those jobs.

He said that while there are some good points to the current economic state, the bad news is there.

Recovery is uncertain, he said. "The best guess is sometime about mid-year it will start to recover and see some growth, but small growth."

Other bad news is the budget deficit projected for the year is $350 billion. "We used to talk about $1 billion and used to cringe," Moore said, adding that if all the government programs being talked about in Washington get funded, the deficit will get worse.

Also, instead of talking about Gross National Product, which takes into account in-country production by non-American countries, Moore talked about the Gross Domestic Product, as an indicator of what amounts of money are being generated on world markets to be brought into the American economy.

He said that some projections are for a 2.5 percent over increase in the GDP, but "I think that's too optimistic," he said there should be some growth however, because a recession during a presidential election year is inconvenient for the powers seeking that seat.

Moore also discussed the world events, the impact of winning the cold war, what it will mean to the economy and to defense contractors, such as the Pennsylvania State University, and many businesses.

He also discussed the instability of free trade talks. He predicted that true world free trade would probably not be known within the lifetime of anyone in the room.

However, he said there should be some encouragement in the fact that the U.S. increased its exports of manufactured goods by 100 percent last year, while the closest any other country got was 25 percent.

Overall U.S. exports increased from 14 percent to 18 percent, along with increased productivity.

However, as a nation, we only reinvested 9 percent of the national income.

Ag sales are looking to the Russian community, even though they have no money to spend. And Japan is the largest agricultural customer for the U.S.

The federal government is already taking action that could ensure adequate amounts of grains for beef feed, by reducing the targeted amount of set-aside land. Feeding beef is not the reason for reducing the set-aside program, however.

Right now, however, federal grain reserves are at an all-time low, aided by the last two droughts. So, he predicted volatile grain prices.

He said that input prices should remain somewhat stable for the producers, however. He estimated an increase of about 1 percent.

He also said that the agricultural industry does have a built-in con-

At a butcher shop in western Berks County, Dr. Bill Henning, a Penn State University red meat specialist explains his analysis of a beef carcass to those attending a beef evaluation program sponsored by the Southeast Cattlemen's Association and the PSU extension service. There were 11 cattle entered in this recent program which resulted in a point evaluation based on the carcass condition and yield. The program is offered periodically to members who wish to examine the results of their breeding and feeding programs.

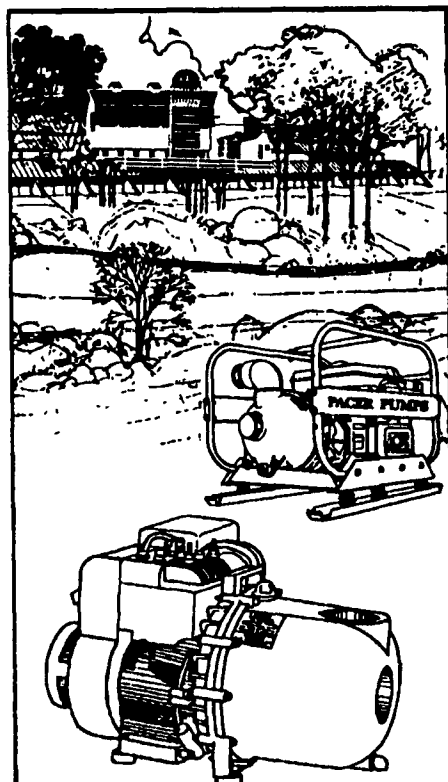

sumer in that there is a growing number of those on the food stamp program. He said there are more than 24.5 million people on food stamps, or about 10 percent of the population.

According to Moore, U.S. farm production should increase, but that's a problem. "We produce more than the markets will absorb, so we lose about 2 percent of the farmers every year." He said that will probably continue.

Moore said that Pennsylvania is one of the top 10 states in the nation for livestock production on a cash receipts basis (dairy and other livestock operations are included). Wisconsin is the only

Dairylea Urges Action On Milk Prices

SYRACUSE — Responding to the severe financial stress suffered by the nation's dairy farmers during the past year, Dairylea Cooperative urged U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Edward Madigan to take action that would help alleviate the plight of the nation's milk producers.

The Cooperative has asked Madigan to maintain several of the administrative dairy price relief measures undertaken last May and to take additional steps to help financially-stressed dairy farmers.

Dairylea urged Madigan to take the following actions:

- Continue the temporary suspension of resale of Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) stocks of cheese and nonfat dry milk. Last year, this resulted in improved market prices, which benefited dairy farmers while not disrupting markets or causing significant stock buildups.

- Make advanced purchases of dairy products for the school lunch and other domestic food assistance programs during the winter and spring. This would strengthen market prices and stretch limited food assistance funds, since the government could take advantage of the favorable prices for dairy products.

- Increase the CCC manufacturing allowances. It has been since 1979 that they were set at current levels; meanwhile, the cost of making cheese, butteroil and nonfat dry milk has increased.

- Reduce the CCC block-barrel cheese price differential from 4 cents per pound to 3 cents per pound. Dairylea believes that this is a more realistic level for cheese delivered in non-returnable fiber barrels, as required by the CCC.

- Maintain the current allocation in the rate of price support between butter and nonfat dry milk. Dairylea said this will contribute to greater market stability and provide income support without contributing to a significant milkfat surplus.

- Announce new and expanded allocations under the Dairy Export Incentive Program (DEIP) for 1992. In particular, Dairylea asked Madigan to extend product coverage to include all U.S.-produced dairy products, including cheese, and to greatly expand the list of eligible countries.

- Extend additional credit guarantees for the purchases of dairy products under the GSM-102 program to the republics of the former Soviet Union, Algeria and certain other countries. This is crucial, said Dairylea, to enabling dairy product exports to take place under the DEIP. The Cooperative noted that although Madigan has been responsive to this need, additional export credits are necessary for new DEIP allocations to be used.

- Expand direct export sales and donations of CCC dairy product stocks, including donations as part of the aid package to the republics of the former USSR under Section 416(b) and Public Law 480. Under these, butter, butteroil and nonfat dry milk are available for export donation or sale on favorable terms for humanitarian and developmental purposes during fiscal 1992. In addition to donations to Albania, Nepal and other countries, Dairylea urged Madigan to aggressively seek out other opportunities for dairy product sales and donations to meet emergency food needs. The Cooperative especially hopes to see dairy products included under the humanitarian assistance component of the aid package to the republics of the former USSR recently announced by President Bush.

Beef Producers

other state east of the Mississippi River also in the top 10.

He said that a number of factors however are working that will keep beef production prices low, but more stable, if not profitable.

First, there are three firms which handle the slaughter of 71 percent of the cattle and 40 percent of the hogs in the nation — IBP, Con-Agra and EXCEL.

Also, 65.8 percent of the kill is coming from five states; Colorado, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, and Texas. In 1965, those three accounted for only 37.6 percent of the kill.

In the East, Pennsylvania has increased dramatically in its percentage of the livestock slaughter market, going from a 36 percent share to 87 percent.

"We have about the last plants in the Northeast," Moore told the group. "I think we still have a good viable industry here."

Somewhat along those lines, Jorgenson said that producers must stop breeding non-marketable animals, animals that are too large and not yielding well enough.

He said the goal is to have a marketable animal in 12 months or less. He said he is getting it now, mostly from purebred Angus.

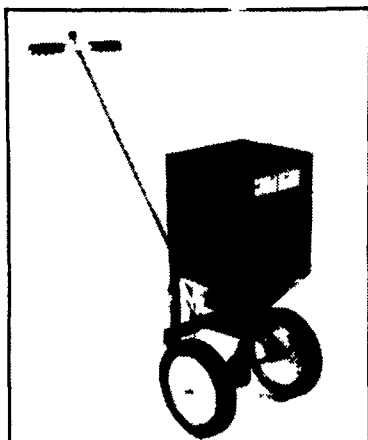

Jorgenson, representing the National Cattleman's Association, of which he is chairman of the Integrated Resource Management committee, said that the IRM program is the only way for independent producers to compete with the large mega-businesses.

The key is cooperation he said, among farmers (such as making purchases in bulk) and among those in the feed, fencing, veterinary, lending, extension, and other businesses which individually provide services for the producer.

It should behoove those people who make their living selling to the producers to get together as a team to make sure the guy he is selling to can afford to buy. Because if they don't there won't be anyone to sell to.

Cattle Play Big Role in U.S. Economy

Cash receipts from sales of cattle and calves are making significant contributions to the nation's economy, analysis of government reports shows.

The following table details personal income by region, cash receipts from cattle sales, and the percent of personal income attributed to the sale of cattle and calves.

Cattle's contribution to personal income ranged from nearly 18 percent in Nebraska to less than .01 percent in Alaska and parts of the northeastern United States. For the United States in general, cattle sales contribute nearly 1 percent of the nation's total personal income.

Personal income figures come from "Survey of Current Business," published by the U.S. Department of Commerce and are the sum of wage and salary disbursements, other labor income, proprietor's income, rental income, personal interest income and transfer payments (such as gifts) minus contributions for social insurance. Cash receipts from sales of cattle and calves are published in USDA's Agricultural Statistics. Cattle receipts include receipts from marketings and sales of farm-slaughtered meat.

Select Beef Carcasses Tender As Choice

A Colorado State University (CSU) study of 240 beef carcasses from a commercial slaughter plant shows Select beef carcasses can be as tender as Choice carcasses if carcasses in the lower third of the Select grade are excluded from tenderness studies and carcasses in the upper two-thirds of the Select grade have an external fat thickness of at least 0.2 inches.

Researchers conducted the study to evaluate postmortem pH levels in cattle. In addition to the above findings, research showed carcasses exhibiting rapid declines in pH levels appear to have enhanced tenderness. PH levels below 5.8 after 3 hours postmortem produce a fairly consistent product in terms of tenderness, comparable to currently available high-quality branded products.

In conjunction with the American Hereford Association, university researchers are using this information to develop high-quality beef products with less fat than Choice beef and the same eating quality. The product gets less than 30 percent of calories from fat, and contains less than 4 percent intramuscular fat. The product utilizes mostly Select and some low-Choice carcasses.

Why Some Farmers Succeed, Year After Year

From "Dairy Production Notes," Florida Cooperative Extension Service

Even in the worst years (possibly even 1991), some farmers manage to make a good profit. There probably is more variation in profitability between dairies than between years. That means that some managers have a better understanding of the factors which help or hinder their ability to develop profits.

A Kansas State University study found that only about 10 percent of Kansas farmers had profits every year, year after year. The rest drift in and out of profitability. Twelve factors were common in the 10 percent most consistently profitable farms.

1. They know their actual costs. They're never satisfied with an assumed average.
2. They know how to control their costs.
3. They keep accurate business records — financial as well as production data — so they can understand where they are really headed.

4. They approach their enterprises as profit managers, not as asset accumulators.

5. They maintain high production volumes.

6. They understand how to utilize the economics of scale.

7. They recognize their weaknesses as financial experts and develop reliable sources to provide support in this critical area.

8. They keep their capital structure in the right balance for maximizing profits.

9. They don't tolerate assets that don't produce.

10. They've developed their debt management skills into key strengths and are able to communicate effectively with their lenders.

11. They keep their level of risk under control at all times and keep stress to a minimum.

12. They plan ahead! By carefully analyzing their businesses, they develop realistic short and long term plans for their operations.

In short, the most consistently successful farmers are executives. They spend more time learning, thinking, analyzing, and planning. They are information seekers, always looking for reliable advice and guidance.

Fun Winter Project

Here's a fun winter project; calculate some financial ratios for your farm and then figure out what they mean. A financial ratio, in general terms, is simply a comparison of two measures of a business.

These two measures are expressed relative to one another and form a ratio. Each ratio will focus on the financial health of a particular part of your farm business enterprise. Try the following for starters.

1. Working Capital (Liquidity) = total current farm assets — total current farm liabilities. Or, in ratio form, total current farm assets/total current farm liabilities. A ratio of 1.0 or greater would be desirable. Above 1.5 is considered more favorable.

2. Equity to Assets ratio (Solvency) = Total farm equity/total farm assets. A ratio or percentage equity above 70 percent is most favorable. Percentages between 40-70 percent should indicate caution.

3. Rate of Return on Farm Assets (Profitability) = (Net farm income from operations (NFIFO) + farm interest expense — value of operator and unpaid family labor and management)/average total farm assets. (Possibly net farm income would be easier). This is a measure of the ability of the farm business to generate profits from the land, labor and capital resources and management. A return on assets of 6% or higher would be desirable. Returns in the range of 3-6 percent should signal caution.

This is just a small sampling of possible financial ratios. There is no best ratio for all farms. Financial ratios provide in early warning system for potential problems in your farm's financial health. Be especially aware of sudden changes.

Cow/Calf Management Tips

1. If forage quality is low, consider having a sample analyzed to determine possible supplement needs. Energy, protein, phosphorus, selenium and Vitamin A are nutrients likely to be deficient.

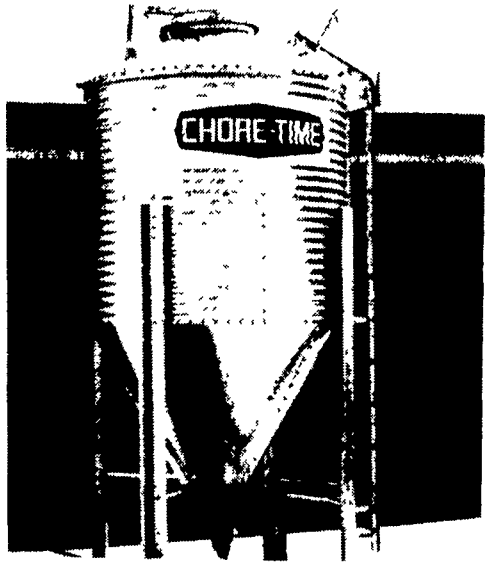

2. Corn or corn silage is normally the cheapest supplemental energy source in many areas. Use this formula to compare energy sources on basis of cost per lb. of total digestible nutrients (TDN): (Cost, $/ton) + (2,000 X % dry matter X % TDN in dry matter) = Cost per lb. of TDN. For example, $25/T corn silage; $25 + (2000 X .35 X .70) = $.051/lb of TDN.

3. If supplemental protein is required, beware of needless over-spending on exotic commercial mixes. Use this formula to compare supplemental proteins on the basis of cost per lb. of crude protein (CP): (Cost of supplement, $/cwt) + (% CP) = Cost per lb. of CP. For example, $200/T 40% CP supplement: $200 + (2000 X .40) = $.25/lb of CP.

4. Supplemental mineral needs vary from region to region depending on soils and vegetation. A general purpose mix that has proven useful for wintering cow herds is: 45 percent dicalcium phosphate; 20 percent selenium 20 premix (supplies 40 ppm Se); 35 percent trace mineral salt. In areas where magnesium, copper, zinc, cobalt or manganese are extremely deficient, you will need to increase the levels of these elements.

5. Vitamin A may be fed in a supplement or injected. Injections last 90 to 100 days. Injected dosage should be 2 to 3 million IU per cow.

6. Be sure the herd has an adequate water supply. Depending on body size and state of production, cattle need 5 to 11 gallons per head per day, even in the coldest weather.

7. Provide some protection, such as a windbreak, during severe winter weather to reduce energy requirements. A woodlot is ideal.

Producing Wholesome Beef
Because interest in the wholesomeness of beef has escalated in the last decade, producers of America's beef supply have developed an aggressive Beef Safety Assurance Program, administered by various state organizations affiliated with the National Cattlemen's Association. Representing 300,000 cattlemen from all segments of the U.S. cattle and beef industry, the National Cattlemen's Association serves as the industry's national trade association.

The association's Beef Safety and Quality Assurance Task Force studies food safety issues and helps develop educational programs for state cattle organizations to use in developing local quality assurance programs. Currently, there are 30 states with beef cattle quality assurance programs, designed specifically to address the needs of cattlemen in those states.

Since first being developed about five years ago, the emphasis of the National Cattlemen's Association's quality assurance program has been expanded to include much more than just residue avoidance. Quality assurance programs now include information on avoiding cattle bruising and possible reactions to vaccinations — which can affect the cosmetic value of beef cuts.

Of course, cattlemen continue to be educated about safe ways to use animal health products for the production of an abundant and safe beef supply. Quality assurance manuals include fact sheets on product information, residue withdrawal times, animal care, feed production, and cooperation with veterinarians and Extension service agents. The National Cattlemen's Association provides this information, as well as educational videos and a speakers' bureau, in its effort to maintain the safety of beef in the United States.

Industry Pursues "War on Fat"

Cattlemen are taking the industry's "War on Fat" into the public arena. They are spelling out for media personnel and other thought leaders just what is involved in projects that will lead to leaner cattle and to wholesale and retail beef cuts with less trimmable fat.

National Cattlemen's Assn. spokesmen and meat scientists are explaining that the beef industry is battling to better align beef production and marketing systems with consumers' and meat marketers' preferences for beef containing more lean meat and less trimmable fat. Weapons in the "war" range from ultra-sound technology to sophisticated new computer software for retailers to use in evaluating more closely trimmed wholesale cuts of beef.

Through marketing system changes and use of new technology, the industry is working to stimulate production of more closely trimmed wholesale as well as retail cuts and, in turn, the production of leaner cattle. By reducing fat production, we not only can satisfy demands for leaner meat; we will increase efficiency and lower costs, making beef more economical for consumers and more profitable for producers.

Beekeepers Meet With Pa. Ag

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania's beekeepers met with Pennsylvania's Secretary of Agriculture Boyd Wolff recently to update the state ag department on important issues and problems for state beekeepers.

Attending the meeting were other members of Wolff's staff. Pennsylvania State Beekeepers Association (PSBA) President Dr. Bob Brooks, Montgomery County, outlined the organization's goals and concerns.

Heading the list were concerns for the freezing of PDA research funds to Penn State, which involved critical research projects on beef mites.

Brooks pointed out that many of these projects were already under way. This $1.4 million dollar research funding was frozen in mid-January. The secretary listened to PSBA comments but detailed the budget problems that the administration was facing.

PSDA commended Sec. Wolff for his efforts in helping to improve the state inspection over the years. Brooks noted that more had been accomplished under Wolff's administration than any in the recent past. Good marks also went to Chief State Bee inspector James Steinhauer for maintenance of the inspection program.

Another issue discussed was changes to the State Bee Law, which have been proposed by another PSBA Committee, the Beekeeping Advisory Board, which is chaired by Maryann Tomasko, Penn State's apicultural extension specialist and commercial, hobby, and migratory beekeepers representative of the state's beekeeping population. This committee met to finalize recommended changes to the state's bee law, which will include a mandatory registration fee. The beekeepers want these funds in a designated account and this issue was discussed with Wolff.

The Commodity Queens program was another issue of discussion and its lack of direction at agriculture. PSDA believes their Honey Queen program has run on momentum over the past few years and is in need of some professional direction. PDA used to offer top-level direction and promotions, which has not been the case in recent years. Wolff stated that PDA was also working on the problem.

Brooks updated Sec. Wolff on PSBA's commitment to a beekeeping program at Penn State and the University's efforts. First, in 1991, a full time extension specialist was hired. Maryann Tomasko had been doing bee research at Penn State for a few years and is now in that extension position.

The Department of entomology just completed interviews for a new faculty member who will work in the area of bee research as part of his duties. As part of the search committee at the University, PSBA's Penn State committee had an opportunity to talk to the candidates and offer a recommendation. The faculty chose the candidate the beekeepers also recommended.

This person will work in the area of genetics research. Brooks said the beekeepers have worked with Dean Hood and Entomology Department Chairman Dr. James Frazier in order to accomplish

Spring Meeting For Farm Association In March

CHAMBERSBURG (Adams Co.) — The annual spring meeting of the Adams County Farmers' Association (ACFA) will be held on March 9 at 6:30 with a reception provided by the County Commodity Queens in the Mt. Joy Church Parish House, Route 134, Taneytown Road.

The Adams County Farmers' Association is a general farm organization with 820 family members. It is affiliated with the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association.

The "purpose of the meeting," said committee chairperson Susan Benner, "is to familiarize the membership with special programs and business services offered to our members."

Highlights of this year's meeting will be the responses from the state and national legislators as ACFA's committees will be meeting with representatives Cole and Broujos and Senator Punt in Harrisburg, and with representative Goodling in Washington D.C. during the months of February and March.

Tickets for the meeting, which will include the dinner, can be purchased by contacting any board member or committee chairperson Susan Benner. Deadline for reservations is February 25. Price per ticket is $7.

Anyone interested in learning more about the local farming organization may contact President Dave Wenk, (717) 677-9553.

PSBA goals. Brooks told Wolff that he appreciated PDA's commitment to bee research at Penn State, especially at a time when mites and African bees are such a problem.

The PSBA Legislative Committee includes Dr. Bob Brooks, President, PSBA, Montgomery Co.; Sandy Fisher, vice president, PSBA and her husband, Paul Fisher who is president of the Monroe County Association; W.W. Clarks, former extension specialist at Penn State and retired commercial beekeeper from Bradford County; Dyson Fisher, Lewistown; Dave Hackenburg, Lewisburg; Mae Jean Rosser, past president of the Chester County Association and her husband Jim Rosser; Warren Graham, vice chairman, PSBA Farm Show Booth Committee from Chester County; Robert Schaffer, past president, Dauphin County Beekeepers, PSBA, and of the Eastern Apiculture Society; Maryann Tomasko, apiculture extension specialist at Penn State and chairman of the Beekeeping Advisory Board; and Paul Ziegler, past president of PSBA and former chief PDA inspector.

Beef Association Names Cattleman

CORNING, N.Y. — Jake Martin received the highest honor of the New York Beef Cattleman's Association (NYBCA), the Cattleman of the Year Award, from president Fred Zeiner here at the association's annual meeting.

An orthodontist by profession, Martin and his family operate Tamberlane Farm in Canandaigua, a cow-calf operation raising hay, oats, corn, barley, sudan grass to feed and hay and straw for sale. They sell the animals through local auction, the freezer trade, NYBCA calf sales, and purebred Charolais sales. Family members consist of wife Anne and five grown daughters, all established professionals.

Martin's diversified interests range from his local parish to his professional activities in the American Dental Association and American Association of Orthodontists.

His dedication to the beef industry is widely known and documented. As chairman of the western division of NYBCA, encompassing the counties of Ontario, Seneca, Wayne, Livingston, Monroe, Genesee, Orleans and Niagara, he has activated the organization on the county level; coordinated promotion efforts with the New York Beef Industry Council; worked with the state fair board and local county fairs to encourage showing of cattle; activated beef extension on the local level; attempted to recruit more out-of-state buyers for NYBCA sales; currently serves as the Charolais breed representative on the bull test committee; and chairs the NYBCA promotion and publicity committee.

Martin has promoted his chosen breed of cattle well. He has placed NYBCA displays at local fairs, shown Charolais cattle at Empire Farm Days since 1978, shown Tamberlane's Charolais at the New York State Fair since 1980, actively supported the Cornell/NYBCA Bull Test since 1980, served as president of the Colonial Charolais Association, and organized the New York Charolais Association in 1982.

Last year, Martin was

DAIRY & ANIMAL

From Dairy and Animal Science at Penn State

Editor's Note: This week's guest columnist is William C. Heald, professor of dairy science at Penn State. Dr. Heald is coordinator of extension activities in the Department of Dairy and Animal Science.

When a farmer asks me, "What is your job?", I am tempted to say I am a farmer and farm advisor. But I am also a Penn State professor. My own farm chores often must wait until I've finished an already very long day at the university.

Farming is in my blood and I am, first and foremost, a farmer. My wife and I own a farm and live there. I continue to make hay each summer and feed cows and raise calves. I sometimes have trouble with heat detection and getting my hay made on time. This year hay is short and I had to buy feed substitutes.

I experienced the drought firsthand, and wondered if the well would go dry. Other than my wife, my family, and faith, my greatest love is learning. I love watching the cattle cycle on my farm — from breeding through pregnancy, birth, growth, and the selection of new breeding stock.

I had 21 years of formal schooling. Too much book learning you might say, but it was necessary for my job. I get another kind of learning by farming. I continue to read, learn, research, and study, for these are the tools of my profession. Few of us are blessed with doing what we most like to, but I feel I am thus blessed. From this foundation I search for better ways to manage the dairy enterprise, through records, goal setting, analyses, planning, monitoring, and continued fine-tuning of this process. What I learn I teach others.

I work mostly with Dairy Herd Improvement Association (DHIA) records. I know that farmers are burdened with too many pages of numbers and too many hard-to-understand reports. Many dairy farmers have so many responsibilities and tasks, that spending hours reading complex monthly DHIA reports seems nearly impossible. But for each dollar spent on DHIA records, the dairy owner can get back many dollars if he or she uses the records intensely. Here, then, is an opportunity, not a problem.

And today's technology can help you solve the problem much easier than you ever thought possible. For just as the tractor replaced the horse and milking machines replaced the hand milker, so have DHIA sheets replaced hand-kept records. Using goals set by each individual farm owner, DHIA's new computer can take an envelope of data and analyze it for the two largest economic opportunities on any farm operation. What might take a human expert three or four hours to do, the computer can do in a flash. This new computer program is called the "Herd Performance Evaluator."

So what can the Herd Performance Evaluator do for you? If I were to look for the greatest dollar return in a dairy farmer's DHIA records, I would study the following data: reproduction, mastitis, peak milk, persistency of lactation, dry matter intake, income over feed costs, body condition score, fat, protein, 305-day estimate, lactation number, group conditions, expected milk, genetic potential, ratio of protein to fat, age at freshening, culling, and days dry. Next, I would compare the herd's data with the average data from herds with a 2000-pound lactation milk advantage (you may have other goals). I would calculate the dollar loss for each data set.

The area of largest dollar loss would be the problem area marked for improvement. What the Herd Performance Evaluator does is take a complicated set of data and make it yours, based on what you tell it about your goals for your individual farm. In other words, it compares your herd with others that match your goals.

As a result of its newness and complexity, the Herd Performance Evaluator program is available on a pilot basis to DHIA dairy farmers working with consultants using ARIS (such as veterinarians, feed dealers, nutritionists, and county agents). Because the program is relatively untested, you should expect a series of modifications, as dairy farmers and their advisors work together to perfect it. With these modifications, the program may be widely available as early as next winter.

Training for the program is limited this year because of the current economic downturn and scheduling difficulties. Most training efforts are being directed to ARIS consultants and users so they, in turn, can magnify the adoption of this new tool. Workshops are being set up now. If you are interested, contact your county agent or DHIA representative to schedule a workshop in your area.

One final note. Rapidly changing technology will produce more and better computer programs to help individual farmers. But we all know that the cost is high. We also know that using these powerful programs can give you a competitive edge in the marketplace.

Pennsylvania dairy farmers can compete by keeping their state

DHIA financially strong and technically state of the art. This will happen only if the best minds (farmers, industry leaders, and extension) are involved in advising the board members of Pennsylvania DHIA.

If you are concerned, get involved with your cooperative. Make an investment in your future and your industry. For more information on working together for better Pennsylvania farms, call 800-DHI-TEST.

Rodale, Young Farmers To Host Ag Workshop

KUTZTOWN (Berks Co.) — A sustainable agriculture workshop entitled Environmental Farm Issues: Manure and Cover Crop Tools for Nutrient Management will be held at the Kutztown Grange, on March 13. This workshop will be a cooperative venture between the Rodale Institute and the Kutztown Young Farmers Association.

The workshop will focus on pending nutrient management legislation, best management practices for handling manure, and the use of cover crops for nutrient management and soil improvement. Farmers with diverse manure handling practices, including composting, will describe their method of managing nutrients. Additional speakers will include agricultural researchers from Rodale Institute Research Center as well as extension personnel. These speakers will address the inclusion of cover crops and the use of the late spring nitrate test as tools for nutrient management.

The workshop will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Registration begins at 8:30 a.m. Participants can pre-register for the workshop for $10 per person or pay $12 at the door. To register or obtain more information, contact Anne Schauer, Rodale Institute Research Center, 611 Siegfriedale Rd., Kutztown, PA 19530, (215) 683-6383. Please specify that you are inquiring about the Kutztown meeting.

Climatologist Looks Ahead At Corn Belt Weather

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Following the drought of 1991, Pennsylvania farmers are looking nervously ahead to spring and wondering what the 1992 growing season will bring.

The keynote speaker at the conference, noted climatologist Dr. Louis Thompson of Iowa State University, will present "Weather Cycles: What Do They Show for 1992?"

Although forecasting weather months or years in advance is a risky business, Thompson said there are factors that can help predict whether farmers will enjoy ample precipitation during the coming year.

"Several climatic cycles affect agricultural production," he said. "One of those is the 18- to 19-year wet-dry cycle. Right now, we're in a part of that cycle that's characterized by drought and below normal yields."

Another important cycle influencing weather is known as the "El Nino" cycle. The El Nino, which lasts six to 18 months, is the warming of Pacific Ocean surface water along the equator. As the warming reaches the South American coast, it causes low pressure systems to develop in the eastern Pacific and leads to higher-than-normal precipitation.

Thompson said drought conditions in the corn belt often follow an El Mno. "We just entered an El Nino in October," he said. "If it ends more quickly than expected, that could spell trouble for 1992. But my best guess is that 1992 will be near normal. Chances are greater that a drought will occur in 1993."

In addition to Thompson's address, the conference will feature several other presentations, workshops, and panel discussions designed to help corn growers increase efficiency and profitability.

Dr. Michael Boehlje, University of Minnesota professor of agricultural and applied economics, will discuss critical farm management principles for the 1990s; Lynn Hoffman, Penn State senior research associate in agronomy, will lead a panel discussion on developing a high-yield strategy; and John Sutton of Lovatt and Company will talk about grain marketing conditions and opportunities.

Also, representatives of several seed companies will discuss hybrid selection. Penn State faculty members will offer advice on managing nutrients and pests. And more than 25 commercial exhibitors will display their newest products and services.

A registration fee of $8 covers the cost of lunch. For more information or to register, contact the nearest Penn State cooperative extension office or call Lisa Cryter at (814) 865-2543.

Protect Your Forage Investment With SILO SYM
"Your Forage Guardian"

- a natural product containing no harmful chemicals or acids
- allows you to bale hay at up to 28% moisture and still maintain safe storage conditions
- a definite hedge against bad weather
- reduce nutrient losses which occur during harvesting and storage
- enhances forage palatability
- non-toxic to livestock
- higher feeding value, due to less leaf loss
- non-corrosive to equipment
- easily applied with Gandy Applicator
- helps ensiled crops to retain a higher percentage of the original dry matter, energy and other nutrients
- really works on square or round baled hay, haylage, corn silage and high moisture grains

However, the variety tested in these trials is Tibor, whereas the variety grown in Pennsylvania is Pennuda. Since the nutrient analysis of the Pennuda variety is similar to that of Tibor, it is likely that pig performance on the Pennuda variety would be equally similar. But it should be noted that we can not accurately predict the hog performance on our variety until we have documented research data.

Recommendation

Until research data is available, use the following substitution rule for Pennuda oats in swine diets. For every 100 pounds of naked oats added to the diet, remove 85 pounds of corn and 15 pounds of 48 percent soybean meal. Use a

Md. Tobacco Auctions Will Begin

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — The 1992 Maryland Tobacco auction season will begin March 24 and will last four weeks, closing April 16, according to Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Robert L. Walker.

His announcement follows recommendations of the State Tobacco Authority, which proposed the sales dates after consulting with tobacco buyers, warehousemen, and growers.

Running during a four-week period, the 1992 sales will be held the following dates: March 24-26 for the first week, March 30-31 and April 1-2 the second week, April 6-9 the third week, and April 13-16 for the final week.

Sales will be held at the six public warehouses located at Wayson's Corner, Waldorf, Upper Marlboro (two) and Hughesville (two).

Maryland's 1991 tobacco auction posted the highest price in its history at $187.19 per hundred pounds. A total of more than nine million pounds of tobacco was sold at a value of $16.9 million.

The Maryland Department of Agriculture's Marketing Services will provide daily sales reports during the season on its "Tobacco Report" toll-free number. Those interested in following the market can access the report after 8:30 a.m. each day by calling (800) 638-2207.

NAKED OATS

The production of naked oats (Avena nuda L.) is gaining popularity in Pennsylvania.

That's important news for swine producers, since some research data suggests that the use of naked oats reduces the need for soybean meal.

Naked oats, which contains 46-48 pounds/bushel, reportedly yields well (over 70 bushels/acre) and has a fairly high protein (17-20 percent) and oil (7 percent) content. Common oats (Avena sativa L.) have 27-28 percent hull, whereas naked oats have less than 1 percent hull.

studies using the Tibor cultivar from Canada.

Both experiments show that replacing corn and soybean meal with naked oats in growing-finishing diets has little effect on performance. The first experiment showed feed intake was reduced and and feed/gain ratio was improved, presumably because of the high oil content in naked oats.

Performance On Pennuda

To date, no swine feeding trials have been conducted with the Pennuda variety. However, we plan to begin a pilot study in mid-February, using 0 percent, 30 percent, 65 percent and 100 percent oats as the experimental diets. We then hope to do several large-scale studies under commercial conditions beginning this summer.

Table 1: COMPOSITION OF NAKED OATS

Crude fiber, %	3.74	1.87

Summary

Naked oats appear to be an excellent feed ingredient for growing-finishing swine. Earlier experiments also show that naked oats can be used successfully in starter pig diets.

The Sow Hearse has an efficient, hand-operated winch connected to a steel cable and pulley that enables one person to pull a sow from the floor onto the cart to transport to a disposal.

Dead Sow Removal Becomes One Man Job

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.)—Tri-County Confinement Systems of Lebanon has introduced the Sow Hearse to remove dead sows from confinement stalls in swine systems.

The death of a sow in a stall results in a very difficult and unpleasant job for at least two people. With a Sow Hearse, the task is much simpler and can be accomplished by one person.

The Sow Hearse, made of solid steel rod, is a rubber-wheeled cart designed to negotiate the narrow aisles of many confinement barns. On its top is an efficient, hand-operated winch connected to a steel cable that rides on a nylon pulley. When the cable is looped around the sow and secured, she can be pulled easily from the floor of her stall onto the sloped bed of the Sow Hearse. The machine then functions as a cart to transport the dead animal to a disposal location.

Dimensions of the Sow Hearse are 22" wide x 24" long x 4'4" high.

For more information, contact Tri-County Confinement Systems, 608 E. Evergreen Rd., Lebanon, PA 17042, (717) 274-3488.

Corn Clinics Spring Big Winners

YORK (York Co.) — York Farm Credit, ACA has teamed up with two local farm equipment dealers to offer some substantial prizes to attendees of both Adams and York County Corn Clinics.

On Monday, January 27, at the Adams County Corn Clinic, York Farm Credit, ACA and Melvin J. Sheffer, Inc. of Hanover held a drawing for one week free use of a new 95 HP Case IH 5140 Tractor.

Jeff King, a local farmer from York Springs, was the lucky winner. King will choose a week, at his convenience, to have the use of this new Maxxum Tractor.

A drawing was held for a $100 gift certificate to Gettysburg Agway, which was won by James Behney of York Springs.

On Wednesday, January 29, at the York County Corn Clinic, York Farm Credit, ACA and Gus Farm Equipment, Inc. of Seven Valleys held a drawing for one week free use of a new 140 HP Massey Ferguson 3660 Tractor.

CHALLENGES FACING POULTRY PRODUCTION IN THE NINETIES

Dr. William D. Weaver, Jr.
Head, Dept. of Poultry Science

Most of us remember when the majority of the problems facing the poultry industry were internal in nature.

Certainly coccidiosis breaks, nutrient deficiencies, poor ventilation designs, low fertility and many others can still cause problems.

However, I challenge you to consider that many of the problems that will face us in the next decade will not be problems associated with disease, nutrition, and management, but problems created by external pressures from consumer groups and regulations from governmental agencies.

The meat side of the poultry industry has experienced fantastic growth in market share in recent years. Poultry has become the number one meat consumed in the U.S., with chicken very possibly becoming the first choice of American consumers by the mid-1990s. This rapid growth has produced a high level of visibility for our industry, a visibility which has caused a number of outside groups to question just how we do business.

Surface and ground water quality has become a major national issue during this decade. The non-point source portion of the 1987 Clean Water Act states that, "all estuaries, lakes, and rivers must be both fishable and swimmable."

Data available today indicate that approximately two-thirds of all pollution associated with these bodies of water is caused by non-point sources, with 60 percent of these sources coming from agriculture. This means that 40 percent of all surface water pollution in the U.S. is caused by the various agricultural industries. Therefore, it is not difficult to understand a recent statement made by a ranking governmental official who said that the priorities of USDA should be seriously questioned if water quality is not its number one concern during the 1990s.

Closer to home, the state of Pennsylvania is currently enacting legislation that will require essentially all commercial producers of poultry and large animals to have an approved nutrient (waste) management plan. Certainly, a major reason for enacting such legislation is because of the emphasis in the Chesapeake Bay watershed to "Save the Bay." However, when one considers the elevated levels of nitrates and phosphates found in many of our water supplies, and realizes that mishandled poultry waste can significantly contribute to these levels; it is not hard to imagine that there will be more pressures in this area in the future.

Another issue that we are facing today, and will continue to face in the '90's is food safety. Concerns in this area involve both chemical and microbiological contaminants. Salmonella, Listeria and Campylobacter are the names of groups of bacteria, or microbiological contaminants, which are associated with human illnesses. These organisms, when introduced into a host (humans) in adequate numbers will generally cause headache, fever, nausea and abdominal pains; which can be fatal in very young and older people and those that are chronically ill.

We have known for years that these organisms can cause gastroenteritis. However, recent reports from the Center for Disease Control (CDC), have shown a 4- to 5-fold increase in the infection rates associated with one of these organisms (Salmonella enteritidis) in the Northeastern portion of the U.S. in the last ten years. This has significantly increased the concerns associated with this disease. Unfortunately, for the poultry industry, a number of these cases have been epidemically "associated" with egg consumption.

Since these organisms are heat sensitive, normal cooking times and temperatures will eliminate any threat of illness. However, some uses for eggs allow them to end up in the finished product either raw or only partially cooked. This can cause a problem under the right circumstances.

Fortunately, poultry meat is consumed fully cooked, not rare or medium rare as is beef. The potential problem with poultry is more associated with cross contamination in the kitchen between raw, or the packaging material where the raw product was stored, and the cooked product.

The scenarios outlined above point out potential problems associated with food-borne pathogens. However, possibly the bigger question is, what position or actions should the poultry industry take when facing this concern?

In short, a two-pronged approach is needed. First, consumers must be informed that all poultry products must be both cooked and stored at proper temperatures.

Second, industry must continue to search for ways whereby the potential pathogens can be reduced and in some instances eliminated from the food chain. Many approaches have been and will be explored to accomplish this goal.

Investigations have run the gamut, from attempting to select for genetic resistant stock to cleansing the finished products with heat, irradiation, or various germicidal agents. These efforts must continue and progress must be made on their behalf.

Meanwhile, consumers must be constantly reminded that, even though our products are not perfect, they are among the safest in the world. And that, as an industry, we are placing major emphasis on finding ways to further minimize the risks associated with food-borne pathogens.

Pork Producers Salute Expo Support

DES MOINES, Iowa — Allied industry support helps make World Pork Expo a successful annual event, according to World Pork Expo Manager Gary Slater.

To date, a total of 50 leading allied industry sponsors and corporate friends of the pork industry have pledged $600,000 of support to the fifth annual Expo to be held June 5-7 at the Iowa State Fairgrounds in Des Moines.

America's pork producers would like to recognize and thank all the corporate sponsors for their support of the 1992 World Pork Expo, according to the National Pork Producers Council.

Rodale Begins Farm Composting Project

KUTZTOWN (Berks Co.) — The Rural/Urban Resource Center (R/URC) of the Rodale Institute is seeking farmers who are currently involved in farm composting, particularly composting that utilizes municipal leaves or grass clippings.

The R/URC is beginning a three-year Farm Composting Project with grant money from the Rockefeller Brothers Fund, a national foundation with offices in New York City. The goal of the project is to turn urban yard waste and rural animal waste into agricultural resources.

Grass clippings, leaves, and other yard waste comprise about 18 percent of annual municipal waste. Composting and land application are emerging as the technologies of choice for these materials.

Project manager, Cary Oshins, said that farmers are an economically attractive option for municipalities that are faced with escalating landfill tipping fees or are prohibited altogether from taking loads of yard waste to local landfills.

"We feel that farmers often represent the lowest cost option for managing a town's leaves," said

Oshins.

Farm composting offers a number of benefits. For farmers, it can bring in some extra income. Used on their fields, compost can improve soil fertility, reduce erosion, and increase the ability of the soil to hold water. Municipalities benefit from reduced waste management costs and haulers improve their position by gaining multiple, convenient dropoff sites and reducing transportation costs. Everyone benefits from increased groundwater protection.

"The challenge," said Leon Weber, "is getting all the parties to work together." Weber coordinates on-farm research for Rodale. "That's why we're interested in finding out who's doing what, what's worked and what hasn't. We are just at the beginning of this program. Over the next year we'd like to set up a number of pilot and demonstration projects."

Farmers interested in cooperating with the project, or who would simply like to get more information about composting or using yard wastes, can contact Leon Weber at the Rodale Institute Research Center, 611 Siegfriedale Rd., Kutztown, PA 19530, (215) 683-6383.

MOVE MORE LIFT MORE DO MORE!

The new L-Series Kubota tractors are designed to finish every light construction job with power, ease and improved working efficiency.

Increased front loader lifting capacities help you move more material and lift heavier loads. A powerful hydraulic system results in shorter cycle times.

You'll also be able to do more with the compact Kubota L-Series - 23-49 PTO HP, tight turning radius and 4WD. And the innovative "Ever-Clutch" - a first-of-a-kind wet clutch that doubles clutch life and even comes with its own warranty.

Demanding construction jobs demand more options. The L-Series has them, including a hefty 3-point hitch, a variety of performance matched implements and industrial tires.

Come see how much more you can do with a Kubota.

Poly Square Means Healthier Calves

All-Season

Big Foot 5'x7'6"

The Poly Square Big Foot is constructed of Opaque material to eliminate the solar effect. It blocks out sunheat-not sunlight. Poly Square's inverted ribs and 5'(W)x7'6"(L) make it the biggest unit on the market today and extremely wind resistant. It has no pop rivets which means no breaks or cracks for snow and rain to sift in. The unit weighs 100 pounds plus manger & buckets. And Poly Square Big Foot is large enough so your calf can lay in the center, away from cold walls in the winter. Use Poly Square with our side feed station and bottle holder which is perfect for use with a fence in a more traditional setting.

New Side Hay Feeder — Made especially for Poly Square Big Foot, no other unit has this feature. Also has a center roof vent for better air movement.

BREWEX - For Use In Dairy Feeds

BREWEX is used extensively in complete dairy formulations to contribute utilizable energy. It is a price/performance value when used in dry feeds, liquid feeds and on-farm mixes.

MIX WITH DRY FEEDS: BREWEX is found in commercial pelleted rations for dairy, hogs and poultry as an energy source to replace corn. BREWEX replaces corn on a pound for pound dry basis and provides for improved pellet durability, reduced mineral segregation, dust control and improved palatability in dairy rations.

ON-FARM MIXING

A commercial Jersey dairy farm, having over ten years of experience in feeding BREWEX to partially replace corn finds that

- BREWEX replaced 5% to 10% corn/day
- BREWEX improves butterfat about 0.1%
- BREWEX mixed with forage reduces mortality due to displaced abomasum
- BREWEX helps cattle to stay on feeds

NOTICE OF SALE

Sale of surplus farm property by the United States Government. Small farm consisting of 45.8 acres more or less with dwelling, barn, milk house, 3 silos, and out-buildings formerly owned by Lorin John Overpeck, located on Township Road 546, Old Route 6, Troy Township, Bradford County, Pennsylvania.

BID DEPOSIT: Bid must be accompanied by certified check, cashier's check, postal money order or bank money order payable to the Treasurer of the United States, for at least 10% of the total bid.

RATES AND TERMS:

Cash on terms of not less than 10% down payment with the remaining balance amortized over a period not to exceed 15 years at 10.25% interest rate subject to the agency's credit check and approval.

TERMS OF SALE:

Contact the County Supervisor, Farmers Home Administration, R.R. #5, Box 5030F, Towanda, PA 18848 (located in the Stoll Natural Resource Center, Lake Wesauking Road, Wysox, PA, Bradford County). Telephone (717) 265-6163 to inspect property. Sealed bids are invited and will be accepted until 12 PM EST, February 27, 1992 at the Farmers Home Administration County Office, R.R. #5 Box 5030F, Towanda, PA 18848 and will be opened publicly at 1 PM EST the same date and place. The Government reserves the right to reject any and all bids. Preference will be given to a cash offer which is at least 97% of the highest offer requiring credit. This land will be sold without regard to race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin or marital status. The successful bidder will be required to comply with the provisions of the Food Security Act of 1985 that deals with the "Sod-Buster Swamp-Buster" law. The soils on this farm have been determined to contain highly erodible soils and require an approved SCS conservation system in order to obtain any USDA benefits. This farm also is enrolled in the CLEAN AND GREEN PROGRAM. For more information and bid packets contact the Farmers Home Administration, R.R. #5, Box 5030F, Towanda, PA 18848 or call (717) 265-6163.

INVITATION FOR BIDS

The Snyder County Conservation District is requesting bids for the construction of three ag-waste storage structures. All of which are to be funded in part by the Chesapeake Bay Program. Construction of these projects is expected to begin during April 1992. The sites are located in Centre, Jackson, and Middle Creek townships of Snyder County. A joint site showing will be conducted on all three farms beginning at 10:00 AM on February 27, 1992.

Prospective contractors will receive bid packages which contain Instructions to Bidders, a sample contract form, the plans and specifications for the projects and bid forms.

Strict adherence to the sealed bidding procedures must be met. Any lack of conformance will result in removal of your bid from this solicitation and possibly affect your right to participate in future bids conducted by the Chesapeake Bay Program.

Sealed bids will be accepted until the public bid opening at 1:00 PM on March 13, 1992.

To obtain a bid package for one or all three projects, contact the Snyder County Conservation District at:

E-Z Dumper

TURN YOUR PICKUP INTO A DUMP TRUCK IN LESS THAN ONE HOUR.

E-Z Dumper is the original hydraulically-operated dump unit for pickup trucks. With E-Z Dumper you can unload your pickup truck bed in under thirty seconds with the turn of a key. You'll never have to unload your truck by hand again!

The E-Z Dumper can hold and unload up to 4,000 lbs. or two cubic yards of firewood, topsoil, gravel, mulch, grain, or whatever, depending on the weight-carrying capacity of your truck.

Easy To Install And Operate.
Do-it-yourself installation of E-Z Dumper is a breeze. No alterations are needed for most trucks.

Just slide the dumper into your truckbed, secure it with bolts and holes already on your truck, and you're ready to go. We even include the hydraulic fluid!

A Durable Investment.
E-Z Dumper is designed to take a beating from the toughest loads, from two yards of cordwood to two tons of crushed stone, while providing you with years of reliable service.

The Eby Wrangler... ★ Better Looking ★ Better Built ★ Better Value

The Wrangler Model 2000-OH represents a new level of value in livestock trailers.

Its standard specifications, top-quality components and proven engineering are found in other Wrangler models. But the new 2000-OH is less expensive. By standardizing height and width and by limiting the number of optional accessories, Eby lowers the production costs for this model. Now you can get all our traditional craftsmanship in a top-value gooseneck.

Unlike other "budget" trailers on the market, the Wrangler 2000-OH achieves a price breakthrough without compromising quality. Consider these features, standard on the new Wrangler 2000-OH:

- 7,000# Dexter Torque-Flex axles
 - Steel-belted radial tires, 10-ply rating
 - Aerodynamic, attractive design
 - Sealed beam lights with enclosed, externally accessible wiring
 - 2-year warranty
- Specifications
- Available in 14', 16', 18', 20' lengths
 - 7' Width
 - 6'6" Inside height

Give Your Pigs A Headstart To Market.

There's an old saying that goes, "well begun is half done." Those are words to remember if you want to get the most for your pigs come market time. Something else to remember is the Master Mix line of starter feeds: Crate-Mate, Premawean and Premapig.

Crate-Mate is the sow replacer that gets even your smallest runts and orphans off to a healthy, profitable start. And Premawean/Premapig is the two phase program that gets your pigs in and out of the nursery with the fastest, leanest gains in the business.

Talk to your Master Mix dealer today. Because if you want to give your pigs a healthy headstart to market, you'll want to give them the Master Mix line of starter feeds.

This Little Piggy Went To Market.

If you're looking to increase your operation's profits, getting runts and orphaned pigs to market is a whole lot better than the alternative. And thanks to Crate-Mate, the pelleted sow replacer from Master Mix, little guys like this can get off to a healthier and potentially more profitable start.

But Crate-Mate does more than just reduce your litter's mortality rate. It can be an integral part of your entire early weaning program. Crate-Mate's special formula allows your pigs to extract more nutrition from the feed, for faster and more efficient gains. And the quicker they get into the nursery, the faster you realize your profits.

If you're looking to increase the efficiency of your early weaning program, talk to your Master Mix dealer. Because when it comes to getting little piggies to market, nothing works like Crate-Mate.

Brown's Meetings Focus On Rumen

FLEETWOOD (Berks Co.) — Recently F.M. Brown's Sons completed a series of four customer meetings attended by approximately 500 dairy and livestock producers.

Ruminant nutrition was the topic, with speakers of local and national prominence highlighting the complex interactions between carbohydrates, fats, fiber, degradable protein, undegradable protein and the inter-relationship between these nutrient needs and the type of farm crops we plant today and in the future.

Dr. Walter Kennett, Brown's director of nutrition, started the program off by highlighting proteins and their amino acid building blocks. There are 20 amino acids and 10 are considered essential because the dairy cow cannot build them at the cellular level.

He compared the amino acid levels of milk and body tissue with those found in various feedstuffs the cow digests. The rumen bacteria produced by a healthy cow provide the best match. For example, the amino acid methionine makes up 2.7 percent of the amino acids in both milk and body tissue. Ruman microbial protein contains 2.7 percent or a perfect match. Unfortunately, rumen size and feed intake limits the amount of rumen microbial protein. It can only provide about 65% of an average cows protein needs and even less for an extremely heavily lactating cow.

If our goal is to provide a cow with an optimum level of digestible amino acids, then 35 to 40 percent of these amino acids must bypass the rumen. If protein sources were ranked on amino acid content, undegradable soybean meal, fish meal, and brewers grains would rank second, third and fourth in quality of amino acids as related to the production of milk and meat.

Recognizing this, Brown's worked with a mid-west soybean processing company to develop a uniform special processed soybean meal which is high in undegradable protein and energy. This product called Morameal is added to many Brown's Flex-Formula programs to optimize the amino acid profile available to the intestine. This product, combined with fish meal and Megalac, allows Brown's to precisely formulate rations using their new 30 percent Prolac Pellets and their 24 percent, 34 percent and 36 percent lineup of Amino Plus feeds.

Brown's has also incorporated this concept into their new 1350/21 heifer raising program. By balancing for total amino acid nutrition, we can match high energy rations with the nutrients required for optimum growth. The goal of this program is to raise heifers out so that they are gaining 2 pounds per day, showing heats at 8-9 months, reaching a wither height of 52 inches at twelve months and freshening at 21 months. At a cost of $1.50 per day to grow out a heifer, saving three months in age of freshening offers a significant economic return. Brown's Calf Starter, Calf Grower, 40 Hef-R-B300 and 34 Amino Plus feeds are the base feeds for this rapid grow out.

The dairy and beef industry exist because ruminants can convert fiber efficiently to milk and meat. This puts them at a competitive advantage to chickens, turkeys, and hogs which compete with the human population for the same food nutrient sources. Dr. Mike Watkins, technical director of Diamond V Mills, reviewed why maximum digestion of fiber in the rumen is critical to efficient production. Diamond V Yeast Culture is a probiotic which stimulates rumen microbial production. The rumen needs to ferment 3.3 lbs. of carbohydrates to make one pound of bacterial protein. Break-down products of proper rumen fermentation include ammonia, amino acids, peptides, isoacids, and volatile fatty acids (VFAs).

This VFAs are very important since they are a primary energy source in the ruminant animal. For each four pounds of fiber broken down in the rumen, six-tenths of a pound of bacterial protein may be manufactured. He concluded his talk by citing two recent research trials which demonstrated that Diamond V Yeast Culture improved rumen efficiency by approximately 10% resulting in 3.5 to 7.5 pounds higher fat corrected milk yield.

Dr. Kenneth Cummings followed up on this concept by discussing how to maximize energy intake in high producing cows. These cows need energy to produce, grow, maintain body condition, and reproduce. Energy intake is achieved by first getting maximum intake of a correctly balanced ration, then adding fat to the diet to achieve fat levels of five to six percent. Beyond this point, added fat or carbohydrates will result in reduced fiber digestibility. If a cow continues to milk heavily, then she will rapidly lose body weight unless we supplement her diet with rumen inert fat.

This is extremely critical in early lactation. In one study, severe loss in body weight exceeding 2 pounds per day resulted in delaying first ovulation from 27 to 42 days and in reducing first service conception rate from 65 percent to 17 percent. Cummings then went on to point out that a product such as Brown's 30 percent Prolac Pellets serves a dual function by reducing rapid body weight losses, and at the same time, providing the high producing cow with a high quality source of rumen undegradable amino acids. Research has shown Megalac contains a Net Energy Lactation value of 2.91 Meal per pound or about three times as much energy as one pound of corn. In properly balanced diets, a summary of 20 university studies showed cows receiving Megalac produced 5 1/2 pounds more milk a day. Higher peaks coupled with good persistence mean cows on this type of diet will have a lactation average of 1250 pounds more milk. Brown's 30 percent Prolac Pellets, which is 1/6th Megalac, provide a convenient way to get cows to consume a high fat diet.

Eric Scheib, Dr. Carl Brown, and Brown's area directors finished off the program. Eric Scheib, manager of Brown's Seed Division, discussed crop selection for optimum nutrient production and for soil nutrient consumption. He cited pending nutrient management legislation and pointed out how crops such as improved varieties of orchardgrass, when harvested for optimum protein production, could produce as much protein per acre as alfalfa, and consume more nitrogen from the soil. He stressed harvesting crops at their optimum point for nutrient production, and selecting varieties with their ultimate use in mind. He showed Brown's silage test plot research results which showed that a top silage variety, Eastland 799, produced over 2 1/2 times the Net Energy per acre of the bottom variety, even though the poor variety is excellent as a shelling corn. He, also, reviewed some of the new varieties available for double cropping and for drought conditions.

Dr. Carl Brown, Brown's sales manager and Brown's area directors of marketing and nutrition finished up the program using slides to demonstrate techniques used by current Brown's customers to maximize efficient milk production. Brown demonstrated how to monitor changes that feeding and management have on milk production. He used the F.M. Brown's dairy herd as an example showing, by use of graphs, how the implementation of Brown's Prolac, Cobactin, Amino Plus feeds, and adding a TMR system helped the Brown's herd move from a 19,000 rolling herd average to a 21,500 pound average since September of 1990. This resulted in an increase of over 200,000 pounds of milk per man. He concluded his presentation by pointing out that through the use of products such as Brown's Amino Plus, Diamond V Yeast, Megalac, and Brown's Flex-Formula ration balancing system, Brown's can construct an optimally balanced ration for any type of feed management system.

OPEN HOUSE WEEK!

Monday, February 17 thru Saturday, February 22
Daily - 7:00 AM to 5:00 PM Saturday - 7:00 AM to 12:00 Noon

BIG MACHINERY & PARTS DISCOUNTS THE ENTIRE WEEK!
Don't Pass Up A Good Opportunity To Own Quality Equipment
At The Right Price!

Dear Valued Customer:

During Our Open House Week We Have A Special Day Tues., Feb. 18, 1992 Set Aside For Seminars & Large Indoor Machinery Displays...

This is your personal invitation to a special event at Binkley & Hurst Bros., Inc. Once again, we have put forth great effort to assemble an exceptional program format for our 1992 CUSTOMER APPRECIATION DAY. We have selected relevant issues for our seminars and the resource people we've been able to enlist are well informed concerning their respective fields of involvement.

The following itinerary is a guide covering events of the day, but many activities, displays and other items of general interest will be ongoing throughout the day and evening.

7:00 A.M. Arrive at Binkley & Hurst Bros. early for parts specials before the rush. (Coffee & doughnuts)
7:00-10:00 A.M. Visit manufacturers reps and equipment displays

* SPECIAL NOTE *

These three morning topics will qualify each farmer in attendance for necessary pesticide update points. Two core and one category point will be given. Our instructor is Mike Brubaker of Brubaker Agronomic Consulting Service, Lititz.

10:00-10:30 A.M. Independent Field Results- varieties, fertilizers, herbicides, insecticides, crop rotation tillage practices, (soil hardpan and its effect on crop yields)

10:30-11:00 A.M. "Pesticide Safety and the Private Applicator" film and discussions on pesticide safety

11:00-11:30 A.M. Pesticide Safety Review - "Pesticide Poisoning Signs and Symptoms"

Mike Brubaker

11:30 A.M. 12:00 P.M. MAGNUM & MAXXUM - LOOK AT THE LEADERS Dennis Hann, CASE IH

12:00-1:30 P.M. Lunch - visit reps & displays, purchase parts

1:30 ? BACK BY POPULAR DEMAND - PLANTING CLINIC, Joe Whitney, SI Distributing
This segment of our 1991 meeting received more affirmation than any other in the history of the dealership. Heavy emphasis will be given to maintenance, upkeep, service and proper setting of planters for maximum operation. DON'T MISS IT! — Kinze, Deere, New Idea and Case IH
COMPUTERIZED FINGER-PICKUP METER TEST STAND IN OPERATION

7:30 P.M. Farm Safety Session - Mr. Sam Steel, Penn State University
Demonstrations, video presentations, precautionary tips and film "Field of Danger" (Children & Adults On The Farm)

Stop By Our Booth At The KEYSTONE
PORK CONGRESS

OPEN HOUSE SPECIAL!

New case ih 265

Offset Tractor Equipped With 1 Row
Cultivator

The Case International 265 Offset Tractor is ideal for delicate crops. Its offset design gives you a full view of the row when cultivating. The 24.4" front axle clearance easily clears vegetables, and other tall, bushy crops without damage. And the tight turning radius gives you great agility, even in small or irregular fields.

The Case IH 3-cylinder diesel engine provides 27 hp and the nine forward/three reverse speed transmission lets you choose the right gear for the job. A 540/1150 rpm rear PTO and Category I 3-point hitch are standard equipment.

Optional Synchronesh Transmission, 11.2x28 Rear Tires & 5.50x15 Front Tires, Power Steering, 2 Post ROPS (No Roof Canopy As Shown In Picture) Can Be Ordered, Tilt-Hood For Easy Servicing.

OUR TRACTOR ALSO HAS AN OPTIONAL CENTER PTO LOCATION KIT SO YOU CAN POWER ALL TYPES OF 3 PT. DRIVEN MACHINERY SUCH AS ROTARY MOWERS, 3 PT. SCRAPER BLADES, POST HOLE DIGGERS, ETC... See Binkley & Hurst On This 1 Only Quality Case IH Diesel Power & Care For Your Crops.

Gauge Wheels A trademark on all flexible Sunflower discs is front mounted gauge wheels. This important feature prevents the front gangs of the wing frame from gouging, buckling or cutting deeper than the other gangs, promoting a level, ridge or furrow-free field. The heavy-duty gauge wheel features a 5-bolt hub and 8.00x10 ply tire and tube.

DOUBLE OFFSET DESIGN

Eliminates center ridging while cutting the entire width at an even depth. Self-leveling hitch provides fore & aft leveling at any working depth.

GANG CONSTRUCTION

1/4 "x24" or 22" Blades are available on 1 1/4 " stress proof standard gang shafts. Gangs are hydraulically torqued to 1200+ lbs. and are spring loaded to insure maximum trouble-free acres. Heavy duty scrapers complete the gang assembly making it truly SUNFLOWER SUPERIOR.

TRANSPORT WIDTH

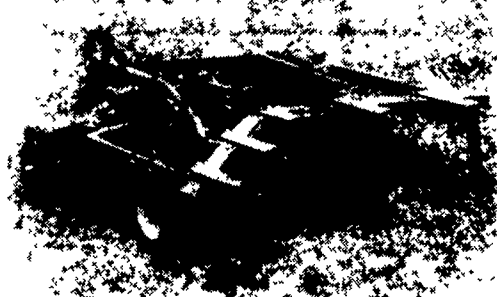

Go from field working to highway transport in seconds. Transport width on 18'-21'-24' units are only 12'4" barely the width of your dual wheels, leaving plenty of room for traffic to pass. Transport height is within legal limits.

NEW AT BINKLEY & HURST BROS.
FROM SUNFLOWER:

MODEL 4010/4110

COULTER RIPPER

Sunflower's Coulter Ripper is for today's conservation minded farmer demanding deep tillage with minimal residue disturbance. These durable machines feature adjustable front mounted coulters on 7 1/4 " centers. The coulters blades have an added advantage of slicing hard ground to keep clod size to a minimum. The V-bar ripper design gives added trash clearance and pulls smoother than straight-bar rippers. These coulters rippers are built Sunflower tough and no ballast is added to the frame increasing the structural strength. Check out Sunflower's latest edition to its growing family of quality tillage equipment at a farm show or dealer near you.

Adjustable Coulter Gangs:
The 4010/4110 both feature adjustable coulters gangs that can be raised completely in clean ground. Ratchet Jack Adjustment is standard equipment (see right photo). Optional Hydraulic Gang Adjustment makes on the go changes or raising the coulters completely out of the way an easy task from the tractor seat.

The planter you can grow with...

The new KINZE Series II Planters introduce an exciting, innovative modular design concept that offers you total flexibility in planting options plus the most efficient precision placement planting technology

Think of the possibilities!

With KINZE's Single Frame Planter you can plant 30" corn and minutes later, convert to 15", even 10" row spacing for beans or for small grains

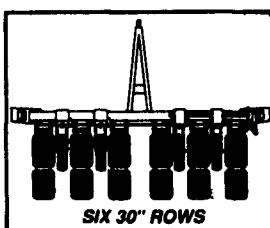

Or, set it up with liquid or dry fertilizer options instead of push units and save the extra trips and expense of other fertilizer application systems

Or, you can add the front-mounted Double Frame attachment and do it all—standard rows, fertilizer and split rows. All with the same planter, same drive components, same drive system. Without sacrificing one ounce of that quality KINZE construction

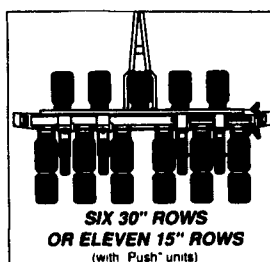

The new KINZE Series II Precision Placement Planters
More planting options
More fertilizer options
More spacing options
A smoother, more dependable drive system
Like no other planter in the field today!

KINZE ROW UNITS

THE KEY TO EARLY SEED GERMINATION

You start with a simple, dependable row unit design with easy adjustments that give you exact depth control, and the most ideal seed-to-soil contact possible. At KINZE we call it "Precision Placement." Simply put, it's the toughest most dependable system in the field today.

How does it work? At the exact point of seed placement, 15" double disc openers and dual gauge wheels combine to mold a clean, consistent V-formed seed trench at a pre-set depth. Trailing V-closing wheels then securely press the seed trench walls on each side of the seed for positive seed-to-soil contact, virtually eliminating air pockets and leaving a loose "hill" of soil on top of the seed. It's the ideal environment for the emerging seedling.

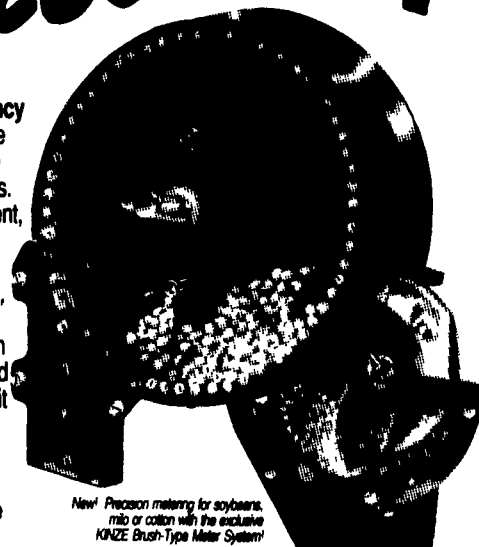

Each row unit is independently adjustable for depth and down pressure. Spring-loaded parallel arms give you all the flexibility you need. Down pressure? Your choice. Standard, quick-adjustable dual springs for conventional planting, or quad springs (shown right) for conservation tillage. Each with four positions so you can set the unit's down force for your conditions.

Simply & Precisely

Discover the simplicity and efficiency of KINZE 2000 Series Planters. The clean, uncluttered toolbars. The wide variety of planting and fertilizer options. The ease of maintenance. The efficient, mechanical technology of the KINZE row unit and seed meters. (Seed meters which precisely singulate corn, soybeans, milo and cotton with more accuracy and more dependability than any other metering systems in the field today.) The unique, patented push unit design which eliminates the cost and congestion of side-by-side units. The ability to fold, flex and adapt.

Discover KINZE today, because the more you know about planters, the better you'll feel about KINZE. See your KINZE Dealer for all the details.

Operating Guidelines

As in all dual wheel applications, Snap-On duals should be maintained at lower air pressure than the original tractor tires.

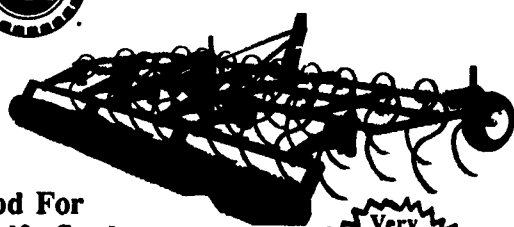

To remove Snap-On duals, simply position one clamp at top center and remove all other clamps. Then, using the furnished handle for additional leverage, disengage the remaining clamp to loosen the dual.

Unverferth's economical new S-tine cultivator teams rugged S-tines with an aggressive roller basket for thorough secondary tillage.

WINCO PTO GENERATORS

Power falls at the worst possible time—restart your whole farm with the number one PTO generator the world over!

ENERGX Corporation, the world's largest PTO generator manufacturer, designs Winco PTO units from the ground up for farm standby power. Built to handle motor loads for the duration of the power outage, and rated for continuous duty operation.

Big motors in your feed room groan to a halt. Vent fans, milk coolers stop. There are no lights, no heating, and no power in the house. For how long? Nobody knows! But with a Winco PTO generator, your farm will be back in business in minutes.

Winco PTO generators are available in sizes from 8KW to 75KW continuous duty. The Maxi-Watt® field coil windings provide extra capacity to restart a big farm at the busiest time of the day.

Winco PTO units will run a combination motor load of up to 1 HP per KW.

HESSTON

Simply Lasts Longer

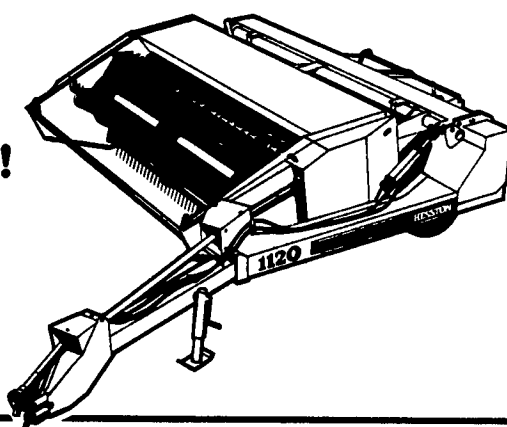

One-Piece Frame and Simplified Gearbox Designed for Longer Life, Rougher Fields.

- Rugged one-piece welded frame can't vibrate apart like a bolted design.
- Constant velocity PTO for sharper turns with easy hook-up.
- Copper bearing, culvert grade galvanized heavy steel steamless sides.
- Parts and labor included in our special 10-year warranty.
- Competitive finance programs available. Be sure to ask about trade-ins and cash discounts.
- Simplified single gearbox drives both beater and conveyor for less maintenance.
- Clad Tuff™ fiberglass composite floor won't pit or corrode, stays slick.

Have It Your Way - Versatility With Economy!

Presenting the

- Hesston Model 1110 - 7'3" cut
- Hesston Model 1120 - 9'3" cut

These new Hesston pull-type mower-conditioners are designed to cut fast, dry hay quickly and save the leaves.

The reliable halfswaybar sickle drive (1700 spm) cuts the crop quickly and the standard 4 bat reel (5 or 6 bats optional) delivers the crop directly to the full width, engaging conditioner rolls. Swath shield can be changed easily by moving one lever, and forming shields are adjustable for any size of windrow.

See all of the value-packed features of these outstanding Hesston-built machines at your dealer today!

FREE YOURSELF FROM SPREADER CHAINS AND SAVE MONEY

The proven Hydra-Spread design can free you from the grief and maintenance of spreader apron chains for good!

This low maintenance spreader features solid poly boards both on the sides and the floor for slippery, no-stick performance. Hydraulic push power replaces the extensive mechanism needed in ordinary spreaders.

Why pay more for yesterday's ideas and designs? The design of tomorrow is PRICED RIGHT and will be on the job for years. We deliver to your farm.

Atlantic's tradition as the leader in profitable herd improvement continues with this sire summary.

You identify what genetic improvements you want to make and we will provide the sires to get the job done—whatever it is. Not only will we provide the sires, but you will also receive the best value, as well. Yes, at reasonable prices—but as important, you also receive industry-leading reliability. This was the 14th consecutive summary that no Code 8 Holstein sire dropped over 300 PTA-milk. In fact, the largest drop for a Code 8 sire this time was just over 150M.

Simply said, you'll get what you pay for from Atlantic!

Trade Info At Corn Classic

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — The Chicago Board of Trade (CBOT) is currently in the process of fine-tuning several automated systems designed to improve the efficiency of the futures trading process.

One of those devices, a handheld electronic trading card known as the Automated Data Input Terminal or AUDIT, is intended to provide a 100 percent, tamper-proof audit trail.

Together with other automated systems being developed by the CBOT and the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, AUDIT is projected to enhance efficiency of the "open outcry" auction system of trading.

CBOT First Vice Chairman Dale Lorenzen will address the AUDIT system in the "What You Need To Know About Electronic Trading" breakout session during the 34th annual National Corn Growers Association (NCGA) Corn Classic. The convention and trade show will be held February 23-25 in Orlando, Fla.

For additional registration and program information for the NCGA Corn Classic, call the special Corn Classic toll-free hotline number (800) 279-1425 at GROUPers Travel.

Walking Horse Club Announces Spring Clinic

GREEN LANE (Montgomery Co.) — More and more people are discovering the easy gaits and gentle disposition of the Tennessee Walking Horse and welcome the opportunity to learn more about this expanding, versatile breed.

The Pennsylvania Pleasure Walking Horse Association is pleased to announce that it will again offer several days of camaraderie and educational experience for new and old plantation pleasure walking horse fans.

The clinic will be held on March 21 and 22 at Chaperell Farms in Denver, Pa.

The instructors this year will be H.T. and Wilda Derickson, who are much in demand as clinicians and have very successful show careers.

H.T. is one of the most successful trainers in the walking horse industry, specializing in the plantation pleasure horse. He has consistently produced blue ribbon winners at nationally recognized shows.

Wilda, who is known for her expertise in the versatility of the breed, is also recognized for her accomplishments in equitation. She is the trainer of 1990 and 1991 World Champion rider, Alice Klein.

The clinic is open to beginners and experienced riders, whether interested in showing or pleasure riding.

This year's clinic will center on show ring etiquette and catching the judge's eye. Time will also be spent on trail etiquette and preparation for trail and endurance riding.

New this year will be informal show classes and an exhibition of Chaperell Farms horses on Saturday afternoon.

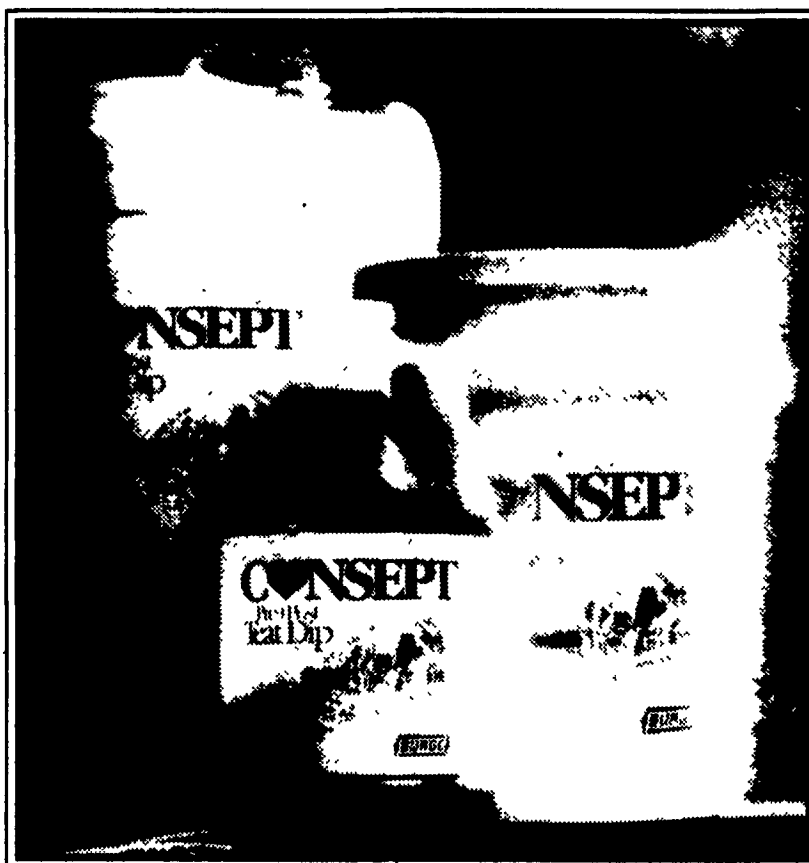

Those wanting to bring a horse for evaluation and help will need to register early. Individual attention will be given to each horse and rider. The problem along with corrective measures, will be interpreted to the participating spectators.

For more information, call (215) 536-3101 after 7:30 p.m.

How To Figure Game Bird Costs

Milton E. Madison
Agricultural Economist
Penn State

Knowledge of your production costs allows you to make comparisons across your business. If you have more than one business operation, (game birds and grain farming), you can compare the operations to see which one is operating most efficiently and which is generating most of your expenses.

If any of your competitors know their production costs and are willing to share them, comparisons can be made across the two businesses to see if there may be ways to save costs in your operation. Comparisons can also be made between game birds and other businesses to see what similarities there are in costs.

Comparisons across years of operation of a business can also prove helpful in recognizing progress in performance and may indicate areas where adjustments are necessary. Analysis of production costs will allow you to spot problem areas before your checking account balance or your banker bring them to your attention, when it may be too late to make adjustments.

Production cost information is helpful in making pricing decisions. All game bird producers are hurt when a grower sells birds below cost of production without knowing it! Bankers are also much more receptive to loan requests if you have accurate records or projections of your production costs. They will want to see some evidence of a market for birds and a projected price as well, but production costs are a good start.

The timing of production expenses will also allow you to let the banker know when money will be needed and when the prospect of repayment will appear. Production cost records are very helpful when tax time rolls around. It gets pretty hard to remember all your expenses a year and three months after the fact if you have not kept records. Take advantage of all deductions you are legally entitled to by keeping good records.

What are production costs? They can be broken down into two parts, variable and fixed. Variable costs are those costs that will only be incurred if you operate the business. These include repairs and maintenance on production equipment; electricity; gas for heaters auto, truck, and tractor; birds (may include hatchery expenses if you do your own hatching); feed labor; insurance on birds, supplies, and equipment; supplies.

Fixed costs are those costs that will have to be paid whether you operate your business or not and include taxes on land and buildings; insurance for buildings; depreciation on buildings, pens, and equipment.

The difficulty most people have in keeping track of production costs is that they do not occur in nice, easily identifiable packages for which you write a check. Often costs need to be split between two businesses on the same operation or between two operations if you share equipment with other operators. Utilities often are not measured separately for home and game bird use, so these expenses are hard to track. Also, if you have hobbies associated with game birds, which expenses do you assign to the business and which to

Record keeping is the key to success in business! If you do not do it properly, your business may turn into a very expensive hobby.

Production costs are only half the story. The other half is what returns can your business generate. With both sets of information, you can monitor your business's health with liquidity ratios, return on investment, cash flow budgets, balance sheets, and income projections.

These measures can answer the question—should I be in this business? If the answer to that question is yes, you need to think about further business planning.

What are your business objectives—supply pheasants to preserves, run a preserve, or provide game bird meat to restaurants?

What are your firm's objectives—cheapest birds, best quality birds, do anything to stay in business?

Who are the customers for your business—what do they need and when do they need it? What is the potential market—size, competitors, cost of operation, competitor's reaction if you enter market?

A market plan goes along with your business plan.

What form of game bird will you produce—pen raised for hunting, house raised for meat, hatching eggs, pheasant, chukar, quail, or turkey?

Where will your product be sold—will customers come to you or will you deliver the product to them?

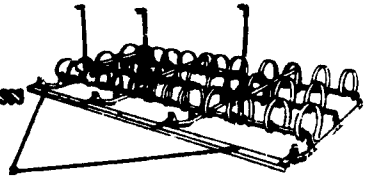

Timing—when does the customer want the product? Fall only, year around, spring only?

Possession—how will your customer take ownership of the product, can you provide credit, time to pay after birds received, quantity discounts, or one price for all and cash at time of delivery?

Those of you who do not know your production costs need to start keeping records to ensure the health of your business. Those of who have records may be able to use them more fully by doing additional business and market planning.

Hey! Folks

If your cows are slipping and falling, it ain't my fault because I have a machine called a Scabbler that will fix that concrete so your cows won't keep slipping all the time.

We've got service all around this section of the country, and I have a fellow just jumping to do your job mighty fast.

And that ain't all, our prices are right reasonable, and if you're a tightwad we'll let you do the job yourself if you've got over 500 square feet. It can save you right smart a money.

So call me on my nickel at 800-692-0123. If I'm not by the phone, some real live person will take your number, and I'll try to get back to you real soon. Usually somebody is awake in this outfit, so you just call any time day or night. But, please mind the Lord, and don't call on Sunday.

Just one more thing. We fellows make our living doing this kind of work, and we've got children to feed and bills. That's our side of it, but you've got such things too. A lot of people tell us that this Scabbling saves a whole lot more than it costs. So go ahead and do it. It'll put shoes on everybody's feet.

The Scabbler Man
